MILITARY BILL IS UP TO GOVERNOR

McKee Measure Passed in House and Its Approval Said to Be Assured

The McKee reserve militia bill establishing three regiments of infantry and a squadron of cavalry to act as a provisional guard when the National Guard is on war service, was passed finally in the House and now goes to the Governor for action. The Adjutant General will designate where the organizations will be located where there are armories. No opposition was manifested.

time of annual reports of public service companies to accord with the calendar year was passed. The House session, which was presided over by Mr. Williams, began, was marked by a number of discussions. Mr. Milliron, Armstrong, took Mr. Radisill, Adams, to task over the same code. The bill to fix the salary of the department clerk in the Executive Department was passed. The clerk is Herbert D. Harry now at Fort Niagara.

THE CHAMBERS OF IMAGERY

These Comments On The Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic Of The Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Etc.—For June 10: "Sins Of The Mind," Rom. 8:1-11.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS. The first contribution we can make to the world, if we seek its betterment, is a strong life. Unless we have unbending integrity and breadth of soul it will be impossible for us to lift up our fellows. We cannot help another to get higher up than we are ourselves. Each must lift his own life before he can lift his neighbor's life.

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day that must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best will breed in you temperance, self-control, diligence, strength of will, content and a hundred virtues which the idle never know.—Charles Kingsley. Lives bear both wheat and tares. The divided harvest is the lot of every soul. But the proof of life is whether the tares or the wheat is cast out when discovered. Search thine own heart. What paintings there in others, in thyself may be. All dust is frail, all flesh is weak, but the true man thou dost seek. To amend the mind is to lift the life. "As a man thinketh, so is he."

LAUDS SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN FOR LIBERTY BONDS BEING CONDUCTED IN THIS CITY

"This loan would be subscribed by 10,000,000 people, with a tremendous surplus left for future needs, if the country at large were as well organized as the people of Harrisburg," said Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, the biggest financial institution in the country, addressing a meeting of members of the Chamber of Commerce, at the Technical High school last evening.

"Harrisburg is doing a fine piece of work for this loan. Your organization is the best I have seen anywhere and I have visited many cities. Notwithstanding that your quota has been oversubscribed, your city is being combed so that everybody with a dollar to spare for this loan is being pressed to invest."

"I want to say that the men who are doing this work are serving their country just as patriotically and just as ably as though they wore the uniform of the army. But they must not let their organization lapse. They must hold it together. There will be other loans, other services, and the Red Cross to support. War means the organization of every branch of civic life. For every twenty-five men in the army there must be seventy-five back of the fighting lines."

Meeting Follows Dinner The meeting followed a "war menu" dinner at the Harrisburg Club, tendered Mr. Vanderlip by the Harrisburg Clearing House Association, and William Jennings president. He presided. Mr. Vanderlip, afterward Former Congressman James F. Burke, of Pittsburgh, who delivered an address sparkling with epigram and eloquence.

"If this country realized, first, that there is a war; secondly, that we're in it, and, thirdly, that it costs money, there would be no trouble about obtaining subscriptions to the Liberty Loan," Mr. Vanderlip said. "America is facing the greatest financial task ever presented to the nation. It is because the country does not understand these three simple fundamental propositions that this loan isn't already oversubscribed."

He described conditions in the various countries opposing Germany and depicted the chaotic and unsettled conditions in Russia and the dangers involved with regard to the interests of this nation. "Nobody can tell what the future is going to be, politically, in Russia," he said. "There might be a separate Russian peace, though I personally do not think there will be. There is this possibility, however, which we must remember, and that is that the Russian people are now in Russia, who would be available for duty. It would also release the arms of the victors and powers now fighting on the east front and open up the vast food stores of Russia to her former foes."

"England is getting hungrier," ships are being sunk faster than they can be built. The U-boat situation must be conquered. I don't care how rich a nation is, she can't fight if she is starving. Do you realize what it would mean if England were forced to make peace because she was starved out, and the English navy taken, with a German invasion of this country to follow? This country must wake up to the fact that there is a war, and that we're in it. We're the greatest hope of civilization and we've got to win. The weight of the United States will turn the scale."

Why Germany Wanted War "Did you ever wonder why Germany wanted us in this war? I think it was in order to have a solvent nation when the end came. If Germany should win the war, that would mean that we'd be asked to foot the bill. We aren't playing at war. This is the real thing. This is the most serious situation the nation ever faced."
