Leader of Expedition Has Fought Indians, Filipinos and Mexicans

Washington, May 19.—Major General John Joseph Pershing, who is to lead America's first battle unit against the Germans, has been a fighter of Indians, Filipinos and Mexicans.

A year ago in March, then a brigadier general, he commanded the column which went into Mexico in search of Villa, and held his line many months against the menacing movements of Mexican troops. He served in Cuba in 1898, and later led successful operations against the Moros in the Philippines.

Earlier in his military career he had fought the Apache and Sioux Indians in the West.

General Pershing, who is nearly 57 years of age, is a native of Missouri. At one time he intended to be a lawyer, and graduated in a law course at the University of Nebraska, but later entered the West Point Military Academy from which he graduated in 1886. He married a daughter of Senator Warren of Wyoming, and has three children in a fire at the Presidio, San Francisco, two years ago.

The War Department's bureau of information was organized by General Pershing soon after the Spanish war and for a time he was its chief.

During the Russo-Japanese war he acted as military attaché at Tokio and was with Kuroki's army in Manchuria. From 1906 to 1912 he was in the Philippines again, part of the time as governor of Moro province. Then he became commander of the Eighth Brigade with headquarters at San Francisco and served in that capacity until the Mexican developments last year.

T. R. IS DENIED RIGHT TO RAISE ARMY DIVISION OF VOLUNTEERS

President Pays Tribute to Col. Roosevelt's Gallantry While Refusing Him Permission Authorized by Congress

CONGRESS HAD VOTED FOR POPULAR ARMY

Chief Executive Declares Move Would Be Popular, But Would Not Help U. S. in War

Washington, May 19.—Roosevelt is not going to France—at least, not at the head of a Roosevelt division. President Wilson, in signing the army selective draft bill last night, announced that he would not avail himself of the authority granted in the bill for the raising of four divisions of volunteers.

In taking this action, the President was within his right, as commander-in-chief of the army, but, according to the wording of the bill, sets at naught the wish of the two houses of Congress, both of which voted, by large majorities, to which a large percentage of Democrats contributed, that Roosevelt should be allowed to raise his division.

To grant the desire of Congress and T. R. himself that Roosevelt should go, the President declared, "would seriously interfere with the carrying out of the chief and most important purpose" of the army bill. The President paid a high compliment to Mr. Roosevelt, both as to his "conspicuous public services" and his "gallantry." He added that politically the sending of Roosevelt abroad would create a very profound impression. It was his opinion, he added, to add anything to the

From towns near and far organizations and bands joined with the neighboring borough in the observation. Big delegations from the city appeared in the line of march. Included in these were the local companies of the National Guard, Red Cross, and many smaller marching clubs of foreign born persons.

The marchers who traversed all the streets of Steelton in a long line, 10,000 strong carried thousands of American flags and hundreds of yards of bunting.

Greeks and Bulgarians, Italians and Austrians, Croatians, Rumanians and other natives of the warring nations marched side by side in the best of good fellowship, their racial prejudice forgotten under the gleaming red, white and blue of Old Glory.

Steelton was in gala attire in honor of the event. Residences and business houses were massed behind banks of the national colors. The steel plant employees made a splendid showing.

Parade Well Planned

So well was the parade planned that little time was lost in starting. At the sound of the steel company whistle at 1:50 traffic in Front street was halted and automobiles and vehicles were ordered off the street. Shortly after 2 o'clock the procession started.

The parade was divided into 124 sections and included thirty-two bands. Harrisburg was well represented in the procession and large numbers from Highspire, Enhart, Oberlin and surrounding sections were in line.

The streets along the line of march especially Front and Second streets were lined for squares with spectators. Special cars conveyed spectators from Harrisburg and surrounding country.

RUSS MINISTRY TO REMAKE ARMY INTO A FIGHTING FORCE

Extensive Fighting on British Front in France Subsides While German Troops Try to Regain Some of Ground Lost; Military Observers Much Interested in Success of New Italian Offensive

Evidences are multiplying that the most energetic efforts are about to be made to rehabilitate Russia's great army and make it again an effective, aggressive fighting force.

Minister of War Kerensky, in assuming his new post, announces his intention of maintaining an iron discipline among the troops, a military necessity which has been conspicuously lacking since the setting in of the revolutionary movement. Recognizing the difficulty of the task after the long period of disorganization, war minister, who is reputed to be popular with the army and trusted by it, nevertheless expresses confidence in his success. This move, which includes the compulsory return of all deserters by May 28 under heavy penalties, is one of the first results of the cabinet reorganization designed to amalgamate the forces who lack of cohesion had paralyzed Russian effort. The new cabinet is now complete and apparently is preparing to cope energetically with the big problem of reorganization before it.

The recent intensive fighting on the British front in France has subsided and the activities along the French lines in the Alsace region are confined mainly to counterattacks by the Germans. The Italian offensive, which has been in progress since the beginning of the month, is being watched with perhaps more interest than any of the other military operations in progress.

General Cadorna's armies have the heavy task before them, with the cream of Austria's fighting forces defending the naturally strong defensive positions in the Isonzo region. The Italians, however, admitted are making progress. The current Austrian counterattacks on the positions of important ground southeast of Plava, in the Isonzo region north of Gorizia, insisting, however, that attacks elsewhere failed. The Italian forces already have taken more than 6,000 prisoners and numerous guns while the Austrian reports claim the capture of some 3,000 prisoners in the desperate engagements that have been fought.
