PLAN ORATORICAL CONTEST AT MEET

Supt. of United C. E. Society Announces Educational Move For Convention

REV. DANIEL A. POLING Christian Endeavorers have one of the best opportunities offered to them along educational lines and helps. The Rev. Daniel A. Poling, associate and citizenship superintendent of the United Society, Boston, announces that in connection with the International Convention at New York it is planned to have a Christian Endeavor oratorical contest.

The contest will be held on Monday forenoon, July 9, during the special institute session, which will be similar to the meeting which was such a great success in Chicago. Rules of Contest The following are the general rules which will apply: 1.—One representative from each state or province, the winner of a contest held in connection with the state or provincial convention. Where a contest has not been held the State Executive Committee may select a representative. This latter ruling is made in recognition of the fact that it will be impossible this year for some states, whose conventions have already been held or fall late in June, to select their representatives by the contest method in time for the orations to be in the hands of the judges on thought and composition.
