Washington, July 11. - Formal complaint against the Curtis Pub-lishing Company was issued to-day by the Federal Trade Commission. by the Federal Trade Commission, charging unfair business practices and stifling of competition by refus-ing to sell its publication to dealers handling competitors' publications. The company publishes several magazines, including the Saturday Evening Post and the Ladies' Home Journal. Its officers were ordered by the commission to appear August 3 to show cause why they should not be directed to cease the practices complained of.

Allegations on which the trade commission's complaint was brought were made by the Pictorial Review Company, which charges that the Curtis Company used the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies Home Jour-nal and the Country Gentleman to hamper the sale of the Pictorial Re-view' Magazine. A suit brought by the Pictorial Review Company in the New York courts recently, which sought an injunction restraining the Curtis Company in its alleged un-fair practices, was dismissed by the court.

Those who have most recently been to Germany say that reform is absolutely certain the chances greatly favor initial steps be-ing taken even during hostilities. Austria's influence is becoming more and more insistent toward a liberal peace. Austria is said to be treated most contemptuously by German officials and given consider-action only as the unavoidable weak kink in the chain. Nevertheless, it is known that she would make peace to moriow if possible, and her activ-ity in consulting German statesmen and political leaders is undoubtedly causing worry at German headquar-ters.

A little leak will soon play havoc with a tin roof, especially if the water soaks through and rusts the under side. By watching for little leaks, which often start as mere pinholes, patching them, and painting, a roof may be made to last two or three times as long as it would if it did not receive such attention. A tin roof ought to be painted, on an average, every three years-and it will prove economical to have a good tinner examine it every year or two. The best time to paint a roof is when the weather is clear and warm. July is a good month. Any of the following firms will guarantee a good job at an honest price:
