HOWARD SMITH READY FOR HARD BATTLE WITH MURRAY

A. C.

The windup will bring together two rugged battlers, Jimmy Murray, of New York, and Harry Smith, of Philadelphia, and men who saw this pair meet in a Quaker City ring say their encounter was the most exciting bout they ever witnessed and it was because neither of the men was satisfied with the reports of the bout that they were matched to meet in Harrisburg. The owners of the new club in order to develop some local boxing talent have wisely matched lads from this neighborhood with the idea that if they put up good contests the winners would be matched against boxers from New York and Philadelphia.

Red Sox Leader Has Reason to Be Happy

BARRY, BOSTON RED SOX-

Boston, April 23. - Jack Barry making his first bow at home as the new manager of the champion Red new manager of the champion Red Sox, can tell you there is nothing in the superstition about opening days, floral set-pieces and congratulatory speeches from the home plate. He survived a whole set of such ceremonies Saturday and the Red Sox came out with a 6 to 4 victory over the Yankees in the first game of the series here.

As For Service Rendered

To look Fate in the face,
However grim and dark—
To take the game's worst break,
And hold the vital spark—

To throw soft flesh aside,
Where Trouble rules the fray,
Nor make one lone complaint
Along the harder way—

Can you, who've drifted long, Be ready at the call To swim upstream again, Whatever may befall? For service also means

The courage to endure,
Where those who come through fire
Shall find the only cure.

So far Les Darcy has been turned down in nineteen States. But he's a resistent cuss, and he may yet get by in Mexico if he can spring the proper mbination.

No Champions

Unless some vital change develops at an early date, 1917 will present no golf or tennis champions.

This means that Chick Evans and Norris Williams will hold their positions at the heights unchallenged until peace returns and the onslaught can be renewed by the complete field.

This will be the first lapse in championship title play that golf and tennis have ever known in America, but it was the only fair way to handle the situation.

A champions situation.

A championship won this summer, with so many stars missing, would not reflect any lasting credit upon the winner. It would be regarded more as a victory by default.

Shakespeare on the Kaiser

"Set all marks in the state to what tune pleased his ear"——
"Made such a sinner of memory, to credit his own lie"——
"The strain of strutting chanticleer"——
"Why, then, the world's my oyster, which I, with sword, will open"
"In time the savage bull doth bear the yoke"——
"In a false quarrel there is no true valor"——
"Thus must I from the smoke into the smother"——
"A rotten case abides no handling"——

After the War-

There will be no championship golf in this country until after the war. But the first championship which England holds will more than likely find the greatest American entry list on record.

We know now of any number of American players who are planning to go over for the next British championship—whenever that may be. For while Great Britain has lost many of her golfing stars, she still has a formidable array left—one capable of putting up a strong defensive fight.

Ballplayers Who May Go

Young ballplayers have become accustomed to facing the draft. Many of them are drafted by higher minor leagues and then drafted by the majors. But when the Universal Service bill has gone through many of these will face a new variety of draft.

All unmarried ballplayers in all leagues, between the ages of twenty and thirty will be in line to serve, and as practically all these can pass any physical examination many may be taken before the season is over. And the War Department or the government isn't very likely to pause and figure what effect upon the pennant race any such move would have.

But Not Always

"The apparel," says Colonel Shakespeare, "oft proclaims the man." Oft—but not always.

A certain well-dressed golfer in one of the Southern cities went to Augusta, Ga., for a few days. Before leaving he purchased a new, glittering golf outfit well beyond the ordinary. His clothes were 3 up on par.

At the end of the ninth hole a dusky young caddie approached the golfer's equally dusky club bearer.

"Yo' man," said the former, "sho' do dress like a golfer."

"But he sho' Gawd don't play like one," was the caddie's rejoinder, who had witnessed the first nine holes.

A baseball season opening with Hans Wagner retired, Nap Lajole in the minors and John J. Evers off the firing line is a baseball season, in name only. It doesn't sound like the same old melody.

The Only Way

The action of the golf, tennis and general athletic committee in abolishing all championship way through the duration of the war was the only possible way to handle the situation.

A championship won by some player left behind, with many leading competitors away on military duty, would be less than nothing to look forward to. There can be exhibition matches and tournaments for patriotic purposes, where many thousands can be raised for the Red Cross, the army or the navy.

There will be a sufficient number of these competitions to keep all games moving forward.

There will be a sufficient number of these competitions to keep an games moving forward.

But a championship is another matter. There will undoubtedly be several leading players in both golf and tennis unable to compete. It would not be fair to these—not fair to the game—to have the title awarded in
