

PUBLIC SAFETY PLANS ADOPTED

No Differences Between Commission and Committee on Defense Hereafter

A determined drive to increase the National Guard of Pennsylvania to its full quota will be pushed out and before it is mustered into the Federal service on July 15 is to be made by the State authorities, in co-operation with the Public Safety Committee of Pennsylvania.

This was announced last night by Governor Brumbaugh at the conclusion of a conference held between him and the other members of the State Commission of Public Safety and Defense and members of the Public Safety Committee.

The conference resulted in what ever differences which have existed between the commission and the committee being smoothed out and thousands of dollars being placed by the commission at the disposal of the State funds already granted to the latter.

Of the additional thousands, $10,000 is to be given to the committee, the Governor explained, for the express purpose of enabling it to help in the recruiting of State as well as national military forces. The Governor said he desired the recruiting of the State forces emphasized.

"We want to fill the ranks of the National Guard with native-born Pennsylvanians," the Governor said. "That is why we are about to begin a drive to bring the Guard up to its full quota before it is mustered into the Federal service. We want the Guard to be a distinctly Pennsylvania organization when it is turned over to the Government."

"We believe that it would be better to have our infantry and other Guard organizations made up of Pennsylvanians from their respective sections— from boys of their own neighborhoods, as it were—than to have them recruited in, after they enter the Federal service, with recruits from Maine, or Texas, or California, as the case might be, in the event of our interest having to draw upon outsiders to make up the Guard's full quota."

The Governor further explained that the Public Safety Committee is to work directly with Adjutant General Stewart, a member of the State Commission, in using the $10,000 to help in the recruiting of the State and national military forces. Naval recruits are also included in the plan, but the real work of recruiting is to be concentrated upon the Guard for the present, at least, so that Pennsylvania can offer it, the Governor said, to the Government as a complete organization, composed entirely of Pennsylvanians.

Another $10,000, or whatever part of it may be required, was also granted to the committee to defray the expenses incurred by General Avery D. Andrews of Philadelphia, chairman of the Military Service Committee of the Public Safety Committee, and his associates, in helping to have the interest in the registration of those subject to the selective draft, expenses incurred through publicity or other work performed by the committee previous to last Tuesday.

The commission also gave the committee $20,000 for use in food conservation and the distribution and marketing of foodstuffs, which is to be one of its chief tasks. This work is in the hands of a subcommittee, of which Howard H. Hines is a member of a big Pittsburgh foodstuffs firm, as chairman.

Mr. Hines participated in last night's conference, as did W. V. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Spencer C. Gilbert and A. W. Sewell, all prominent members of the Public Safety Committee.

The Governor, in the event of the State commission, presided. The other members of the commission—Lieutenant-Governor McClain, Adjutant General Stewart, State Treasurer Keenhart and Auditor General Snyder—were all present.

Meeting Harmonious

"Our meeting was harmonious and satisfactory in every way," the Governor said afterwards—and his words were echoed by the others who attended the conference. "It let me say that a big government official only recently expressed the opinion that the Public Safety Committee of Pennsylvania was the best organization of its kind that he was acquainted with. The more important fact is that we have reached a complete understanding with the members of the committee as to how their organization, composed of big men who are making many sacrifices and devoting a great deal of their time in the interests of their State and country, may best co-operate with us and help to work out the more important problems which are bound to confront us."

Socialists Expect U. S. to Send Delegates

London, June 7.—Plans for the Stockholm Socialist Conference are advancing rapidly. Now that the French chamber has declared its position regarding Alsace-Lorraine, it is considered probable that the French delegates will be permitted to visit Stockholm, provided they are willing to accept the national Alsace-Lorraine program.

The action of the United States in refusing passports to its Socialist delegates remains somewhat of a puzzle here, unless the reason be that the delegates are notoriously pro-German. Responsible people here, who would readily admit that America may have been misled by the original British attitude, and therefore acted under a misapprehension.

VIOLENT HAIL AND RAINSTORM GREATLY DAMAGES WAYNESBORO

Loss in Town May Reach $100,000; Post Office Flooded and $15,000 Worth of Supplies Destroyed; Wreck Throughout Cumberland Valley May Reach Million

Waynesboro, June 7.—Yesterday afternoon the most violent and destructive hail and rainstorm, accompanied by heavy wind, that ever visited the region occurred. For over one-half hour, beginning at 3 o'clock, a bombardment of hail as large as walnuts, while many of the missiles weighed a pound, beat upon the earth, accompanied all the while by a terrific cloudburst, with one peal of terrific thunder following another in a combined crash and roar.

The damage is appalling. Buildings lost, in many cases, every window on the north and west sides of Waynesboro. Thousands of panes of glass were smashed into bits. Homes and apartments, stores and shops were flooded. In Potomac and Church streets, as well as others running north and south, hail and water swept over sidewalks and the water poured into the cellars until a depth of five and six feet was reached. Trees were clipped of their branches and denuded of their foliage. On the sidewalks and streets all along was a mass of tangled limbs and leaves. The damage in Waynesboro alone will amount to between $50,000 and $100,000.

All of the windows along the west side of Potomac avenue were given the full force of the hail, and the buildings present the appearance of having been gutted by fire. Trees were blown and cut down with the hail, limbs and leaves were torn off trees, skylights knocked to pieces, and things in general destroyed by the hail which covered the ground to a depth of from two to six inches in some places.

Sewers were clogged and the water rose across the streets and pavements, going through houses and washing out gardens. Flags were torn down and washed away. The funeral procession of Mrs. Katherine Yonson, on its way from Green Hill Cemetery, was struck with the full fury of the storm, and one driver, Harry Potts, was badly injured by the falling hail and debris. He was taken to the office of a physician for treatment.

Three feet, or up to the floors of automobiles and trolley cars standing there.

So large were the hailstones and so powerful in force that, spouting was hammered off buildings and slag and tar roofing were broken through, holes as large as hen's eggs being cut through the roof.

The damage to fruit and growing wheat and corn is incalculable, and it is not conceivable how a single apple, peach or cherry could have withstood that awful fusillade of hail. The damage will run into thousands if not a million or two in the Cumberland Valley, as wheat fields are mowed down as if done with a sickle, while the corn that was above ground was cut out by the roots.

panes; Hotel Werner, 15; Wayne Building, 37; Arcade Building, about 2; Ennis Building, 50; Beck & Benedict Building, 35; A. R. Warner Building, 400; a number of other stores and business buildings, residences, etc., lost from 6 to seventy-five each, while the public school buildings lost several hundred glass each.

Emory Heefner's residence on Fairview avenue was struck by lightning, which knocked the chimney off, and the bolt flew across the porch of the house owned and occupied by Lester Barr.

Robins, bluebirds, wrens, orioles, redbirds and other songbirds suffered. The summer bird colony is next to annihilated. The nests were all cut to pieces and the birds killed by thousands. Not a bird could be seen anywhere after the storm while dead ones were everywhere. Just at the beginning of the storm, a red-headed woodpecker made a frantic effort to get through one of the screened windows of the Daily Herald newspaper office. It was soon knocked senseless.

CLOCK 300 YEARS OLD

Marietta, Pa., June 7.—Miss Virginia Reem, of Elizabethtown, has an old grandfather's clock which is over 300 years old. The clock was made in Germany, and is in excellent condition. Jacob G. Hershey, of the same place, has a clock that bears the date of 1774, and is in good running order.
