

Parade and Flagraising at Newport on Saturday

Newport, Pa., April 26.—Patriotic red, white and blue posters prominently placed in all parts of Newport and throughout Perry county, calls attention to the great parade and flagraising ceremonies here on Saturday afternoon. The parade will move through the principal streets, starting at 3 o'clock, and there is a place for every man, woman and child of the borough. All the organizations of the town will be in line and five bands or drum corps have been assured.

At the flagraising ceremonies in Center Square, Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh will be present and deliver an address on "Our Duties to Our Country." Mrs. G. A. Matson will speak on the work of the Red Cross Society, and Sergeant John H. Blake of the United States Army recruiting service will be on hand to receive enlistments for the army and navy.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely remove every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

ORRINE SAVED HIM FROM DRINK

That Orrine really does bring quick relief to those being tortured by the liquor habit, is the testimony of many mothers, wives and daughters. This scientific preparation promptly kills all fever, headache, beer and other intoxicants. It can be given in the home secretly without loss of time from work. No sanitary expense.

"I Felt So Tired and Lazy," He Explains

Steele Man Says "Whatever My Trouble Was It's Gone—Thanks to Tanlac" WAS QUICKLY RELIEVED "Maybe it was just laziness, I don't know, but the doctor said I had catarrh of the bladder," says Robert E. Miller, a steel worker of Steelton, Pa., "but I do know that I hadn't enough gumption to lick a postage stamp."

"I felt so tired and lazy that work was a labor for me and some constant irritation of my bladder made life almost unbearable." "I doctored for a long time without getting any satisfaction until some of the boys in the mill told me about Tanlac and urged me to try it."

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

AMAZING, BUT RARELY SUSPECTED TRUTHS ABOUT THE THINGS YOU EAT

By ALFRED W. McCANN

The American Indian, although long dead, continues to influence the diet of the United States. The sun-dried apple, which may yet return with all its blessings to the people, is one of the Indian foods which we have—can be traced with the flavor of cooked chestnuts, has become extinct, never to be revived.

In addition to fish and game, including the turkey, together with corn, beans, wild rice and pumpkin. The Indians placed at the disposal of our forefathers many other foods—potatoes, turnips, parsnips, carrots, beets, radishes and sage.

The "Digger Indians" received their name from the fact that they were specialists in cultivating and digging root plants and bulbs. They preserved great quantities of these foods for future use by drying them in the sun. Sun-dried apples, found now only in a few enterprising establishments in the country, were as the Providence Public Market, constitute another of the foods of the Indian which we have allowed to get away from us.

The sun-dried apple is not so showy a thing as the sulphur-bleached apple. But its flavor is infinitely superior, and its wholesomeness, unlike that of the sulphured fruit, is unquestionable.

The Indian turnip was dried, pounded to meal, and cooked with jerked bison, venison or bear and corn. The Sioux Indians were so fond of the turnip—"prairie root"—that it eventually found its way to Europe.

E. D. Neill in 1868 wrote his "History of Minnesota." His kindred found it played such an important part in the development of that territory that Neill was obliged to notice it.

Paris has given it the name of "Panicot." It has been suggested that this dry prairie root might yet take an important place among the vegetables which are cultivated for the support of human life.

The plains Indians from Canada to Texas had a dish called "kouse" which was probably the origin of our modern Irish stew, lamb stew or beef stew.

They dried and pounded the turnip made a porridge of this meal with whole corn, and in the porridge cooked fowl or game. You may imagine the thrill of surprise which came to me when upon seeking the origin of the word "kouse" I learned that it was derived from the Arabic Kaskas. The word is to be found in the Encyclopaedia Britannica as "couscous," or "kous-kous," a dish common among the inhabitants of North Africa made of pounded flour rubbed together and steamed over a stew of mutton or fowl.

Surely the North American Indian has had nothing in common with the North African. Yet, the Arabic word was known to them both and curiously enough it meant the same thing.

Certainly for thousands of years there was no connection between these two peoples. Yet kouse penetrated its way from some common point back in the unknown darkness up through the centuries, until the voyagers and explorers found it in America and made use of it.

Another root common among the Indians, which we no longer cultivate, was called "camaas." This root they roasted and ground into a meal from which they made bread, the flavor of which was like that of cooked chestnuts.

Tuckahoe, or tawke, was a root which the Swedish settlers in New Jersey borrowed from the Delaware Indians. Another root cultivated by the Seminoles of Florida was converted when pounded into a meal called "cooni." Cooni bread was used by the white population and also by the negroes of the south Atlantic states.

Walter Hough in his "Handbook of American Indians North of Mexico," 1907, says: "A demand among the whites for cooni flour has led to the establishment of several mills in Florida." These foods, some of which are still to be found, but many of which were lost during the murdering and pillaging period of the settlement of America by the whites do not by any means complete the list. Others we are about to disclose.

"POWER OF THE NAVY IS IN ME"

Said Big Jack Dempsey, the Fireman Recruit, in Interview

"The power of the navy is in me." Big Jack Dempsey, fireman recruit thus unbundled himself as he sat on the big hanging on the turret of the Virginia.

Around him seethed the preparation for war. From the huge navy yard power arose and clamor of a mighty force rushing the final word to place in readiness the big steel fighting machines which are to be sent to sea to defend the honor of our nation. On the parade ground adjacent, a couple of hundred bluejackets were running a quarter miler, hardening up for their work ahead.

Something of the inspiration of this vital energetic scene glistened wide in Dempsey's eyes as he swept his pipe stem in a short semicircle before him to emphasize the might of which he was master.

