

MAIN USES FOR STALE BREAD

Most Common Article of Waste, Yet It Can Be Made Into Toothsome Delicacies

Washington, D. C., May 4.—Bread is one of the items most commonly wasted in many American households, say the specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This waste is probably due to the fact that many housekeepers do not think of bread as costing much and are careless about its use or do not know what to do with the odds and ends frequently found in the bread box.

Good, fresh bread has a spongy texture which in time disappears, leaving the bread dry and crumbly, the moisture gradually passing out through the crust. Bread a little too stale to be appetizing, but not yet hard, may be revived by putting it into the oven for a few minutes. The heat seems to drive the moisture from the crust back into the center of the loaf, making the crust more crisp and the crumb a little more spongy. Some housekeepers moisten the surface of the bread and set it in a hot oven, turning it into the oven, but others think that moistening injures the texture of the crust without improving the softness of the interior.

Rolls or biscuits which have a greater surface in proportion to their size, dry out more rapidly than loaves of bread. It is good planning, therefore, not to provide more than will be used at a meal or at least a day after baking. For similar reasons, bread stays fresher longer in the loaf than after it is sliced. No more than will be needed should be cut for any one meal and one loaf should be used up before the next is baked. When the bread needs freshening it is a good plan to cut the required slices and put them into the oven for a few minutes just before serving.

Toast
Toast is another form in which partly stale bread can be made attractive. In many families it is served only for breakfast, luncheon or supper, but the custom which many high grade restaurants have adopted of serving thin, crisp, fried bread with the more substantial meals, might well be followed at home. Such dishes as chopped meat with gravy, creamed chicken or fish, poached eggs, melted cheese, cooked asparagus, Swiss chard, baked tomatoes, etc., are served very commonly on toast. Cream or milk, tomato sauce, or a mixture of the two, may be used as a main dish at breakfast, luncheon or supper. Slices of toast may also be dipped in water or milk and beaten egg, and lightly browned on a greased pan. The recipe for this dish, which is called by various names, is given in the appended recipe under the heading "Egg Toast."

As a Breakfast Food
Another good way of using stale bread or of treating bread so that it shall not become stale, is to put the pieces in the warming oven or on the back of the stove and leave them until they are thoroughly heated and brown throughout. This is often called twice-baked bread and is very popular with children and also with grown-ups who like the "crunchiness" and the flavor which comes with the slight browning. The rusks which used to be commonly served like breakfast cereals in some parts of the country were made by crushing such twice-baked bread with a rolling pin.

Crumbs Valuable in Cookery
There is nothing new in the idea of using bread crumbs in cookery and most housekeepers are in the habit of having some on hand for use in scalloped dishes, stuffing for meat, puddings, etc. Few realize, however, how much more generally they might be utilized. Many commercial bakers use bread crumbs to some extent as a substitute for the flour in many sorts of cakes, cookies, puddings, etc. Crumbs may also be used instead of flour and starch for thickening soups and sauces.

Any bits of bread which cannot be eaten on the table should be saved and crumbed for use in cooking. Some housekeepers keep two kinds on hand; one, stale crumbs made chiefly from the inside of the loaf and suitable for use in the place of flour, and dried crumbs made from any part of the bread browned a little in a very slow oven and crushed fine to be used in scalloped dishes, for the coating of croquettes or other fried foods, or wherever a crusty, fine crumb is needed. To prevent the crumbs from becoming soggy, they should be kept in dry, air-tight containers. Fruit jars are often convenient for the purpose.

How to Utilize Quick Breads
Yeast-made bread is by no means the only bread that can be utilized in some of the ways suggested. The quick breads raised by baking powder, soda and sour milk or other acid, etc., dry out more quickly than the yeast bread, probably because the water is not so thoroughly incorporated with the flour during the making. These breads can not be freshened simply by putting in the oven like yeast-raised bread. Quick biscuit, however, make delicious toast which is very convenient for serving under meats, eggs, etc. The crumbs made from them may also be used in other breads, cakes and puddings, as may also corn bread and cake crumbs wherever their flavor is not objectionable. Boston brown bread, toasted and served with a cream sauce is a delicious dish for supper or breakfast. Toasted eye bread is also good. Crackers, which are practically dried bread baked in different shapes, and which may lose their crispness if kept exposed when the air is moist, can be freshened or made crisp by putting into the oven. The crumbs made from them serve many of the purposes of dried bread crumbs. A number of receipts for using left-over bread follow:

