Governor Says They Caused a Scandal and Refuses to Approve Mitchell's Bill

Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh's veto of the Mitchell bill to validate claims of counties for the scalps of noxious animals which had been rejected by the State Game Commission and the Auditor General will throw $80,000 back on the counties. For weeks men representing various counties have been here in the hope of getting the bill through.

These claims have been a cause of contention for two years and the Governor charges they have been a scandal. The State Game Commission officials opposed the bill contending that local officials were at fault, charging many instances of gross fraud such as sending in the skins of cats for animals and of

The governor also vetoed the subject of a careful inquiry and that if claims are found to be just that the matter be presented at that time.

Governor Brumbaugh announced his veto of the bill to increase the salaries of members of the Legislature from $1,500 to $2,500 per year, saying "We are in a great war. Many sacrifices will be made. Many smen will willingly give up time and money for the national good and it is an inopportune time to approve increased compensation to these representatives." The Governor says in the course of his veto that like bills have been disapproved by his predecessors and that the quality of the service in the Legislature would scarcely be improved by the additional cost of $270,000 per session. He says that members do not seek legislative places for the salary and that there is no lack of willing cit. Zens for place. He adds that the common people have "expressed decided protest against this increased cost of legislative service at a sacrifice to themselves, adding, "The proper way to determine this compensation of members would be to submit the question in the candidacy of those willing to serve. The people would then in choosing one favoring an increased salary give guidance of moment."

The Governor also vetoed the Daix bill to permit Philadelphia to build a stadium saving that while contains and the proper way to determine the common people have "expressed decided protest against this increased cost of legislative service." The flows an intimate series of the wonder of the deep. The follows an intimate series of the wonder of the deep. The follows an intimate series of the wonder of the good of the product o ment."

The Governor also vetoed the Daix bill to permit Philadelphia to build a stadium, saying that while it is a commendable project and Philadelphia needs it, yet it is competent by law to erect one. Councils should not be required to pay bills they do not contract and should not be denied a voice in the matter, holds the Governor. It is a matter for councils says the Governor.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS ERECT FINE MONUMENT TO LEE AT GETTYSBURG

The handsome monument erected at a cost of $50,000 in the Gettysburg National Park, was dedicated yesterday. The monument shows General Lee on Traveler, his famous war horse. The statue of the Souths leader is fourteen feet in height and stands on a granite base twenty-two feet high. The equestrian is of bronse, as is the group which is at the base of the statue. The group is sixteen feet in length, eighteen feet high and five feet deep. The monument is located near the spot at which General Lee stood in conference with some of his staff just before Pickett's charge was started. The monument is the work of F. W. Stevens, a Richmond sculptor.

"Charlie" is shown seeking rest and recuperation at a modern rest and recuperation at a modern health resort. He arrives with a strange assortment of baggage and promptly proceeds to imbibe the medicinal waters. One has to see the scenes in the steamroom, the massageroom, and in the lobby of the resort to appreciate fully the uproarious comedy that Chaplin creates. The end of the picture contains the biggest surprise of all. Monday's attraction will be "The Tides of Barnegat," with Blanche Sweet.
