MANY FOREIGN BORN REGISTER

Registrars Have Little Difficulty in Getting Information From These Residents

Indications that Steelton with 40 per cent. of its population foreign-born will have a 100 per cent. registration roll were reported by registrars in practically every district.

Department Heads Help In order that there would not be a rush at the registration places at noon or after the works close this evening, employees of the steel works were dismissed individually by department superintendents during the day.

Contractor Starts Work on Ripping of Slope Facing the Susquehanna

Contractor Bomgardner began work this morning on the ripping of the river front, starting at MacLay street. At this point a driveway will be constructed for use of the Department of Parks and it will likewise be serviceable as a means of descent to the granolithic walk along the front steps, taking the place of a ramp.

Under the specifications for this work, the ripping will be carried out by means of a screen of the average high water at flood stage and sufficient soil pockets will be provided to plant enough shrubbery to cover the rippling with a screen of green before the end of the season. This work has been under consideration for several months and it is believed the protection of the untold damage resulting from the washing away of the slope at every flood stage of the river.

READING PEACEFUL By Associated Press Reading, June 5.—Registration day was ushered in in Reading with the ringing of bells and the blowing of whistles. The local union against conscription which it was feared would make trouble issued last hour instructions to its 2,500 members to register, but at the same time to voice their conscientious objections to war. It is the object of the union to agitate for the legal repeal of the conscription law.

PROMINENT OFFICIALS COMING Prominent officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad will come to Harrisburg to-night for the big entertainment and dance by the Harrisburg Column, Women's Preparedness Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Pennsylvania Railroad Glebe Club will be a feature. There will be readings by Miss McCarrell and solos by Miss Corbett. Following the entertainment there will be a concert by the Miss Sara Lerner orchestra playing.

NOT ALL WOMEN ABLE TO SELECT BECOMING HATS

Crowning Feature of Woman's Appearance Is Her Headwear

To the woman who delights in presenting an attractive, pleasing appearance, the subject of millinery is vastly important. A becoming hat that harmonizes with the facial contour and complexion of the wearer is the crowning feature of every complete toilet.

It is a deplorable fact that a large percentage of women are totally incapable of selecting a hat that will bring out the attractiveness of their features and it is just as striking a certainty that many a plain countenance blooms out under becoming headwear like a flower opening its petals to the sun.

Every woman should know how to select hats that are suited to her individuality—hats that go well with her particular style of coloring and mold of features, and, more than this, every woman should know how to construct her own hats.

The woman who can make her own hats enjoys a distinct advantage. She not only knows what is becoming to her, but she is enabled through her own knowledge to make her own attractive headwear at a great saving of expense. Through a practical working knowledge of materials and making a woman can have her own coming, attractive hats for the same price she would pay a milliner for one.

The Lincoln Correspondence Schools course in Millinery, which was prepared by an expert of many years' experience in conducting one of the world's best known schools of millinery, teaches the woman in the home how to plan and construct her own hats at a saving of at least two-thirds the money she would spend in buying her headwear at the milliner's.

This course in Millinery is one of the six courses included in the opportunity now being offered subscribers to this paper, particulars of which will be found elsewhere in this edition. It is a most practical course, with all the unnecessary details and processes eliminated. The woman who is desirous of having more hats at less expense will find this course in Millinery an opportunity she cannot afford to neglect.
