RAPID GROWTH OF MIDDLEBURG

Adjoining Territory Annexed and Many New Houses Being Built in Borough

Middleburg, Pa., April 26.—Middleburg is growing rapidly now than any other town in this section of the State. Two months ago the village of Swineford was annexed to the borough. Some twenty new houses are now going up and the available lots are nearly all used. The thirty-acre farm of Henry Miller, adjoining the borough, has just been purchased by George W. Jagers, editor of the Middleburg Post, and Prof. T. F. Shambach, principal of the public school. There will be about 100 lots laid out and application made for admission to the borough.

About fifty more families would have moved into Middleburg this spring to fill the vacant places in the industrial establishments had there not been the houses and bathrobes. The increase in orders at the tannery, the silk mill and the shirt factory has given employment to all the available workers and more houses are needed.
