The ac-guirement of several hundred prop-side of the Atlantic. quirement of several hundred properties, the investigation of titles and the transfer of ownership from the individual to the State involved all kinds of difficulties and demanded a high type of business diplomacy.

The story of this Commission would make an interesting volume could all the details be given without expurgation or revision of any sort. Much of the history would be exceedingly humorous in its por-trayal of human nature, but there

Politics in Pennsylvania

By the Ex-Committeeman

In spite of Senator E. H. Vare's assertion that the dinner given by him last night at the Harrisburg Club has also been much of pathos in the disappearance of old homesteads,

There are more patriotic posters calls upon young men to enlist and for the older ones and the women folks and the girls to give their aid to the Red Cross than ever known in the windows of Harrisburg. The flags and bunting and other emblems of national love and strength at the time of the Spanish War is as nothing compared to the wave of patriotic display now. In the last two years there have been occasions when the flags were put out and this spring when things reached the crisis the flags came out and stayed out, those of allies being added to them. But what now strikes the person who walks along the streets, business as well as residential, wide and narrow, well built and containing small houses, is the way the posters and the cards have blossomed. The striking posters calling for recruits, appealing to the manhood of Harrisburg to wake up and to the patriotic impulses of the people to stimulate the enlistment and the registration are to be seen by the hundreds. There are some streets where they are in every store window and even in private houses. Homes are decorated with flags and there does not seem to be any question where the people here stand. It is a great showing and will long be remembered as a distinctive feature of Memorial Day this year.

It speaks very well for the people of this city that in spite of the varied population contained within the limits of the municipality so practically nothing that could be construed as an effort to discourage registration for the selective draft has been heard. It has been stated that efforts to litterfere with registration of the construed as an effort to discourage registration to the construed as an effort to discourage registration to the construed as an effort to discourage registration of the construed as an effort to discourage registration to the construed as an effort to discourage registration of the construed as an effort to discourage registration of the construed as an effort to discourage registration of the construed as an effort to discourage re
