A narrative of unselfish work which has been done by the Jewish people would open the eyes of many who fail to appreciate the unstinted support which is being furnished the government by this section of our population. As one writer has suggested, "the story itself breathers romance, pulsates with heart throbs and is replete with inspiration."

Politics in Pennsylvania

By the Ex-Committeeman

Perhaps the most interesting event in Pennsylvania politics this week is the retirement of David H. Lane, the veteran Philadelphia Republican city chairman. Mr. Lane has been seeking harmony and it is feared that his refusal to serve longer means a fac-tional fight in the big city this fall.

The Legislature should enact without delay the resolution offered yesterday by Senator Beidleman authorizing cities and counties to buy these bonds with sinking funds not immediately required for the purposes for which they were created. Let public money work for the public good, and do double duty whenever possible. There is no danger of overworking money.

If you don't buy a bond and win the war you are sure to be forced to buy two or three later on to give the Kaiser.

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.]

[From the Baltimore Sun.]

Nearly every war road leads to Berlin these days. Brazil is assuming a hostile attitude to Germany. Chile is becoming fighting mad with ther, the Spanish people are getting their blood up, and even the patient and pacific Chinese are meditating an expression of displeasure. Before long the vote against Prussianism will be almost unanimous. Very likely Turkey and Bulgaria wish they had not cast in their lot with the Kaiser. It has rarely, if ever, happened before that practically the sentiment of the whole world has united in condemnation of one nation. Is it difficult to find the reason. (From the Philadelphia Record.)
Oregon sheep to the number of 6,000 have been bought by the New York City Food Supply Commission and are to be sold at cost to restock farms within the State. The signature by the Governor of the Wicks dog bill is believed to have given New York sheep raisers a chance. There is a similar, though less drastic, bill somewhere in the Legislature at Harrisburg; and, possibly, Pennsylvania farmers also would take a chance at raising wool and, incidentally, mutton, if they could get it. The dog population of the United States is estimated at 35,000,000, and the larger part of it is neither useful nor ornamental; in the rural communities, the roving dog is an intolerable nuisance.

The suggestions being made that German prisoners be placed on farms in Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina and other States where farm laborers are scarce is interesting because one of the projects which the Continental Congress carried out in the Revolution was carried out in the Revolution was to put British prisoners to work in Pennsylvania. There were a number of blast furnaces in Central Pennsylvania which were operated by men wanted to help the government but who were unable to get hands. The Congress sent them a lot of Hessians taken at Trenton and they did excellent work, most of them becoming permanent employes of the plants after the war ended. In Berks and Lancaster counties descendants of some of these men own farms today. In other States Scottish and Irish prisoners of war sent to work on farms became Americans before the war ended and were valuable citizens.
