AOKI ON JOB
Pekin, April 18.—Lieutenant General Aoki, the distinguished Japanese officer appointed as military adviser to President Li Yuan-hung, has arrived in Peking and entered upon his new duties. It has been carefully pointed out by both Japanese and Chinese officials that General Aoki's position is far less important than it would be if he had been named military adviser to the Chinese government, as was originally contemplated.

BIG BUILDING SINKS
Mexico City, April 13.—A commission of engineers has been appointed to decide on some plan to check the sinking of the magnificent building housing the Department of Communications and Public Works. This building, the handsomest in Mexico, is slowly settling into the swampy subsoil. It was completed and opened in 1910.

U-BOAT, DISGUISED AS SAILING SHIP, CHASES STEAMER

Submersible Carries Canvas Superstructure to Hide Identity

By Associated Press
New York, April 18.—A German submarine disguised as a sailing ship carrying three masts, was sighted by the British steamship Southerndown on April 4 when about 300 miles west of Lisbon and for two hours the British freighter was chased, escaping capture or destruction through her superior speed, according to officers of the Southerndown on arrival of the vessel to-day at an American port.

The submarine, the officers said, was recognized as an enemy craft when she approached within about one mile. What appeared to be a false superstructure of canvas surmounted by the masts was on her decks, and it was while a portion of this canvas was being cleared away to enable a deck gun to get into action that her true identity was disclosed. The glistening hull of the rounded deck being plainly seen through glasses. Full speed was crowded on the engines of the freighter and for more than an hour the race was about even; then the steamer slowly drew away. For some reason unknown to officers of the ship the submarine did not fire on her.

Yesterday when near the American coast, the officers of the United States cruiser Birmingham came up and on signal the Southerndown was stopped. An officer and an armed guard came on board from the American warship and established the identity of the Southerndown before she was allowed to proceed.

GEN. WEYLER LAST OF WAR FIGURES

Virtually All of Other Leaders in Cuban Campaign Are Dead

Madrid, April 15.—General Weyler, captain general of Cuba during the most critical period of its transition, is one of the few remaining figures of the Spanish-American War. Practically all the others are gone. Admiral Cervera, who was first bottled up in Santiago harbor and then made the dash against the fleets of Sampson and Schley; General Martini, who fought the land fight at Santiago against Sifter, Leonard Wood, Roosevelt and the others; and General Blanco who was in command at Havana until the evacuation.

General Weyler, as one of the captain generals of Spain, continues to be among the notable personalities of public life. His high military rank gives him a permanent place in the Senate, and his short stocky figure is seen often about the streets during the sessions. It is his old rank, however, and not his present part in public affairs, that gives him his prominence, for a new generation has come since his time, and the memories of the war are almost entirely forgotten.

The Captain Generals are received in royal audience each year, and this brought about a remarkable incident in the case of General Weyler when he made his last call of ceremony. The calls are attended with great formality, the King in full uniform and the captain general also in brilliant uniform with a staff of attendants. General Weyler's audience had concluded and he was about to withdraw. As he passed through the outer court, one of the sentinels of the royal guard stood rigid at the gate. The sentinel looked straight ahead, motionless as the captain general passed, paying no attention to his exalted military rank. Noting this, General Weyler turned sharply on the soldier, and commanded: "Present arms."

The sentry obeyed the command and came to a present, while the captain general, feeling that the dignity of his command had been suitably respected, passed on.

But this did not end the incident. The sentry, being one of the royal guard, promptly reported the occurrence to the captain of the Royal Guards, making the point that while the King and royal family were in the palace the salute of the royal guard was reserved exclusively for members of the royal family, and that any saluting of persons outside the royal circle was derogation of the dignity due them.

The captain of the guard sustained the sentry, but as a captain general was at issue the case was referred to the minister of war. This head of the military establishment duly considered the case, heard the view of the captain general and of the plain soldier, and finally gave his decision upholding the soldier. It is one of the few cases on record between the highest and the lowest rank in the army, in which a soldier's view has been upheld against a captain general.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF JOHN W. SMITH?

ing that he was going to New York for a few days. Despite the fact that he was going for only a few days, according to the statement of the people at the boarding house, he took three grips and everything of value in the room. Since then, Mrs. Carrie E. Wagner, proprietor of the boardinghouse has not heard from him. He rented four rooms from Mrs. Wagner and paid the rent only until April 1.

Smith claimed to be the sole proprietor of the Standard Remedy Company. Without the consent of Mrs. Wagner, her house at 1806 North Sixth street, was advertised as being the headquarters of the firm and used on all stationery. The letter head also bears a reputed capital of $100,000, but just where the firm is chartered could not be learned.

Two offices were also conducted in the Commonwealth Trust Company building but these were vacated April 7, at the expiration of the agreed rent. On office is still maintained at 448 Hamilton street, where the firm business is conducted by two office girls. The other office at 1414 the Commonwealth building were dismissed.

Bound For Labrador
The girls at the office at 448 Hamilton street frankly admitted they did not know where Smith was. They claim they have heard from him but once and at that time he said he was leaving for Boston and then for Labrador. Since that time they have received no word as to the affairs of the Standard Remedy Company.

