"Pollyanna," a comedy of optimism by Catherine Chisholm Cushing, founded upon Eleanor H. Por"Pollyanna" ter's widely read gladstories, comes to the Orpheum Theater, one night and Saturday matinee, April 21. The original cast is promised, including Patricia Collinge, as "Pollyanna;" Oswald Yorke, as "Pendleton, the hermit; Nanette Comstock, as "Aunt Polly;" Joseph Jefferson, as "Dr. Chitton;" Selma Hall, as the Irish maid; Helen Weathersby and Maud Hosford as the loquacious "Ladles Aiders;" Stephen Davis, as "Jimmy" at 12; Henry Duffey impersonates him at 17. The scenes are laid in the community where a young girl, unconsciously by example in quaint philosophy, spreads happiness among the discontented and embittered. trout season opened at daybreak, and where they PLAY TO-MORROW reports indicate a busy day for fisher-Henry W. Savage's great musical and dramatic production of "Everywoman" comes to the Orpheum. "Everywoman" 23. This is the one and only "Everywoman" company. There has never been a number two, or secondary, company. "Everywoman" is one of those rare creations which has made theatrical history. Written by Walter Browne, it is revolutionary in its every conception. It follows no beaten path. It is a pioneer. With its magnificent stage pictures, its wealth of costumes and scenery it bewilders and astonishes. With its fine wit, delicate humor and keen "Everywoman" india a response in every heart, touches a chord in every breast. It has a message for every one.
