the good that may be derived from support of the Boy Scout campaign. The rain that poured for hours

The rain that poured for hours did not deter the scouts in the least. Many of them had, their letters distributed in record time and were back for more work to do.

Cards are enclosed in the letters that sum up the work the scouts of Harrisburg have done. For instance, they have assisted in the Red Cross campaign, clean-up week, birdhouse contest; as guides at the Christian Endeavor convention and G. A. R. encampment; rendered services at Armory on return of the Eighth Regiment companies; served at celebration of safe and sane Fourth of July; and have rendered valuable services in fighting forest fires. They stand ready as an organized force for any emergency and they will be citizens of the city and Commonwealth ten years from now.