Smith came to town about two years ago. From that time until he opened the new business in February he lectured in small towns. On one of these trips he met Miss Mabel Noel, of New Germantown. According to report, he became engaged to her several months ago. They were to have been married June 8. All plans were made for their wedding according to statements of people at the boarding house. They had not only selected the house where they would live, but an automobile as well. All plans were made for the wedding trip and the cities that would be visited. Miss Noel has not heard from him for three weeks.

Had Purchased Home
Prior to his going he purchased one of the finest houses in Camp Hill. One hundred dollars was made as the first payment. The family, of course, moved from the house to be in readiness for Smith to take possession. J. W. Mathias was engaged to repair and repaint the house, although the interior could not be in better condition. Neither of the men have heard from Smith.

"Ready Made" Medicine
Two sorts of medicine were sold by Smith. The one was known as Pain Relief and bore the following advice on the envelope: "Take one tablet, repeat in half an hour if not relieved. If three tablets do not ease your pain send for your physician as your condition requires medical attention." The other remedy was known as Liver Relief. They were bought "ready made" from a Baltimore firm and packed at the offices. The girls at 448 Hamilton street say they feel sure they will hear from him but no word comes.

EDITOR IS JAILED
Tokio, April 18.—Daiichiro Tagawa, a former member of the Diet and Under-Secretary of State, has been sentenced to five months' imprisonment for publishing an article regarded as reflecting on the dignity of the Imperial House. The article elaborated upon the activity of the elder statesmen in connection with their recommendation to the Emperor to appoint Count Teruchi Kamei in succession to Marquis Okuma. The editors of several other magazines which reproduced the article were convicted and sentenced, or fined.

ARCHITECT OF NEW PENN-HARRIS HERE

great detail, inasmuch as it is the desire of those interested in this big undertaking to give Harrisburg the very best hotel with regard to appointment, comfort and attractiveness that is possible. There have been unfounded rumors of a discontinuance of the enterprise, owing to the high cost of materials and construction at this time, but President Wallower and those associated with him are not quitters nor are they the sort of live wires who shun a course of action once determined upon.

Construction to Start May 1
Mr. Wallower left for the West last night but will return in time for the opening of the bids and the awarding of the contract. It is confidently expected that the actual construction work will be started early in May, inasmuch as the plans are so complete in every respect that little time is likely to be lost in further revision.

The Bethlehem Steel Company has had the specifications for the steel for several days and no delay is expected. While the cost of the hotel will be considerably greater than was first anticipated, owing to the changing conditions, it is still the full intention of the hotel officials and directors to go right ahead, especially in view of the very serious situation with respect to hotel facilities which now confronts the city. It may not be generally known that night after night men walk the streets of Harrisburg with handbags and suitcases seeking a place to sleep. This is most lamentable from every standpoint, and particularly so during the session of the Legislature, when so many come here for important hearings and to transact business with the several departments.

To Speed Up Work
The passing of the Commonwealth Hotel without notice has been most deplorable and there are still those who stop in amazement in front of the old hostelry and wonder what has happened. Many do not yet know that a fire some weeks ago ended the existence of the famous old hotel. These conditions have spurred the directors of the Penn-Harris to urge upon the architect and contractors to lose no time in preparing for the construction work. Meanwhile President Wallower and those associated with him are anxious that all who have not yet taken any stock will avail themselves of the opportunity so that there may be no reason to eliminate any of the best features of the hotel in the final letting of the contract.

Strong Black Cigars Too Much For "Mister Johnson"

Berne, April 18.—A young American who said he was a student in Munich and that he was caught by the war without sufficient funds, appeared at one of the American consulates in Switzerland soon after the beginning of the war and asked for any kind of work that would enable him to save money to get home.

He was hired and proved capable, energetic and honest. He was known as "Johnson." The consul, a genial, generous man, was in the habit of handing out to his clerks and assistants as many strong cigars as they would take each day. "Johnson," though he made a very face, always accepted—and smoked—the cigars. Eventually, however, he admitted to a friend in the consulate that he had accepted them because he believed he would gain favor with the chief in that way, but that they made him ill. He was sent to a hospital, and there the inevitable revelation came. "Johnson," in reality was a New York woman who, while in Munich, had donned men's clothes to cross the German frontier. She returned to the consulate but once after having recovered from the chief's strong cigars and then only to resign. Somehow, without a passport she got into Italy and obtained passage to America on a steamer sailing from Genoa.

CAN HEAR MONEY DROP
Rome, April 18.—Because there have been in this war a number of genuine cases of men who have been struck deaf and dumb by gun shock it has become a favorite form of malingerer by men who wish to avoid the risks of the firing line or particularly desire to be sent home. They act as though they could hear absolutely nothing. Neither a canonade nor the voices of their comrades who sometimes are brought to see them can they apparently hear. Under these circumstances a shrewd old army doctor has discovered that the sound of the dropping of a coin immediately behind them almost invariably makes them turn.

CARRANZA MAKES GIFT
Mexico City, April 18.—General Carranza has made a personal gift of 10,000 pesos to the town of Hermosillo in recognition of the fact that this city was the first to receive him in a friendly and hospitable way when he took the field against the late General Huerta in 1913.