Stale Bread Recipes
Vegetable Soup Thickened With Bread Crumbs—1 quart skim milk, 1 cup bread crumbs, or 2 large slices stale bread, salt; small amount of spinach or outer leaves lettuce, not more than 4 ounces, 1 small slice onion.
Cut the vegetables into small pieces and cook with the bread crumbs in the milk in a double boiler. If a large quantity is being prepared, as in a school lunch room, for example, cut the vegetables through a meat chopper. In this case slices of bread may be ground with the vegetables, in order to absorb the juice.

Pancakes
One cup crumbs, 2 1/2 cups skim milk, 1/2 cup flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon melted fat, 1 egg.
Soak crumbs in milk for 3-4 hour. Then add other ingredients and cook on a hot griddle like ordinary pancakes. If sour milk is used, substitute 1/2 teaspoon baking soda for the four teaspoons baking powder.

Gingerbread
One cup molasses, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1-3 cups fine bread crumbs, 2-3 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 1/2 teaspoons ginger, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons melted fat, or other fat.

Add water to molasses and combine with the dry ingredients mixed together, then add fat and beat. Bake for about 25 minutes in a hot oven.
Indian Pudding Made With Crumbs
One cup fine crumbs, 1 quart skim milk, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons melted butter or other fat, 1/4 cup molasses, 1/4 teaspoon ginger, 3/4 teaspoon cloves, 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon.
Scald the crumbs in milk; add the other ingredients, and bake 1 1/2 hours in a slow oven. This pudding may be made with any kind of bread crumbs, but it furnishes an especially good means of using up stale corn bread.
Egg Toast
Six slices bread, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, skim milk or water, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Beat the egg, and add the liquid and salt. Let the bread soak in the mixture until slightly soft. Then fry to a light brown on a hot, well-oiled pan or griddle. More eggs may be used if available.

Judge George Gray Urges American Men to Enlist

Wilmington, Del., May 7.—In the presence of 2,000 enthusiastic persons who gathered in the Quaker meeting last night, ex-Judge George Gray delivered an impassioned speech urging all who are qualified to come to the support of their country, and especially to join the navy at once. "It is the duty of every mother, of every father, of every sister and every sweet heart to give their loved ones to their country that humanity and the ability to lead men. It was expected that no further applications would be received after last week, but it has been decided to allow a further opportunity until next Monday.

Captain Harrell, in charge of the Philadelphia recruiting office, the official examiner here, has not received the order yet, but will no doubt be notified later.
Fifty recruits were sent to Columbus Barracks on Saturday and it was announced by Officers in charge this morning that they expected a record day to-day. They stated that 100 men were expected to arrive here to-day, from the Allentown Station and that the other stations would respond with a heavy list.
Quartermaster W. E. Quirk, in charge of the navy recruiting office here, Charles A. Walters, Lebanon, to the Philadelphia office, and a representative of the Philadelphia office, were present at the meeting. He is now busily engaged in distributing navy posters to the public and automobile owners, who wish to co-operate in the nation-wide

America Will Advance Another $100,000,000 to England This Month

By Associated Press

Washington, May 7.—The government has decided to lend Great Britain $100,000,000 to meet her needs in this country during May. A second installment of $25,000,000 was transferred to the British embassy to-day, making with the $25,000,000 loaned her Saturday a total of one-half of the May loan.
The decision to advance Great Britain $100,000,000 during May agrees with estimate that this government would be called upon to finance the allies up to at least $400,000,000 a month. Subscriptions to the Liberty loan continue in large volume.

Garments of True Gracefulness

Fashion may be fickle in the matter of ordinary dress but in corsetry she recognizes the importance of individuality. In other words, the selection of a corset must be made with due consideration to the special needs of the wearer. The corset finally decided upon must be a style especially designed for the type of figure it is to enclose.
Every Madame Lyra corset is designed for its specific type and purpose, consequently, the natural gracefulness of a woman's form is readily preserved.
We are now showing a very interesting selection of Madame Lyra types.
A special feature is the attendance at the corset section of an expert corsetiere who comes to us direct from the makers of this splendid line of corsets.
