

DRYING WILL SAVE MUCH LOSS

Urgent Appeal Is Made to Women to See No Food Is Wasted

Washington, June 28.—Urgent appeal to women to see that no food products are allowed to go to waste during the war is made in a letter to-day from Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the National Food Garden Commission, to Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman.

Especially emphasized was the drying of vegetables and fruits as a means of preventing heavy loss of perishable food products this summer.

"Drying is a process within the reach of every American household," said Mr. Pack. "It is simple, easy and sure. It involves little or no expense and comparatively little time. A housekeeper may conduct drying operations and entertain her afternoon tea guests at one and the same time. All she need do is to make an occasional visit to her kitchen or her outdoor dryer to watch the temperature to which the food is exposed. In this way she may provide for the winter needs of her household without sacrificing present enjoyment."

There has never been a time when drying was as vital as this year. The war makes food a most imperative. The production of foodstuffs will be unusually abundant because of the widespread planting of food gardens about the country.

New York, June 28.—Lord Northcliffe, British High Commissioner to the United States, in an address to magazine editors and writers at a luncheon here yesterday, expressed the hope that the United States would not muddle the censorship as England did the first three years of the war.
