CONCERT PLEASURES LARGE AUDIENCE

Wonder Piano Playing and Exquisite Lieder Singing Is Charm of Program

No more delightful close to an interesting series of concerts could have been conceived than that given last night in the Technical High School auditorium by Constance Rulison who is a pianist of wonder-ful attainments with an art no less worth while, is well known here socially and has, since her return from Paris, become professionally established in New York City.

Probably no more lovely piano playing has ever been heard here, than that presented by these two thoroughly delightful artists, as well in their choice of composition as in their all-sufficient technical equipment. There was beautiful tone, a discrimination in the sensing and expression of a nuance and that most difficult of all qualities to attain in ensemble playing—the really convincing rebato of these mutually sympathetic artists, which made of this so recently popular genre of two-piano music a really vital art.

More than a little curiosity was manifested with reference to Newell Albright's playing. It has gained wonderfully not only in the technical side but immensely in distinction and in broad, discriminating musicianship.

There was ample evidence that Mr. Matthey's statement to Dr. Trosch, quoted in last night's TELEGRAPH, of "superior equipment and attainments musically" was not merely that of an admiring teacher, for the pupil, whom he considers unusually gifted.

No less delightful was Paul Reimers—than whom there is no greater interpreter of the lovely art so well known to the amateur of George Henschel's transcendent style of song singing, and of whom he is a pupil with a perfectly even register, and art finished, in the best sense of the word, a real lezza di voce. Mr. Reimers was quite as enthusiastically received as his fellow artists and prodigal with his additions to the program—the delightful child's song, "The Rikru" to the first group, White's "To Mary," the enthusiastically received real American folk song, "Dear Nellie Gray" and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" given in response to his recalls. "The Menuet" of the exquisite DeBussy suite was re-demanded of the pianist.

The delightful and discriminating accompaniments of John Warner than whom Mr. Reimers could not have found a more sympathetic collaborator, contributed in a high degree to the success of the concert, as well as the two Concert Grand pianos of recent construction, which were kindly furnished by the Stier firm.

Many Keenly Disappointed While there were heartaches among relatives, sweethearts and friends there were also heartaches far more tragic among those who applied for permission to enter the camp, but who were not approved. Out of the 700 who applied in this city less than 40 were accepted.

Among the young men were two from the division offices in this city of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

John H. Fox reported to-day at the camps. He is the son of Dr. John H. Fox, formerly pastor of the Grace Methodist Church who was recently transferred to a charge in Philadelphia. Fox was educated in the High Schools of Trenton and from there entered the Princeton University where he graduated with the Degree of Bachelor of Science in 1915 and since that time has made his home in this city and has been connected with the Bell Telephone Company in the plant department.

Reporter Is Going John C. Swank, 209 Walnut street, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Swank, Lancaster, a reporter on the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH, is among the men who yesterday received orders to report at the Fort Niagara camp, Sunday. He has "covered" recruiting since the local office was opened by Captain William F. Harrell and became so infatuated with the taste of army life that he decided to desert the typewriter for the sword.

Swank has been with the TELEGRAPH for nearly a year and in that time has covered many of the bigger assignments. Before coming to this city he was sporting editor of the Lancaster News-Journal. He is a Lancaster High School athlete, having played varsity football and basketball three years. He will leave for Fort Niagara to-morrow night.

George and Daniel Kunkel, sons of Judge George Kunkel, president of the Dauphin county court, will report to the Fort Niagara camp on Sunday. Both are graduates of the Harrisburg Academy and Frank and Marshall College, and are now students at the Harvard law school. Both are prominent socially here and are crack tennis players.

Charles F. Hilleary, employed in the office of the Armstrong Cork Company, Lancaster, a nephew of E. D. Hillary, division engineer, and of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, has been approved and will report this week at the Fort Niagara camp.

Others who will report at the camp are William H. Eby, Union Trust; Henry E. Ely, 45 North Sixteenth street; James E. Elder, 242 Harris street; William Y. Fillebrown, 911 North Second street; John S. Floyd, 83 North Seventeenth street; Lester A. Harris, Lewistown, and Edward S. Baker, 9 South Nineteenth street; John B. Warden, 2235 North Second street, left last night; Louis Wilson, 125 Pine street, a member of the old Yale battery, is going.

Recruiting Passes 1,000 Mark Lieutenant Robert W. Leshar announced this morning that during the first ten days of this month the Harrisburg district for army recruiting has passed the 1,000 mark. One hundred and twenty-seven men were enlisted yesterday.

Quartermaster W. E. Quirk announced this morning that he has been authorized to enlist only men specially qualified for landmen for women. C. Tappan, engineer of construction on the Cumberland Valley railroad, who was in the city to-day, conferred with the city park department on the cleanup and improvements which are under way at Front and Mulberry streets, at the subway under the new railroad bridge.

Seeding, planting of shrubs and sodding will be started within the next few weeks, when the men finish the grading work.
