SHOPPING IN JUNE Thoughts For the Sweet Girl Graduate and the June Bride

Seashore Stunts Are you ready for your swim in the cool waters of the Susquehanna, or your trip to the seashore? It is hard to say which is more alluring—the thought of a splash in clear water, or the thought of the sun on your bathing suits just shown at Astrich's new store, 308 Market street. They are conveniently displayed on the first floor and offer a wonderful assortment including the pretty and serviceable mohairs with swimming tights, the Annette Kellerman one-piece suits, and the fine light silks in dark colors, brightened with fetching bits of trimming in red, green and white. Prices range from $2.98 to $5.

Your White Footwear You'll never have trouble with your white footwear if you buy it at the Walk-Over Shoe Shop, 226 Market street, and then use the excellent cleaning preparations which they offer for canvas, kid and buckskin. A special buck powder, with convenient padded stick for applying is the easiest and most satisfactory of cleaners and retains the ivory white finish on your buck footwear without flattening the nap as the liquid cleansers do. The tremendous vogue of white buckskin footwear this season for both sports and dress wear is easily understood, for nothing is more serviceable or more attractive and the new models shown at this shop are offered at most tempting prices.

A Summer Drink A shady porch, a comfortable chair, a good book, and a glass of iced orange phosphate, and the new summer drink offered by the Grand Union Tea Company, 208 North Second street, for home use—makes a recipe for a happy summer afternoon, and this delicious drink costs almost nothing. A 25c bottle will make sixty glasses of orange phosphate, so that a glass costs really less than half a cent, and the pleasure it brings is worth twenty times the cost. To-morrow a special demonstration will be held at this store, to which the public is cordially invited for a taste of this summer beverage.

The Blue of Lugano Perched on a rose-twined lattice against a neutral-toned background, are gay little humming birds which look almost ready to chirp a spring greeting, and this novel decoration is the motif for a new wall paper shown at the Blake Shop, 226 North Second street. The hangings used with this are in blue, of the wonderful shimmering Lugano fabric which takes its name so appropriately from the beautiful lake of Lugano which nestles among the mountains of Italian Switzerland, and the combination of lustrous blue hangings, with a cool Scotch wool rug, and this charming paper make a delightful room.

Gifts For the Boy Graduate It isn't a bit hard to find suitable gifts for the boy graduate at Jacob Tausig's Sons, 420 Market street, for they offer original and appropriate gift suggestions at most moderate prices. Sterling silver buckles or clasps for men's black leather belts, silver mounted clothes brushes, sets of military brushes and interesting gift cases containing watch chain and knife, or cuff links and necktie clasp are shown, while many popular gifts are priced from 75c to $3.00. The gift of a watch is likely to be the parents' choice for the boy, and watches in gunmetal, silver, silver, gold-filled and solid gold, including Waltham and Elgin movements, are priced at Tausig's from $2 to $75.

W. C. T. U. DEBATE FINE ARGUMENTS

Innovation to Usual Program Is Well Received and Heartily Enjoyed

One of the most interesting and unusual meetings ever held in Harrisburg took place yesterday afternoon at the Fourth Street Church of God, when four members of the W. C. T. U. debated the question, "Resolved, That Christian nations have carried more harm than good to the heathen." It is rare to find debates carried on by contestants beyond high school or college age, and when grandmothers become Portias, it is decidedly unique. On each side of this argument was a snow-haired grandmother, the supporter of the negative a great-grandmother, in fact. Both these aged women hold high rank in the community, both having had heaped upon them honors of church and righteousness: Mrs. H. B. Hartzler and Mrs. Margaret Ellenberger. They are both crusaders of the early days of the W. C. T. U., when national sentiment was first awakened on the subject of pollution from strong drink. One of them, Mrs. Ellenberger, spoke valiantly for the good the white missionary had done in heathen lands; the other, Mrs. Hartzler, contended with equal courage of conviction, that Christian nations have failed to uphold the standard their name indicates. In the absence of Mrs. J. Horace McFarland, one of the judges, Mrs. J. B. Kobb consented to act, with Mrs. E. A. Reigel and Mrs. Thomas S. Blair. After commenting on the splendid support each side of the argument had received, Mrs. Reigel, as chairman of the committee of judges, awarded the victory to the negative. Mrs. John DeGraw, affirmative, and Mrs. Walter M. Davis, negative, were the supporting debaters of the crusaders.

