GIFT MACHINES FOR RED CROSS

Nine Fine New Sewing Machines Presented by Organizations of the City

There's great rejoicing at the Red Cross rooms in Walnut street to-day, for nine sewing machines have been donated to further the great work going on so busily each day. The Singer Sewing Machine Company had generously loaned six machines, but they were not enough to facilitate the supplies as the needs increased and so one of the committees received authority from the managers to secure from various organizations those needed.

Quickly and generously came the responses—from the Whist Club, with its longed-for Hoover and Co. Vindex B. Dives, Pomeroy and Stewart, a Singer; Kaufman's Undergarment Store, a Free, No. 5; Harrisburg Chapter of the Red Cross, an American Revolution, a Singer; the Rotary Club, a White; Harrisburg Lodge No. 12 H. P. O. Elks, Singer; Harrisburg Lodge No. 107, O. S. M. Moose, Singer; Harrisburg Camp No. 5250 Modern Woodmen of America, Singer. All these machines bear gifts with the names of the donors. A gift from C. Ross Boas, the engraving done by Boas and Joseph Claster.

The machines will be used by Mrs. Olmsted's committee of muslin workers, tearing, making and pinning T. bandages, triangular bandages, head bandages, abdominal binders and, at least, a dozen hospital sheets, and Miss Ellen K. McCulloch's committee, doing shirts, wrappers and pajamas.

A Distinctive Model
Something distinctive and out of the ordinary in footwear, yet not at all conspicuous is the requirement of all well-dressed women, whether or not they are brides or graduates, and these are just the qualities that characterize the new pump shown by Fisher & Cleckner, at Third and Cumberland streets. It is of fine black glazed kid, on modified colonial lines with tiny square inlays of white kid to finish the line of stitching. The bridegroom who buys the wedding ring at this store will not only find a diversity of designs and a completeness of assortment that would be hard to equal, but will find as well that these rings, offered at prices ranging from $2.50 to $15, represent the utmost of value at the minimum price.

Smart Gloves
A complete line of high-grade gloves, including imported kids, fine silk and washable doekskins is a new feature of the Wolfe Shop at 224 North Second street, which is so well-known for corsets and lingerie and judging from the many pretty and distinctive styles featured at unusually low prices the glove department will become a popular attraction for the corset and lingerie offerings. An extra fine quality in an imported white kid glove is shown for just $2.00, which is an exceptional value and most popular for commencement gifts or as part of the trousseau. While the mode gloves with black stitching, and the pretty novelties in silk gloves are very attractive.
