

RED CROSS IS LAUDED FOR HOME WORK

Little Notes of Appreciation Show Spirit With Which Aid Is Received

Measures of Red Cross work, not in dollars but in letters and notes of appreciation, were made public yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the executive committee of the Harrisburg chapter.

A letter was received yesterday by Mrs. Lyman D. Gilbert, from a soldier now in service, thanking the ladies of the Harrisburg Red Cross for just a bit of encouragement and help that had been able to extend to a wife in this city when she needed a human touch of sympathy and kindness.

A letter was also received from a young physician recently called into service. The Red Cross had done nothing but furnish him with the kit of the kits they have sent to Harrisburg men, yet the spirit back of the little tribute prompted him to thank and encourage the work.

Judges' Salary Raiser Report Is Approved

The conference report on the bill to increase salaries of judges in Westmoreland, Schuylkill, Dauphin, Lancaster, Fayette, Berks, Cambria and Montgomery counties, was adopted in the House to-day by 121 to 62, after votes of four members had been challenged.

MURDER OF MAN IS REHEARSED

Demonstrate How Richcreek Is Alleged to Have Shot Silberman

How Frederick Richcreek, charged with the murder of Ephraim Silberman, a peddler, explained a week after the crime was committed, how the shooting occurred, was brought out at the trial to-day by District Attorney Stroup.

During the morning, Richcreek, sitting beside his brother, watched intently as each witness explained to the jury where the defendant stood and the place on the other side of the towpath where Silberman was sitting when shot.

The witnesses who were called were ones who had been with County Detective Walters when he took Richcreek to the scene to explain the shooting. Richcreek's story, as told by these witnesses, was that he was hunting in the old canal bed, near Middletown, and saw a partridge fly up over the towpath.

Maps and pictures of the scene of the shooting, and sheets of paper peppered with shot-holes in paper, were produced in evidence as the District Attorney neared the closing of the web of evidence around the youth, whose life hangs in the balance. The defense may open this afternoon.

Dr. Klugh on Trial. In Courtroom No. 2, the trial of Dr. Oliver E. Klugh, held on a charge of performing a criminal operation on Mrs. Margaret Kling Stuckey, of Middletown, was started, Judge Charles V. Henry presiding, at Judge McCarter's in Courtroom No. 1, Judge Kunkel being absent.

Dr. B. F. Blecker, of Middletown, was the first witness called by the Commonwealth, testifying to the condition of Mrs. Stuckey last July. At that time she was Miss Margaret Kling, and the jury was sent out of the room until this was settled.

When Dr. Blecker left the stand Mrs. Stuckey was called. A legal argument on the extent to which she could be cross-examined by Fox and Geyer, counsel for Dr. Klugh, developed, and the jury was sent out of the room until this was settled.

After being sworn, Mrs. Stuckey told of four visits to the office of Dr. Klugh last July, and of her illness early in August. She answered without hesitation every question asked by both by Assistant District Attorney Frank E. Wickert and Attorney John E. Geyer. The defense opened when court reconvened this afternoon.

PEOPLE MUST DEFEND RIGHTS

So State Bar Hears; Hargest Reviews Legislative Progress

Bedford Springs, Pa., June 26.—"A people unwilling to fight for the right to make their own laws sooner or later will be compelled to fight for the maintenance of the conqueror's right to make their laws." This was the dominant note in the address of Cyrus G. Derr, president, at the opening session of the twenty-third annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Association here to-day.

Satisfactory progress in the attempt to bring about uniform legislation among the States was reported by William M. Hargest, of Harrisburg, chairman of the Uniform State Laws committee.

"In Pennsylvania there has been passed this year a uniform limited partnership act which places this State in line with many others," he said. "An act has been reported to the Legislature relating to deeds, mortgages, transfers of lands, and insurance of title, which is identical with the uniform land registration act recommended to the several States of the Union. It was, however, of such vast importance that it was deemed inadvisable to attempt its passage at the sessions of 1917."

"Nearly all the States have adopted the negotiable instruments act. Thirty-seven States, the uniform warehouse receipt act, nineteen States the uniform sales act, twenty-two States the uniform bills of lading act, twelve States the uniform stock transfer act and five States the uniform partnership act."
