A Drop On a Touchy Corn

Instant relief! Then corn or callus lifts off with fingers.

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without one twinge of pain. A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it Frezone. Any druggist will sell a bottle of Frezone for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus and it disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off. Frezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't take away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the skin. Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. No soreness or smarting. Women should keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn or callus reach twice.—Adv.

PERSHING MOVES ARMY TO FRONT

U. S. Troops Sent Across France to Permanent Base Camp

With the American Army in France, July 13.—Pershing's boys have crossed France from the camps near the French seaport where they first landed to the permanent new base.

It was one great triumphal procession, in trains, carrying 1,000 each, the American troops rode through some of the most beautiful parts of France. Nearly all the way they sang patriotic songs, marching songs, ragtime—everything. Some displayed their linguistic and musical talents by humming French airs they had picked up in the few short weeks in camp.

All along the itinerary, in every city, town, village and hamlet, the trains were greeted by cheering crowds. As the first train passed through, the inhabitants in the immediate vicinity of the station came running on. No piece of gossip, big or small, ever made such a wild ride run through towns as the news that the "Sammyes" were passing through. Everywhere thousands of men, women and children streamed in, and when the last train passed through the tracks were thickly lined with a jubilant multitude.

At places where the passing of the "Sammyes" were passing through, the schoolchildren in their best holiday clothes were assembled and sang the American and French national anthems. Little girls in white dresses threw roses at the soldiers, others offered cigarettes and sweets. Some were anxious to recite a poem. Elaborate rest stations had been established. The "Sammyes" were heaped with gifts of every description.

It was as if the population of France had united to congratulate the American soldiers in some degree for what they missed at their departure from America, because of the necessities of the war.

The troop trains did not pass through Paris. While the soldiers were traveling nearer and nearer to the front, the staff of the American force was straining every nerve in completing the work to make the troops fit in every respect to take their part in the fighting. It is expected that many changes in the American uniform which have been recommended since the troops landed in France will be adopted.

Tremendous Job Chief among them are supplanting of the arm poncho with a cavalry slicker, the shortening of the overcoat and the introduction of cloth puttees. Folding fatigue caps will be placed under the shrapnel helmets. Each man will be furnished with a canvas sleeveless flannel-lined jacket. The quartermaster corps is confronted with a tremendous job. Men of the highest executive ability are needed. A huge refrigerating plant is required, as are refrigerating cars, capable of carrying a million pounds of meat daily. For the erection of the plant, only lumber and cement are available in France. The rest of the material and all the supplies must be transported to their port of destination from the United States.

In addition, the army will need storage oil tanks of 1,000,000-gallon capacity and salvage depots for the renovation of the clothes. One pair of shoes lasts just about one week in the trenches. One French army depot employs not fewer than 3,000 men. All these tremendously important questions are now being tackled by the American staff.

If You'd Be Military

If you would be military this fall you may buy or copy this costume. It is one of the few which affect the military and yet seem beautiful. The cape is made of French blue broadcloth, smartly trimmed with black velvet and silver braid and buttons. The hat of helmet shape with embossed spikes is realistic enough. The pompon gives the hat an additional military touch.
