HOTEL CONTRACT IS TO BE LET AT NEXT MEETING

Secretary of Penn-Harris Co. Says Project Will Be Carried Through Without Delay

E. L. McCollin, secretary of the Harrisburg Hotel Company, which will erect the new Penn-Harris Hotel in this city, issued the following statement on the status of the project:

"The officers and directors of the Hotel Company, at last week's meeting instructed the architects and favored contractors to confer together and make the usual revisions that are incident to the letting of the contract for any large structure. The board will meet again in several weeks and confidently expects to let the contract at that time. "While the hotel will cost somewhat in excess of the estimate made last fall, the increase will not be abnormal, and the men of affairs who have put a large amount of money into the company are firmly committed to carrying out of the project and will see it through without delay. None of the bids submitted at the meeting entailed adding an extra half million to the cost to the hotel. "The affairs of the hotel company are proceeding in normal shape and as it would have been necessary to have gone over the estimates even in normal times as everyone who has put up large structures will understand.

No Postponement "In view of the facts that the hotel company has invested $220,000 in the lot at Third and Walnut and purchased part of the materials that will enter into the hotel, it is deemed building to the most successful hotel company in the country, made arrangements for placing the bond issue and stores in the hotel building have already been leased to local merchants, talk of the postponement of the measure is without foundation. "The Chamber of Commerce and the men of affairs connected with the hotel company fully realize the grave condition that exists in Harrisburg because of a lack of hotel accommodations and are going to prosecute the building of the Penn-Harris hotel as fast as possible regardless of present conditions.
