of Berlin says it is reported to the king is for franchise reform. The eserved his decision, upon depends whether the cabinet the whole and special attention as to whether they have dependents, physical condition, moral character, habits, sobriety and other matters of importance. It is suggested that efforts be made to get men between 18 and 30.

It is also suggested that comradeship receive consideration and that every man should not only ascertain every man should not only ascertain which depends whether the cabinet will resign. Count Tisza, the dispatch says, is leaving for Vienna, where he will be received by the king.

Count Tisza, the "iron man" of Austria-Hungary, has been for many years the leader of the pro-German party in the dual monarchy and was the last survivor of the little group of statesmen who surrounded Emperor Francis Joseph when the European war began. On the accession of Emperor Charles, the majority of the officials of the previous regime were either dismissed or resigned. There have been persistent reports from many sources that Emperor Charles keenly resented the dominance of Berlin in Austro-Hungarian affairs and that Count Tisza was the one great obstacle which prevented him from freeing his empire from the influence of Potsdam.

There have been several reports recently that the fall of Premier Tisza was imminent, but the rigid censorship imposed by Vienna has prevented the outside world from learning the exact condition of affairs. At the outbreak of the war, a truce was declared between the political parties in Hungary, but last August Count Apponyi, leader of the Liberals and a strong opponent of the pangermans, announced that the truce was ended and that he would resume criticism of the government's foreign policy. He was joined by Count Karolyi, president of the Hungarian independent party, and the two popular leaders instituted a vigorous campaign against Count Tisza for his failure to carry out franchise and other democratic reforms.

800 Men of Roosevelt's Volunteers Enlist in U. S. Reserve Engineers

By Associated Press

New York, May 23.—As registration day draws near, recruiting officers report an increase in the number of applicants. At the headquarters of the first reserve engineer regiment, a letter was received from Thomas C. Desmond, offering the serviges of eight hundred men who had enrolled as an engineer regiment to Colonel Roosevelt's division. From this number it is expected that many suitable recruits will be enlisted in the regiment. During the day seventy-four were accepted out of 300 applicants.

The first volunteer body enlisted in the State to go into training—177 men of the First Reserve Engineers—arrived at Fort Totten yesterday.

Washington, May 23.—Republican in the last hours of debate on the $1,800,000,000 war revenue bill to-day by declaring that he would vote against the measure.

The section of the war tax bill proposing a tax on advertising matter other than that contained in newspapers and periodicals, was stricken out to-day by the House on motion of Democratic Leader Kitchin.

Final action on the bill was imminent when the House resumed consideration of the measure to-day.

After its passage the bill will go to the Senate where it probably will be rewritten.
