

MINERS WIN IN EARLY DRIVE OFF RAMSEY—NO HELP FROM FELLOW FIELDERS

COCKILL'S CREW HARD LOSERS

Ramsey Is Real Twirler After Second Inning; Errors Prove Costly

"Saliva Slants," pitted against "Veteran Volleys," gave local fans something to talk about in a ball game yesterday. Harrisburg lost to Scranton, score 3 to 1. It ought to have been a score of 10 to 0 for Harrisburg, with a probability of a no-hit game for "Buck" Ramsey, the veteran twirler. But things do not always happen the way they should. Ramsey had his opponent Keeley. The latter used a "spitter." It was working successfully yesterday. The local hit artist had a whole lot of things that were better, but he did not know how to use them in the evening. Harrisburg hit the ball, but lacked bingles in bunches. Scranton had all they could do to get at the slants offered by Ramsey. There was also another reason why the Miners counted three runs.

Downey was not on third base. He was called home to Bridgeport, Conn., by death. Elliott was not at short. He was called back to college to get his marks that will bring him a diploma later on. Holmes played a good game and is likely to do better to-day. Boley lost opportunities in the short. However, all the errors happened during the first two innings. It was a battle royal after that and the game was full of thrills. Partell's single to center, sacrifice by Brenner and Strait's single to center brought one run for the Miners in the first. Midkiff's double to center, an error by Boley on Walsh's hit, Crossin's hit, forcing out Walsh, Sherry's sacrifice, Keeley's hit to second, forcing a runner, and a pass by Partell and single by Brenner resulted in two runs in the second for the Coughlinites.

PRESIDENT JOHN K. TENER FAVORS DAYLIGHT SAVING; BIG HELP TO BASEBALL

by youth and adult is as loud as the world. This was true in Greece and later in Rome when the great empire was in outward form a republic. In the days of the Roman Empire the sports-loving people in the universe are those of the English-speaking race, on which the sun never ceases to shine. However, the spirit of liberty is more strongly implanted than in any other people since the dawn of creation.

It became popular almost in a day, was by common and unceremonious consent and indeed mandate, dedicated as our national game. Not by accident is it so-called, nor is it a misnomer. It has increased in popularity and interest as the years have rolled on until its future immensity cannot be foretold.

Thousands of young Americans engaged in the game of baseball either as a means of pleasurable recreation or as a means of earning an honorable livelihood, while millions witness the playing of games, both professional and amateur. Just figure this in: Within a few months he knocked out two of the best lightweights in the game—and now Leonard. Just how does the new lightweight king compare with the others? This is a query that our old pal Doc Time alone can answer.

Leonard, of course, isn't a Gans. Not yet, at least. He hasn't the rugged capacity of Nelson, nor yet the savage, tearing smash of Wolcott. He may not be one of the great lightweights, but he is very good—and he should be quite a trifle better later on.

The Starlight by Grantland Rice. Copyright, 1917, The Tribune Association (New York Tribune). "I intend to retire from the ring in a few months as the unbeaten lightweight champion."—Reddie Welsh, April 5.

Unbeaten Champion! That's the old dream, Old as the suns, Or the red stars that gleam: Old as the world is, Old as the time, Old as the metre Of this lagging rhyme.

Unbeaten Champion! So Jeffries said When from the highway of battle he sped: That's what they all say On through the years, While they still dally And look to the cheers.

Unbeaten Champion! Each in his turn Springs the old story: That no man can learn: Just one more battle, Then out of the game: Unbeaten Champion? What is his name?

ONE BY ONE Gans—Nelson—Wolcott—Hitchcock—Welch—and now Leonard. Just how does the new lightweight king compare with the others? This is a query that our old pal Doc Time alone can answer.

Leonard, of course, isn't a Gans. Not yet, at least. He hasn't the rugged capacity of Nelson, nor yet the savage, tearing smash of Wolcott. He may not be one of the great lightweights, but he is very good—and he should be quite a trifle better later on.

FURNITURE BULFIN BURIED Hagerstown, Pa., June 5.—Fire that burned for sixteen hours in the big Hagerstown Furniture Company's building and finally burst into flames from the top of the structure, burned the south end of the building, together with a lot of finished product. The loss is about $40,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire was the most stubborn one the firemen have had to contend with in many years.

WELLY'S CORNER

Harrisburg's annual Grammar school meet this year will be a record-breaker. Future great athletes started soon after the big event last year to get into training, and they will compete for honors. This is one athletic event war conditions will not interfere with.

Telephone Co. Employees Held For Court Trial

Mechanicsburg, Pa., June 5.—After another day of parley with employees of the United Telephone Company in regard to planting a pole in front of property of Mrs. Alice Starr Hauck against her wishes, a warrant for their arrest was issued by Squire H. S. Mohler, who, after hearing the case, placed the men before the court. The charge brought against them was malicious mischief. Public sentiment appears to be with Mrs. Hauck, who says she will make a test case of the affair.

Conscription Hard Blow; Weakens White Sox Team

Chicago, June 5.—One man out of twenty-four on the White Sox roster is not bothered by the conscription bill. He is Eddie Cicotte, who has thirty-one (thirty-two on June 19) summers resting on his shoulders, and will not have to answer Uncle Sam's summons for military training. Every other member of the team comes within the prescribed age limit and must register to-day. John Collins is the sole pitcher who will turn into his thirty-first year before 1917 comes to a close.

MORRIS WINS OVER MORAN

New York, June 5.—Carl Morris, of Oklahoma, outfought Frank Moran, of Pittsburgh, in nine out of the ten rounds here last night. Moran was very weak at the final bell, but was fighting desperately up to the last. Morris weighed 224 pounds and Moran 199.

WORM drive delivers great power, but develops excessive friction unless properly lubricated. Use DIXON'S GRAPHITE Lubricants. Dixon's 675 Gear Oil is the perfected lubricant for this type of drive. It keeps the gears happy and healthy.

Benny Leonard Outclasses Joe Welsh in Six Rounds

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—Benny Leonard, the new lightweight champion of the world, completely outclassed Joe Welsh in the windup at the Olympia last night, the local boxer being on the defensive in every round. There was ample evidence in each session that the champion did not want to inflict unnecessary punishment on his opponent, as there were many times when he refused to take advantage of every legal place he would have Welsh in. Many times when Leonard brought his right hand into play Welsh was left with his arms raised in the air and his gloves on the punch to be effective. It was announced from the ring that the match had been made at 140 pounds, and that neither man weighed that much. Welsh had an advantage in height and reach.
