

FRENCH TAKE 12 MILES OF GERMAN FRONT

All of First and Part of Second Line Between Rheims and the Champagne Taken by Storm; Teuton Loss Estimated at 30,000; More Than 14,000 Prisoners Taken Along With Twelve Cannon; Greatest Battle Since the Marne

By Associated Press

Continuing their great offensive along the Aisne and in the Champagne the French have made further important gains. More than 14,000 prisoners have been taken in the two days of the attack.

The battle, described as the greatest since the battle of the Marne, and considered a logical continuance of that struggle after an interval of more than two years, developed during last night's heavy fighting in the region northeast of Soissons where General Nivelle's troops made their most notable progress.

Pushing far north of the Aisne, the French completed their occupation of Chivy, east of the Oise-Aisne canal, and pressed on to Braye-en-Laonnois, which was entered by French patrols. On the Aisne further west they occupied the village of Chavonne.

To the east of this region several fortified positions were wrested from the Germans in the neighborhood of Ville-au-Bois three miles southeast of Craone and on the main highway leading northwest from Rheims.

Momentarily halting in the Champagne district to organize their positions the French were attacked in the process by the Germans. Three counterattacks were delivered at Mont Carnillet, ten miles southeast of Rheims. All these German reactions were beaten off with heavy losses to the attacking forces.

While the French are delivering their heavy blows in the Aisne-Champagne battle the British are organizing their forces for a renewal of the struggle in the Arras region. The process of envelopment is being continued about Lens and the similar operation at St. Quentin is registering progress.

In their operations northwest of St. Quentin, General Haig's forces last night straightened out their line by an advance of more than a mile, capturing the village of Villers-Guislain and made further progress east of Epehy toward the St. Quentin-Cambrai railway opposite Le Catelet. They also improved their position in the vicinity of Lagnicourt, north of the Bapaume-Cambrai road, which the Germans made a desperate but vain attempt to hold after entering it in their attack on a six-mile front last Saturday.

HEAVY FIRING HEARD AT SEA OFF CAPE COD

Four Naval Stations Report Sound of Guns; Battle Gains Some Credence; No Comment Is Made on Official Statement Sent to Washington; Exchange of Salutes Suggested as Possible Cause of Shots

By Associated Press

Washington, April 18.—A report from a Cape Cod coast guard station forwarded to the Navy Department by the Boston naval district commandant says there was heavy firing this morning at sea north of the station. Heavy guns were heard in rapid succession. No explanation of the firing was obtainable when the report was transmitted.

Three coast guard stations in the Cape Cod region joined in the report says that the firing was heard at 9:41 o'clock this morning. All agreed that the sound indicated the use of heavy guns fired in rapid succession.

The regularity of the shots led to the suggestion that it might have been an exchange of salutes by naval vessels, although it was stated that vessels on active war duty are not permitted to thus reveal their positions.

Naval officials at Boston explained that the firing probably indicated that a naval engagement was in progress.

Boston, April 18.—Reports of heavy gunfire at the entrance of Massachusetts bay sent a thrill along the coast to-day. Three coast guard stations on Cape Cod successively reported to the navy yard here that they had counted distinct and repeated guns from the north and northeast of the tip of the cape.

It was believed at the navy yard that American vessels were engaged with the enemy. Inside the cape a heavy fog hung over the waters, but outside the weather was calm and a gentle breeze was blowing. No warship was sighted by the three stations, and after thirty minutes the firing ceased.

Suggest Salute It was suggested that ships of the allies which are constantly on patrol duty might have come up with friendly warships and salutes exchanged. However, naval men could not understand warships on active duty betraying their location through naval etiquette. They believed that there was no saluting unless prearranged and of which there was no knowledge at the navy yard.

Subsequent attempts to learn something more definite failed and an explanation of the firing awaited reports from war vessels in the vicinity. Meantime steps were taken to meet any emergency. The first report reached Lieutenant E. G. Blaklee, in charge of the radio naval district, which includes all the New England coast from
