RAILROAD RUMBLES

METAL DISCS FOR WATCHMEN

To Replace Red Flags at Railroad Crossings; Painting Gates New Color

Red flags at railroad crossings will soon be a matter of history. Metal discs will be used. Black and white gates are also coming into style. It has been decreed by the Public Service Commission of the State that the red flags used by grade crossing watchmen must go. The watchmen are to be provided with metal discs about 15 inches in diameter with the word "stop" painted on either side. Samples of these discs were sent to the railroad officials and given a trial. They were found to be a little too heavy, weighing about five pounds. Samples made of lighter material were then sent and these are likely to be adopted.

Metal Discs Next For many years where it was necessary to employ watchmen at grade crossings, red flags have been used by the men to warn teamsters and pedestrians of danger in crossing the tracks. The danger in flags are not always distinguishable. There are 734 crossings in the State with gates and 633 at which there are watchmen. This includes all the railroads. It is understood that the discs will be sent out to the men guarding the public crossings as rapidly as they are finished. They will be made of heavy sheet iron.

White and Black Gates The crossings on the Pennsylvania Railroad lines will be protected in the same manner. Another thing is that the gates used at all crossings are to be painted black and white. This is now being done on the Reading, and many have had the colors changed to meet the wishes of the commission. This is part of the program for the standardization of grade crossing protection, which the commission placed in the hands of John F. Reilly, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to investigate the accident. The painting of all gates is to be finished by the middle of July.

Penny Has Land Bureau Supervisor in Charge

Newport, Pa., May 15.—D. M. Frymire, assistant supervisor of Pennsylvania Railroad subdivision No. 64, with offices here has taken steps to locate a land bureau in the place. The Pennsylvania Railroad has much unused land along its right of way and has announced that it may be farmed by its employees with the charge exacted. Thus far Mr. Frymire has allotted 20 acres of ground situated at Juniata Bridge, Balleys, Millerstown and Newport, to members of his subdivision.

REGIMENT AS REPAIRMEN Philadelphia, May 15.—The Ninth reserve engineer regiment has been ordered changed from a construction to a motive power operative regiment. Under the original plan the regiment was to be employed in rebuilding railroads destroyed by German shell-fire behind the firing lines and every effort was made to recruit men skilled in construction work. Now the regiment will be used for repairing rolling stock.

BOROUGH TO SELL FRAME DWELLINGS In the extension plan at the borough pumping station, the borough is making efforts to dispose of two three-story frame houses at 268 and 270 Christian street. The borough is anxious to sell the lumber in the houses. Improvements are to be started after the dwellings are removed, and are necessary to take care of a supply of coal which will be required to operate the plant this winter.

High School Alumni to Plan Class Reception

Election of officers and arrangements for the reception of the 1917 class will take place at the annual business meeting of the association in the high school Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Plans are being made to introduce new and novel features for the entertainment and meeting on June 13. Mrs. Roy Schindler, secretary, has charge of the reserve tables. The reception of the class of 1917 in the high school library will be held at 8 o'clock. The entertainment and banquet will be held in the high school auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. PRIMARY AMENDMENT DEFEATED The Palmer bill defining what shall constitute 51 per cent of the vote necessary to give a candidate an election under the primary law was defeated, falling 18 votes short after a prolonged debate which Messrs. Palmer, Stadtholder, Walter and Wallace participated. Reference was made by speakers to the results in recent State-wide judicial primaries.

