"SLING TENNIS" IS NEW GAME

Can Play on Grass or Clay Courts; Racket Has Pocket

New York, May 25 .- A new form of

New York, May 25.—A new form of the furnish has been developed in several of the European war prison camps and has grown popular with the men who in the past have been accustomed to play the game upon either grass or clay courts. For the lack of a better name it has been called "sling itennis," which is fairly appropriate, as the ball or bag is thrown back and forth across the net without being permitted to touch the ground.

This style of play is not exactly new for an effort was made to introduce a somewhat similar form of tennis some years ago but met with ittle, if any, success. Owing to the fact that it requires no specially prepared court surface it has been found to be easily adaptable in prison camps, reserve training camps and back of the fighting lines.

Need Level Ground

All that is needed is a stretch of ground level enough to run about upon and large enough to lay out a full-sized tennis court. The markings and net are placed as usual. Either e soft ball without resiliency or a small bag filled with pebbles or beans is used instead of the regulation ball. The regular frame of a tennis racket is employed but is strung with slack cord or gut forming a pocket somewhat after the manner of a lacrosse stick. The ball is served or returned with a swinging motion of the arm or wrist and is in play until it touches the ground, either in or out of court. In other respects the play and count are the same as in tennis. The game is said to develog great speed and agility and has proved extremely popular among tennis players who are barred by local conditions from playing tennis in the usual manner. Pfirman.

The Bard's Defiance

Pause, Landlord, at the threshold; Pause, Landlord, at the threshold; Dare ye not enter in; I will not listen to ye, Accomplice to thy sin; The mocking bird is pouring Rare music from his throat, And yet he doesn't try to cash A single liquid note; The world is rich in Springtime, There's wealth in Maytime's bliss-How can ye speak of money On such a day as this?

Stop, Tailor, in the doorway;
Begone before I faint;
I will not listen further
To such a drear complaint;
There's gold in summer's sunshine,
Her stars are silver hue;
Her morning meads are studded
With diamonds of the dew;
There's wealth a-plenty for ye,
And yet ye come to-day
To rob a hungry poet
Of half a season's pay?

Begone, begone, collectors!
The wealth of all the world
Is out there in the meadows
With diamond dew empearled;
Go forth and reap thy harvests
Where yellow tints unfold,
Where every drifting sunbeam's
A shaft of shining gold;
Go forth upon the hillside
Where gold and silver shine;
Or follow up the mocking bird
And take his note for mine!

L. E. H.—There will be no amateur golf championship at Pakmont this season, but there will be a national patriotic tournament, with the majority of the country's leading players on hand. Apparently there will be very few missing, so far very few of the leading golfers have enlisted. Just how many will be nabbed in the draft is another matter, as several of the best are draft eligibles and more than likely to be taken.

Ballplayers and Army Standards

"The fact that Norris Williams, tennis champion, was turned down for some physical fault was a surprise," writes an observer. "But there will be an even greater surprise when star ballplayers come up for physical examination. Any number of these, supposed to be perfect specimens of physical manhood, will also be cast aside. One of the main defects will be bad hands. Most ballplayers who have served three or four years have broken fingers or crooked fingers, which will render them ineligible for service. Others have bad legs, unfit for long marching. I should say that fully 30 or 40 per cent. of ballplayers will be unable to pass an army examination."

All-Around Leaders

Dear Sir: In reference to your all-around stars, I would like to add the name of Charlie Ferguson, of the old Phillies. He was a star pitcher, a great batter, a fine baserunner, a good infielder—in fact, could fill any position except that of catcher. And he had more than his share of baseball orains. For all-around ability I think he was the equal of any man the game has ever produced. His untimely taking off was a great loss to baseball.

Another reader suggests Doc Reisling, "ambidextrous pitcher, who, in addition to playing all nine positions, was also a successful minor league manager." An athlete who can play all nine positions and pitch with either hand isn't very far removed from the purple crown of the all-around championship. Some one might tie him—but who is going to beat him—and with what?

"The Giants have a fine ball club, without a single star," comments a riter. If George Burns, Ferdy Schupp and Buck Herzog are not stars, ten the epoch of stardom is over in the old game. Nothing to it.

"Cubs extend winning streak." When we lamped this headline there immediately came a vision containing Chance, Evers, Tinker, Schulte, Sheckard, Hofman, Steinfeldt, Brown, and Kling. These were the entries who wrote Winning Streak all over the map. Yet the old Cub achievement had nothing on the present outfit, for the old bunch had the stuff, while the present delegation was supposed to consist largely of tail end trimming.

"BEAN BALL" THROWN OUT OF BASEBALL

Chicago, May 25.—That, despite the national situation, both the American and National Leagues will play out their schedules without accepting the eighteen-player limit plan was decided upon at a meeting of the National Commission in this city yesterday. President Ban Johnson, of the American League, always was strongly opposed to any cut in the roster of his clubs and President John K. Tener, of the National League, and August Herrmann took a similar stand.

Another problem before the commission was that of the "bean ball," which President Johnson had denounced unqualifiedly on the ground of the war relief cause.

Stanley Team Wins Again; Shut Out Reading Sluggers

Stanley won another Allison Hill victory last evening, nosing out the Reading crew by a 1-to-0 score. Hinkle's two-bagger in the fourth did the trick. Both Johnson and La-van were in good form, the Reading nine securing but four hits in the six innings, while the victors knocked out six hits, two of which were secured by Catcher "Pete" Schickley.

Lavan fanned eight of the Stanley batters, while Johnson whiffed one less. The cool weather kept down the attendance. The score by in-

SYRACUSE WINS

OUT IN NINTH

Barnes Weakens After Holding Sluggers; Old Ball Game Goes With Pass

Playing a good game up to the ninth inning, Harrisburg looked like a sure winner, but the Syracuse Stars put up a rattling finish with the stick and won out, score 7 to 4. It would hvae been Harrisburg's victory with a little generalship.

victory with a little generalship.

Barñes, the college southpaw, who has every evidence of being a comer, pitched a rattling game. He had Syracuse guessing most of the time. Poor throwing to second and other miscues figured in the Stars' scoring. In the ninth the first man up was walked by Barnes. Any pitcher with proper warming up could have gone in and probably saved the game, according to a general belief. Barnes took his medicine.

Shields, who started for Syracuse, was an easy thing for the Islanders. He walked four men in the fourth inning and Taylor, the hard-hitting pitcher, came in. There was not much doing until Harrisburg added the fourth run and looked sure to win.
