Speaking of Flavor Flavor cannot be boiled or even percolated into coffee. It must be in the coffee bean. The method of preparing coffee can only help to retain that flavor, but it cannot manufacture flavor. That is why people who are really connoisseurs of coffee insist on getting the coffee offered by the Grand Union Tea Co., 208 North Second street, for their coffee, grown on plantations which they control, gets the sun growth that gives rich tropical flavor, and when this coffee is fresh roasted as it is every day at the Grand Union Store, it comes to your table with a flavor different and better than any you have ever tasted before.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Ira D., who is a minister, a daughter, Mrs. Robert Terrell, of Shawnee, Oklahoma; a brother, John, of Middlestown, and Mrs. Shott, of Middlestown.
