

THE KING WHO DID SLAVE WORK

The International Sunday School Lesson For May 6 Is "Jesus, the Servant of All."—John 13:1-17

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

What is the greatest form of artistry in the world? It is to be found in your town and my town, and occasionally, when it gets into the art galleries, it holds the interest of the spectators as does nothing else. Life, the great artist, has done his work so well that the lesser painters can only hope to reproduce his masterpiece.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

men—and especially of our own mothers—how they fortify our souls! Slowly, deftly, beautifully there has been wrought into them by life the firm, gentle lines of ministry and solicitude and patience and tireless love. They are strong in their beauty and beautiful in their strength. No cosmetic that a sophisticated world can devise has ever been a substitute for the serene and spiritual beauty which is born of self-forgetting service for loved ones.

Daring to Be Radical It was at the apex of His life that the peerless Philosopher, the matchless Master, the Teacher of Truth, led His closest friends into this supreme lesson of the sublimity of self-abnegation. It was a kingler deed than the triumphal entry; truer to the genius of His life than the smiling of the money-changers or the healing of the blind.

cloak. He washed His disciples' feet. One would almost have to be a first-century oriental to appreciate that deed fully. Shoes were not worn indoors. The lavage of the feet, after a dusty journey against which sandals were a poor protection, was either done by one's self or by slaves. It was not the work of an equal. No laws of etiquette required it of a host. Perhaps never before had it been done by a man of standing for his equals or inferiors.

When the Way-Showers Stopped Great way-showers have not been afraid to stoop. President Wilson helped dig the White House lot, as a reminder of garden-patriotism. King George has been a total abstinence during the war. Governors have repeatedly doffed their coats and taken up shovels on "Good Roads Day." Many eminent men have proudly worn the title of "Commoner," for, as says the proverb: "A gentleman can do anything." Famous generals have fraternized with their troops.

Whereas Jesus, when He said "I have given you an example," deliberately abased himself. He knew what He was about. The full significance of His action was clear to Him. It seems as if He invested himself with full royal panoply before He took towel and basin. As it were, He exhibited His crown and sceptre and full royal state before He showed himself a servant. As runs the record, "Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into His hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God, took a towel."

Every mason in the quarry, every builder on the shore. Every chopper in the palm-grove, every raftman at the oar. Hewing wood and drawing water, splitting stones and cleaving sod. All the dusty ranks of labour, in the regiment of God, March together toward His triumph, do the task His hands prepare. Honest toil is holy service; faithful work is praise and prayer.

They who tread the path of labour follow where my feet have trod; They who work without complaining do the holy will of God; Where the many toil together, there am I among my own; Where the tired workman sleepeth, there am I with him, alone, I, the peace that passeth knowledge, dwell amid the daily strife; I, the bread of heaven, am broken in the sacrament of life.

Every deed of love and mercy, done to man, is done to me. Thou hast learned the open secret; thou hast come to me for rest; Nevermore thou needest seek me; I am with thee everywhere; 'This is the gospel of labour, ring it, ye bells of the kirk! The Lord of Love came down from above, to live with the men who work. This is the rose that He planted, here in the thorn-curt soil; Heaven is best with perfect rest, but the blessing of Earth is toil."

The Call to Our Day War is changing many things for mankind. Uncounted institutions and usages are being transformed. A new day is dawning for humanity. All who are seers of God should be preparing the mind of the world for the changed order. Life after the war cannot be maintained on the old basis of narrow selfishness and pride and provincialism. "Old things have passed away; behold, all things are become new." Not to the ambitious and to the vainglorious, but to the humble and to the helpful; not to the getters, but to the givers; will the transformed world look for salvation.

In this hour there comes from the old Bible the very word in season. It is this message of Jesus, spoken at the climax of His life. All who would save the world must serve the world. Only the ministers of men are the real masters. A new mood of lowliness and helpfulness must possess us. Christianity needs to be interpreted afresh, in terms of service. A Christ-like passion for unselfish ministry alone can save the Church.

We are entering an era of broken heartedness. Burdens beyond belief, wounds worse than war, sorrows that sting the soul, await us all. Even the least thoughtful of us knows that the old way, of pride and self-interest and indulgence and vain-glory, has not paid. May we not, as our Gethsemane draws near, do as Jesus did, on the verge of the Garden, and accept the program of self-abasement and service? Let us go forth into the new day, and into the dark night, in the spirit of feet-washers—people with a passion for ministering to our fellow men, at whatever cost to our own pride and profit, and in the divine spirit of Jesus, who is newly our Master. Then He will stamp His likeness upon us, and enable us to share in His Work of redeeming the world.

MOUNTAIN LAND LEASED Dauphin, Pa., May 4.—Emanuel Fesser has leased 900 acres of mountain land from the United Ice and Coal Company. This land extends from Ellendale Forge to the stone quarry. A force of men started work at Ellendale Forge yesterday.

"The Live Store"

"Always Reliable"

Decide Now!

A momentous problem during these strenuous times as to decide just what to do to be guided right in the clothes question is a most important thought. Nature is budding and blossoming forth in all its beauty and you too will want your

New Spring Suit

If you are going to follow popular sentiment and buy your clothes where most men and young men are going, come here and look at the vast quantity of good clothes that have been stocked for your convenience—you'll know that only a "Live Store" doing a tremendous volume of business could carry such enormous stocks of high-grade clothing. It's a well-known fact that "Douttrichs" stands for high quality and greater values. Then too they sell