"I enlisted as a fireman, the greatest branch of the service of the U. S. navy." "When a man has put in a few years on the job, there is something about the firebox of an engine that fills you to it, wance you have fed the big hungry mouths that are always open and roarin'."

"And after a little hustle of feedin' the boiler, you can take your ease while the boys above are drillin' and the ship is 'rollin' easy-like in the cradle of the sea."

"Every man in his task, says I, and I'm a fireman by inclination and force of habit. And it is me duty to look after the engine when he needs me above all others."

"We wuz down where the heathens and the fever wuz thick as mud, an' wan the sickness took hold of the crew, I was the only one who held down with sickness, and it was thin the real trouble began."

"It wuz the captain himself who came down to see us. 'Boys,' he said, 'I kin get along without me officers, but for the love of Hivim, me ship will perish if me firemen desert me in the hour of conflict. That is why I say the power of the navy is in me. When the coal stops, the battleship stops, and the inland waterway ceases to be a threat to the nation, I looked sideways at the man beside me, who represented the silent working force of the American navy, which generally overcomes all skin diseases. HERO USED REAL LEAD; VILLAIN IN HOSPITAL Wagner, S. D., April 26.—Because the hero in the home talent play that was scheduled to be presented here accidentally slipped a ball cartridge among the blanks in the revolver which he used to shoot the villain, the villain is now in the hospital.

Ador Reifel was the "villain." The bullet pierced his right hand. The heroine absolutely abandoned her attitude of contempt for the "villain" when she saw the real blood follow his realistic "ouch."

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION Blain, Pa., April 26.—Delegates appointed to represent the Sunday schools of the churches of Blain, at the forty-ninth annual County Sunday School Convention in the Reformed Church at Newport next Wednesday and Thursday are: Raymond, Miss Ida McKee; Lutheran, Miss Frankie B. Thurman; Methodist, Myrtle Wentz, and Methodist, Mrs. David P. Stokes and Miss Ruth Knox.

"Kie-Yie Yie! Get Me 'Gets-It' Quick!" 2 Drops Make Corn "Fall" Off! "I've joined the Never-Again Club. Never again will I use anything for corns but 'Gets-It.' Put 2 drops 'Gets-It' on, and from that second the corn begins to shrivel, instead of swelling up like a little white sponge. Then it loosens from your toe—and glory be to God, it comes off as though you'd take a glove off your hand!"

"Gets-It" is the corn discovery of the age. More "Gets-It" is sold by many times than any other corn remedy in existence. Try it, and you'll know the reason why. It takes two drops to apply it, and it dries at once. That's all. Don't experiment and follow the experience of millions and use "Gets-It."

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle, or send on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Sons, Chicago, Ill. Sold in Harrisburg and recommended by the best local druggists and Clark's Medicine Store—divulgence.

DUCKS TO SOLVE EGG PROBLEM Hagerstown, Md., April 26.—"If you want to solve the egg problem," said Charles B. Wagner, Beaver Creek, to-day, "keep Indian Runner ducks." He stated that he had thirty-seven Indian Runners which in nineteen days laid 693 eggs, or an average of 32 1-19 eggs per day.

Brothers, Both Past Sixty Fight Duel With Pistol

Corinth, Miss., April 26.—Hiram Burrows shot and fatally wounded his brother, Banks Burrows, at the former's home, 15 miles southwest of Corinth. The shooting is said to have been the result of a bad feeling existing between the two men for some time.

Banks Burrows lived on his brother's place, and the latter had asked him to move, it is said, which is thought to have been the origin of the difficulty. It appears that both men were armed when they met in Hiram Burrows' lot, and each was shot by the other. It is understood, however, that Hiram Burrows' injury is not serious.

Both men are past 60 years old, married and have families. They have been residing in this county for several years.

Ohio Baby, 22 1/2 Pounds at Birth, a World's Record

Alliance, Ohio, April 26.—What Alliance physicians say is probably the biggest and heaviest baby ever born in this city or any other country arrived yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Iacoholo.

The newcomer is a boy, and a few minutes after his birth he weighed twenty-two and a half pounds. Dr. D. Delfino, the attending physician, says the child is normal in every respect except size and weight. Mrs. Iacoholo, whose life was in danger for a time, is recovering, and the child will live, the doctor says.

Women Turn Preachers in London Churches

London, April 26.—A successful experiment with women in the pulpit was made the other day, when Miss Maude Royden, daughter of Sir Thomas Royden, Bart., preached the regular Sunday sermon in the City Temple. So large was the crowd that came to hear the first woman to occupy that pulpit that police were required to regulate the throng.

Several other churches, deprived of their pastors by the war, are expected to follow the example of the City Temple.

Paris, April 25.—Owing to the scarcity of coal, preparations are being made to have the streets of Paris lit by oil lamps. Should the coal shortage become more acute, further restriction of the supply of gas and electricity to private houses is expected.

UNEARTH AZTEC TILE

Mexico City, April 25.—Recent excavations in Mexico City in Reloj and Maria Teresa streets have uncovered fifty-five splendid examples of Aztec tile work. These tiles form a portion of what once was a floor of the grand temple of Tenochtitlan and portray the mythological gods and dances of the Aztec gods. As the rainy season is approaching during which the tiles might be damaged they have been removed from the ruins to the Department of Inspection of Archeological Monuments.

FRESH VEGETABLES SELLED LOWER THAN GAINED

Chicago, April 25.—Dr. John Dill Robertson, Commissioner of Health, received a letter from the National Council of Defense, asking him to speedily draw up a comprehensive report on the amount of medicines, druggists' supplies and food in the city of Chicago.

The anomaly of grocers selling fresh vegetables at retail considerably lower in price than that asked for canned goods, was discovered in making the investigation.
