SEWING SCHOOLS' SUCCESSFUL WORK

Thirty-Eight Years Rounded Out by Workers of Market Square Church

The thirty-seventh session of the Market Square Presbyterian Sewing School closed with special exercises on Saturday morning with Mrs. Herman P. Miller, the superintendent, presiding.

The Rev. George Shively Rentz, assistant pastor of the church, delivered an address and awarded prizes of small silk flags for attendance and excellence of work.

The secretary, Mrs. Meade D. Detweiler, announced five officers, 36 teachers and 247 pupils in the school the past year.

A most interesting item is that Miss Elizabeth Watts, of this year's class, with Esther Conrad and Miss Florence Rinkebach, two former graduates of the school, opened the first sewing school in the Bethlehem Lutheran church this year.

Dr. Silas C. Swallow Among Those Who Heed Request to Petition the President

Hundreds of appeals have gone forth from this city to President Wilson as the result of pledges to work for prohibition for the duration of the war made at the recent temperance meeting in Grace Methodist Church.

Among those present was Dr. Silas C. Swallow. His letter to the President follows: "To Woodrow Wilson: 'Honored President—Washington banished tyranny in the eighteenth century and Lincoln destroyed slavery in the nineteenth century. The twentieth century offers equally world-wide and eternal honors to a President who, by proclamation as commander-in-chief of our army and navy, or by immediate recommendation to Congress, shall as a civic, military or humanitarian necessity, annihilate the treason-inciting, grain-destroying, life-poisoning, crime-producing liquor traffic.

Christianity should at least show itself as great as Confuciusism that doomed the opium trade, and as great as Zarlism, that fifty years ago liberated with a scratch of the pen twenty millions of serfs, and recently by ukase destroyed the empire of the vodka crime. Here is the century-wide one man opportunity among a hundred millions. We have faith to believe that it will be improved.

Dr. J. Penteado Bill is a commissioned officer in the U. S. Medical Reserve Corps with the rank of first lieutenant, receiving his commission in July, 1916. The New York Times says that he is to begin army service at Governor's Island examining recruits.
