

ROOSEVELT GIVES OUR PEACE TERMS

Colonel Outlines What He Believes This Country Should Get

New York, May 11. — Theodore Roosevelt in an article headed "Put the Flag on the Firing Line" in the June Metropolitan Magazine, outlines what our peace terms should be. In part he says:

"The Prussianized Germany of the Hohenzollerns has shown itself even more the enemy of freedom and humanity and justice and international right than was Napoleon's France. Let us strive for the peace of justice and of international right. Did they but know it, the German people themselves would benefit by our victory; and especially the people of South Germany and of Austria, who would be free from the tyranny of Prussia, and would be guaranteed in all their rights—surely more than an offset for not being allowed to wrong others. Belgium and France must have all that has been taken from them restored. The Turk must leave Europe—a Democratic Russia at Constantinople will threaten no one. Armenia should be freed and autonomous. Austria is not a country but a knot of nationalities, of which two tyrannize over the others. Let the Hungarians German Hungary, and the Austrians German Austria. Let the Italians have the Trentino and Trieste. Let there be a great Roumania. Poland should once more be a nation, which should include all the Polish lands, and have an outlet on the Baltic through old Polish Prussia, old West Prussia, East Prussia, which is German, would be unavoidably separated from the other German lands. Canada, which we have with respect to our international railroads, would lose nothing except the right to oppress others, would suffer no injustice. Ireland should have Home Rule. Seek justice for everyone; the Danes of North Schleswig; the Finn, the Esthonian, the Caucasian in Russia. Endeavor to secure a guarantee of real religious freedom and fair play for Catholic, Protestant, Orthodox, and Jew alike."

In his magazine article the colonel describes his proposed expeditionary force to France and points out the important duties of the "private citizen" with America at war.

STATE COLLEGE WILL ADMIT HIGH SCHOOL FARM WORKERS State College, May 11. — Following the action of the State Board of Education urging public school officials to excuse their pupils for farm work, the Pennsylvania State College has announced that high school students with proper credit will be admitted to the college next fall. It is expected that high school principals will certify to the standing of the students who leave the class rooms to go into the fields. The State board has said it is convinced of the imperative needs of husbanding all the resources of the Commonwealth, and it requests the school authorities and the great army of pupils, who have talent and capacity for service of any type, the patriotic duty of their contribution in this hour of national need. The board's announcement refers to the great scarcity of farm labor, pointing out that the school code provides that directors may excuse the absence of pupils for urgent reasons. According to the board's ruling, all pupils above the age of twelve years may be released from their studies to engage in farming, trucking, gardening and their allied industries. A careful survey is planned of the industrial and agricultural schools of the State for the purpose of ascertaining in what way they may contribute help.

COAST GUARD STATIONS TO USE AEROLANES Aeroplanes will be added to the equipment of the United States Coast Guard stations to aid in rescue work if recent proposals are adopted, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine. "Many a vessel has been wrecked on the rocky coast, too far from shore to be reached by the line-throwing gun, and while the sea was running so high that the imperiled crew and passengers could not be rescued with lifeboats. In such a case a flying boat would be called on to carry a life line out to the distressed vessel. Another task which the air craft may be employed in is locating derelicts so that they can be removed as quickly as possible from navigation routes."

ADAPTABLE PEDESTAL The nation-wide discussion of measures for increasing our defenses on sea gives added interest to a machine-gun pedestal for the navy, manufactured by a Buffalo concern. This mounting is designed to be fastened to the deck of a coast cutter, or harbor-patrol boat, etc. It consists of a base with gun mounting, and is so constructed that a complete circle can be described in the operation of the gun regardless of the angle at which it is placed. The firing piece can be elevated to practically 90 degrees or pointed lower than horizontal.—From the Popular Mechanics Magazine.