CITY CLERK MILLER IS ELECTED MAYOR

(Continued From First Page) san than has been the case in any election since the Clark act went into effect. Mr. Miller is the son of Francis Miller, familiarly known as "X," a native of Switzerland, who came to America in his younger days and lived in Harrisburg until his death in 1875. The new mayor was born in Fourth street, opposite the site of Zion Lutheran Church, June 28, 1850, and received his early education in the public schools of the city. He was a member of the Harrisburg Academy for a course at St. Charles Moromeo College, Howard county, Maryland, from which he was graduated with honors in the class of 1871. Mr. Miller was apprenticed to the trade of printer in 1867, with George Bergerer, in whose employ he remained for nearly twenty years. He was appointed foreman of the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH composing room in 1881 and filled that position very creditably until 1885 when he resigned in order to take his seat in the legislature, to which he had been elected on the Republican ticket to represent the city district. He afterward engaged in the carpet cleaning business with much success and entered in that line until elected clerk of common council in 1891 and afterward to city clerk, being the first to serve in that capacity in Harrisburg. Mr. Miller has been city clerk continuously since that time, being re-elected year after year, in most instances with little opposition and by the unanimous choice of council. Mayor Miller was a member of common council from 1880 to 1883 and president of that body in 1882. He was elected to select council in 1883 and served until his resignation January 31, 1884, to take his seat in legislature. He was again elected to common council in 1888 and served also in 1889. Mayor Miller's wife, who was Miss Rebecca Mauger, died in 1906. He has two daughters. The new mayor is a general favorite. During his long service to the city no detail has been too small for him to undertake and no task too large. He has been the constant friend of newly-elected councilmen and a general source of information for everybody connected with the city government. "If you don't know, ask Miller," has been a saying about city offices that has spread to other parts of the state, particularly among members of the Third Class City League who for years have been accustomed to write him concerning the interpretation of the knotty points of municipal law and to help them solve difficult city governmental questions. There are few in Bellevue 294 plots 25x45 feet versed in city law and municipal affairs as Mayor Miller. He is a strong believer in the future of Harrisburg and was one of the first to urge the great improvement campaigns that have since transformed the city. He has at all times placed the advantage of the city before all other considerations in council and has done much personally for the advancement of good municipal government both here and throughout the state. Mr. Miller was in poor health for some years, but recently has shown decided improvement and entered upon his new duties as the culmination of a life-long ambition. He has a summer home at Mt. Gretna, but has been so persistent in his duties to the city that it has not infrequently happened that council has been compelled to order him to take a vacation in order that he might enjoy for a time the restful influences of his Mt. Gretna place.

WOMEN DOING MORE GARDENING THAN MEN

(Continued From First Page) closed but little of the hard labor of tending the ground and planting has been done and the tireless women of the city are doing more of it than the men. Some of the gardeners are forcing their plants with glass jars, but the majority are allowing nature to take its course. One of the skeptical farmers yesterday dug up his potatoes out of curiosity only to find that everything was O. K. and that their backwardness was due to the season. An acre of ground has been donated to the Children's Industrial Home. This plot will be supervised by Mr. Watts and his assistant. Sixty-three plots 25x50 feet have been assigned the farmers at Ninetown road, near Twenty-first and Walnut streets. Six plots, totalling one-quarter acre, at Seventeenth and Derry streets is under cultivation and an acre and a half at Reel and Division and Sixth and Mahantongo streets have been given to persons anxious to decrease the high cost of living. The regular meeting of the Agricultural committee of the Harrisburg

Thomas Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Collins, 603 Race street special officer for the Pennsylvania Railroad, has resigned and is now at Fort Niagara. He passed a very creditable examination, receiving an average of 100 in all branches. Ladies' Auxiliary to Brotherhood of Trainmen No. 251 will hold a special booster meeting to-night at Eagle's Hall, Sixth and Cumberland streets. A class of fifteen will be initiated.

They Said the "President Kept Us Out of War"

Washington, D. C., May 15.—J. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania; Martin Madden and Medill McCormick, both of Illinois, devoted their speeches in the House to criticizing the revenue bill as providing an unscientific and unequal distribution of the tax burden. James R. Mann, the Republican floor-leader, in allusion to Secretary McAdoo's coming stumping tour for the "Liberty Loan," asked sarcastically: "Is he going to send out the campaign orators who said the President has kept us out of war?" PARADE ARRANGEMENTS Final arrangements for participating in the patriotic parade will be made by the Businessmen's Association in monthly session to-night. Other than this, nothing but routine business is scheduled.

LeBrun and Mercer Who Were Arrested Here Indicted in Pittsburgh

Local police to-day learned of the indictment yesterday of Frederick LeBrun, of Chicago, and Harry Mercer, New York, on a charge of using the mails to defraud at Pittsburgh. They believe LeBrun and Mercer are the men of the same names who were convicted in the Dauphin county courts in January, 1915, for working a bogus check game. Mercer was sentenced to from nine to fifteen years in the penitentiary, and LeBrun to six months in jail. According to advices from Pittsburgh the pair were connected with the Peerless Wheel Company, a Chicago concern with a branch office in Pittsburgh. Four others were indicted with them. The appearance of being far advanced, the early applicants having finished the work up in short order. Some of the gardeners are forcing their plants with glass jars, but the majority are allowing nature to take its course.
