M'SPARRAN URGES MORE FARMING

Says Every Acre Should Be Put Into Cultivation as Soon as Possible

John A. McSparran, member of the State Grange, has called for the maximum production of food in a letter sent to all members of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

The letter says: "There seems to be practically no doubt that the price of cereals will remain at a level that will be profitable during this crop season. The fact of a world shortage on the one hand and an unusual necessity on the other stares us in the face as food producers."

"We do not doubt that many of our people have and are making an earnest effort to meet this situation by such increased planting as circumstances will permit. And yet we feel like making to each of you this sincere appeal to do your best at this time of the nation's need to prevent the impending shortage of food by bringing into cultivation such extra acres of corn, buckwheat and other cereals as you feel you can reasonably grow and harvest. It is awful to think that we have to settle an international difficulty by recourse to hellish war. But the die is cast, and the man in the trench behind the plow will contribute to a speedy and decisive victory as surely as the man in the trench behind the gun. "Ours is the duty of feeding not only our own people, but to produce such a surplus as to forestall hunger among our allies. Let us all do our best."

Fierce Fire Burning Near White Pine Sanatorium

Several miles of valuable timberland was destroyed. The entire Forestry Academy force, under direction of Fire Warden Stanley, together with Fire Warden Thomas, and a warden of Orrtanna, with large fighting units, fought the fires all day. SENATE PASSES ESPIONAGE BILL

The Most Drastic Act Ever Adopted by United States Congress

Washington, May 15.—After nearly three weeks of debate, ranging over innumerable problems of the war, the Senate by a vote of 77 to 19 last night passed the administration espionage bill, pronounced one of the most drastic and all-inclusive measures in American congressional history.

A similar bill has passed the House and virtual redrafting of many of the most important provisions is expected in the forthcoming conference.

During to-day's final consideration, the Senate stripped the measure entirely of provisions for newspaper censorship and restriction upon manufacture of grain into intoxicating liquors; and rejected an amendment designed to curb speculation in food products, although sentiment obviously was overwhelmingly in favor of such legislation.

The Senate Bill As completed, the Senate bill's principal sections provide: Authority for the Post Office Department to censor mails and exclude mail matter deemed seditious, anarchistic or treasonable, and making it a crime punishable under heavy penalties. (Not in the House bill);

For punishment of espionage, defined in most detailed terms, including wrongful use of military information;

For the control of merchant vessels in American waters;

Punishment for conveyance of false reports to interfere with military operations, willful attempts to cause disaffection in the military or naval forces or obstruction of recruiting.

May Seize Arms

For the seizure of arms and munitions and prohibition of their exportation under certain conditions;

For penalizing conspiracies designed to harm American foreign relations or for destruction of property within the United States;

For increased restrictions upon issuance of passports, with penalties for the forgery or false procurement; and

For material extension of the power to issue search warrants for inspection of the registry or false procurement.

The clause giving the President power to embargo exports was retained in the bill virtually as drafted by the administration officials. It was modified once, but the unqualified provision was restored after its necessity had been explained last week in a day's session behind closed doors.
