Pennsylvania Senator Says Democrats Are Given Safe Jobs

Washington, July 12. - That the Washington, July 12. — That the administration is giving military commissions to Democrats performing purely civilian duties was charged on the floor of the Senate by Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania. Gross abuse of power was charged against the administration in the course of the Senator's sensational speech. The purely civilian duties was charged on the floor of the Senater Penrose, of Pennsylvania. Gross abuse of power was charged against the administration in the course of the Senator's sensational speech. The senior Senator from Pennsylvania will introduce a resolution later calling upon the Secretary of War for a list of civilians who have been elevated to high military rank, although performing nonmilitary duties.

"The list will be so grotesque as almost to bring scandal upon the Government." Senator Penrose is made over night," he added, and predicted the selective army would be "a Republican army." The administrations over night," he added, and predicted the selective army would be "a Republican army." The administrations of the sempted from military service. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military saffairs committee, said he would ald Senator Penrose in getting such a resolution before the Senator in the course of the senator is a senator of the floor of the Senator of the Senator is a man had all his fortune in government bonds, and should lease, or should be for they know it.

LOVE DIES IF NEGLECTED, AS CARELESS HUSBANDS AND SELFISH WIVES FIND

Dorothy Dix Writes of the Criminal Stupidity of Men and Women Who, Once They Are Married, Leave Affection to Starve to Death Because They Are "Too Busy" to Protect the Greatest Gift of Life

The most inexplicable of all human them, are so careless of the love vagaries is the fact that we take so that has been intrusted to them that little trouble and precaution to safe-guard love.

THURSDAY EVENING,

them for their depredations, and the air is full of the lamentations of husbands and wives, who are beating upon their breasts and walling out that somehow, somewhere, they have lost or mislaid the affection of their spouses.

How does it happen?

A man marries a woman who gives him her whole loving heart, her romantic girlish dreams, her tender, clinging, sensitive soul. Its a great gift, enough to make a man a billionaire of affection, and you would think that he would exhaust every device, every particle of ingenuity in keeping it safe. But he doesn't.

He is too busy to protect it, too careless to lock it up. He doesn't even take the trouble to look at it the the tender to keep what he has won.

How does it happen?

She craved sympathy; he gave her none. She loved amusement; he was too busy to accompany her even to the theater, or too stingy to give her samuch as a treat of a restaurant supper.

She had enthusiasms for art and literature; he mocked at them.

She loved society! he let her go into it alone and unguarded.

Be sure that no man ever alienates the affection of another man's wife unless the husband is too incomplete the husband is too incomplete the proportunity.

Women Willing to Wear Standard Dress

London-There has never been a ime when women were more willing to accept standard dress or uniforms than they are at present.

Scotch plaids have given the Parisiennes great joy.

"Khaki shades are in vogue for spring and summer costumes, and the blue-gray, with touches of crimson, of the French uniforms is see here and there."

Be sure that no man ever alientates the affection of another mans wife unless the husband is too in different to keep what he has won.
How does a woman lose her husband's saffection?

By the same road. By laziness, by weakness, by incompetency, by triflingness, by carelessness.

She first charmed him by her prettiness and daintiness. She lets herself grow slouchy and unattractive.
He fell in love with her because she was amilable and sweet. She grows querulous and complaining indeference of the first of the damed of a home that would be full of comfort and peace. She grow a querulous and complaining have stolen her husband that adher and discontent have their abode.