The Bowers-Richardson Wedding at High Noon

Miss Ruth M. Richardson of Camp Hill and Thomas J. Bowers of this city were quietly married Thursday, June 7, at high noon in the Pine Street Presbyterian Church, Third and Pine streets, by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Albert B. Richardson, wore a dark blue traveling costume with hat to match and a corsage bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. Miss Richardson was maid of honor for her sister and Hayes Hoover of Lemoyne was best man. A wedding breakfast was served after the service at the bride's home, where a few intimate friends joined with the families in showering the young couples with good wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers will make their home in Camp Hill after a brief wedding trip.

HEAR "CREATION" WELL PRESENTED

Musical Art Society Sings Haydn's Wonderful Oratorio

It is well to-day when all the world is engaged in its titanic struggle to look backward to elemental things, to the great chaotic forces of nature righting themselves and finding their level in definite form. Such is the theme of Haydn's wonderful oratorio, "The Creation," sung last night by the members of the Musical Art Society in Grace Methodist Episcopal Church. It is the first chapter of the Book of Genesis set to music with a libretto of poetic beauty. It was of this composition that the great master said he was never so pious as when at work upon it and he prayed daily for strength and inspiration. Most of the solo work in the recitative selections was carried by Miss Mary Buttorf, soprano, and William S. Hoover, tenor. Miss Buttorf's voice is firm and colorful, her high tones being as full, true and well sustained as her lower register. Her recitative selections were especially pleasing in such passages as "Cooling calls the tender dove his mate, the dove of this ecstatic Garden of Eden, and 'Here fragrant herbs their odors shed, here shoots the healing plant,' when God commanded the earth to bring forth green grass and yielding seed." Mr. Hoover's clear, distinct enunciation is one of the strongest points of his singing. He has a range of good notes and volume and a sympathetic understanding of the tonal art. It was the splendid chorus of fifty voices which saved the time and labor expended to make the rendition a success. Under the able leadership of their conductor, John W. Phillips, musician-in-charge of the choir of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, this group of mixed voices sang the choral parts with a smoothness and unison which is a delight to the ear. During the finale of part I, "The Heavens are Telling," the bit of "Creation" so appreciated by all real music-lovers, the audience was thrilled by the majesty of the reverent beauty of the selection. It was in the abrupt staccato ending of measures and phrases which the choir showed their familiarity with the difficult score. Day by day the great story of the world's beginning was unfolded, and the audience was led to music of rare suggestion and beauty and handled by singers and musicians who gave of their best unsparingly. Beautiful Solo Work Interspersed throughout the oratorio were arias sung in solo form where both words and music were unusual and dramatic. "Affrighted by hell's spirits black in throngs—to endless night" to "Rolling in foaming billows, uplifted, roars the boisterous sea," the fine accompaniment of Updegrave's orchestra and of William R. Stonesifer at the organ joined with the voices in making these bits of melodic beauty especially effective. The other principals, both in solo and trio singing, were Mrs. Vania Forster, Miss Katharine Dubbs and Miss Mildred Gatzman, soprano; John Fisher and William Bretz, tenors, and Ross Harman, baritone. It has been thirty years or more since Haydn's "Creation" has been given by Harrisburg talent, but the Musical Art Society has shown during the past winter as well as last night that it is a field for building up good choral work of which the city may be justly proud. A silver collection for the benefit of the Red Cross was taken during the evening and in the neighborhood of $25 secured. Following the oratorio a supper was served to the singers and their guests in the church parlors where Professor Phillips in a graceful little address commended them for the season's work and bade them good-by for the summer months to resume their study the first of October.

Gannett, who has been given by Harrisburg talent, but the Musical Art Society has shown during the past winter as well as last night that it is a field for building up good choral work of which the city may be justly proud. Why Carry a Fat Watch? Bulk—weight and thickness—is the only valid objection to a pocket time-piece. Watchmakers are constantly striving to reduce size without sacrificing accuracy. Dietrich Gruen hit upon a simple rearrangement of the train wheels, which takes away half of the thickness of the watch. It's a feature exclusive in Gruen Watches, making them "fit the pocket like a silver dollar." No watch equals Gruen Verithins in beauty and convenience. None surpasses them in accuracy. See them at Diener's—we have the exclusive agency in Harrisburg. $16 to $200 Supreme as a graduation present. DIENER The Jeweler What We Say It Is, It Is 408 Market St.
