BAKER EXPLAINS WAR MEASURE

Nation Needs Selective Conscription to Meet German Situation

Washington, April 24.—The Army Bill now pending in Congress provides that organization of all forces, other than the regular army, shall be composed of men who come from the same State or locality as far as practicable. Both the volunteer and the draft features of the bill authorize the President to refuse to accept, either by enlistment or draft, the services of persons needed in the industrial pursuits of the country. Secretary Baker's letter, included in the minority report, was written as a final plea from the military branch of the Government in behalf of the Administration bill. He says: "It is a deep conviction that any compromise of the principles governing the bill submitted by the Department for the raising of a new army would be attended by unfortunate results," he wrote. "The bill as drawn preserves so much of the volunteer spirit as can be preserved while the system of draft and volunteering of a mixed system of draft and volunteering. It makes place for several hundred thousand men above the age of 25 who may be moved to volunteer, and by equalizing the terms and condition of service in the regular army, National Guard and additional forces give such volunteers entire equality with all others in the national forces. "The drafting provision starts at the outset a system of conscription in forces of the country can be called as they shall be needed, according to an equal and just system, and it has these merits: "1. It spreads the burden of military preparation equally throughout the United States. "2. It is certain in its operation, so that after the registration is made every man in the country will know whether he is to be called and when he is to be called upon, allowing those who are not to be called, or whose call is postponed to continue their normal pursuits undisturbed by uncertainty as to their duty and unagitated by neighborhood pressure or misunderstanding. "3. It starts at the beginning of the accumulation of these new forces, and has none of the character of a penalty which attaches to the draft when it is used after volunteering has been tried and failed. "I have studied every report I can secure of the use of the volunteer system abroad and in our own country, and I believe it to be true that, in every place where it has been tried, whatever success it has had has been due to a system of compulsion more harassing and almost as drastic as the provisions of a law itself. In the countries of Europe where the volunteer system has obtained those responsible for it have excused because they could not have foreseen at the beginning of the process by which the experience to guide us, and I believe that those responsible in this country for repeating the costly errors which have made abroad will not be able to make that explanation."

TRUST BLAMED FOR HIGH PRICES

Standard Oil Company Flayed by Federal Trade Commission

Washington, April 24.—Domination of the gasoline industry by Standard Oil interests, the Federal Trade Commission reported today in a report to-day, has been largely responsible for high gasoline prices of the past year. The report written after an exhaustive investigation into the entire petroleum industry, declares interlocking interests prevent any real competition among the various Standard Oil companies and the commission recommends legislation to permit reopening of the oil trust case to obtain modifications of the Supreme Court's dissolution decree. No conclusive evidence was found, it is stated, that collusion exists among the standard companies in violation of the decree, but the commission's findings have been transmitted to the Federal Government. Prices are declared to have been raised arbitrarily, although natural causes contributed to announced price inequalities were found in different parts of the country. "The principal findings of the commission are: "That in most marketing territories the Standard companies are dominant. "That the Standard companies have maintained a distribution of territories which prevents any real competition in the chief petroleum products exists among the Standard companies. "That the Standard companies are due to a community of stock ownership. "That the facts disclose advances in price, corresponding to Standard marketing territories, which could not be explained except under the conditions charged. "Perpetuate Monopoly "That the combination of pipe lines with other branches of the industry tends to establish and perpetuate monopoly. "That there is no conclusive evidence of collusion among the Standard companies in violation of the dissolution decree. "The commission recommended the following as necessary to remedy conditions: "A law providing for the reopening of antitrust cases on the application of the Attorney General by a bill of review for the purpose of obtaining such modifications of decrees as are required by new conditions. "Legislation to abolish in certain cases common stock ownership in corporations formerly members of combinations dissolved under the Sherman law. "Effective limitation of common ownership of stock in potentially competitive corporations by withdrawing the power of voting and control. "Would Fix Standards "Legislation, which while recognizing common ownership would fix upon such common owners the responsibility for the acts of each of the several subsidiary companies which prevent competition. "Segregation of ownership of pipe lines from the other branches of the petroleum industry. "Congressional enactment to fix standards for gasoline. "Federal collection and publication of accurate statistics and information concerning the industry. "Wholesale gasoline price rose between 75 and 85 per cent in 1915, says the report. Retail prices kept close to the 1915 level. The part increased demand and scarcity of the product played in the increase is shown in figures giving the increase in demand 38 per cent in 1915 and the production seven per cent below the year before. The standard books show large earnings, says the report, that are evidenced by the enhanced stock market value of Standard securities. GOVERNOR ASKS SCHOOLS' HELP

Calls Attention of Officials to What They Can Do For the Country

Governor Brumbaugh last night issued a proclamation to all of the school authorities of Pennsylvania to instill into the minds of the pupils the importance of agricultural work in behalf of their home communities, their State and their Nation. The Governor in his proclamation said: "The State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the State Board of Education have jointly issued a series of important resolutions affecting the employment of school pupils upon the farms of this Commonwealth and have authorized the transfer of children above the age of 12 from school to farm under certain reasonable conditions which will permit the mobilization upon the soil of this State of tens of thousands of our boys and girls. "I call upon you now to instill in the minds of your pupils the importance of rendering this patriotic service to the Commonwealth and country. Do not have these pupils ask for a defined wage but instill into their hearts the importance of doing this as a patriotic duty, and allow the compensation that will come to them to flow naturally as between farmer, employer and pupil employed. "Here is a large field of service and the crisis is on us in the next thirty days. These boys and girls can turn the tide and feed the world. Urge everyone of them immediately to do their part. "The Governor has made the following additional appointments as members of the State Committee on Public Safety: Allegheny—E. S. Bayard, East Side, Pittsburgh. Bradford—D. Fred Pombroy, Troy.
