

THREE OF ROBBER GANG ARRESTED BY PATROLMAN

Policeman Cripples One With Shot and Captures Two Others

Three out of a gang of five were captured by Patrolman Heagy last night after they had attempted to rob the cigar store of Wesley A. Toomey, 650 Harris street. One of the men was shot, but managed to get away with a companion's help. Both were arrested later at the Harrisburg Hospital by Heagy. The first arrest was made when one of the fugitives scaled a fence in Seventh street and the patrolman cornered him.

Patrolman Heagy noticed the men hanging around the store earlier in the evening and decided to keep an eye on them. When he noticed the place at midnight, the men were working on the shutters in an attempt to open them. A splintering of wood and the rattle of the broken glass and Heagy knew he had them rehandled. He fired a shot in the direction of the fugitives, picked out one man and followed him until he was arrested, while the other two, James Tyler and his home as Newton, Mass.

Seven Measures Are Vetted by Governor

Among the seven bills announced today as vetted by Governor Brumbaugh was the House bill which the Governor says was "intended to deny further practice to certain old dentists who were in practice prior to 1907 and are not qualified to practice." On this the Governor says: "When thought is turning to the care of aged persons it is scarcely fitting to strike at one of the oldest and most venerable of our professions."

EXHORTS PEOPLE TO GREAT SERVICE TO THEIR COUNTRY

Large congregations heard the Rev. Harry Nelson Basler, pastor of the Second Reformed Church and chaplain of the Eighth Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, exhort his people to greater service yesterday morning and evening. At the morning service his plan was for faithfulness under every changing condition. He briefly reviewed the history of the congregation for sixty years, telling of the loyalty and sacrifices of the members in spite of changes in the pastorate, discouraging financial conditions and the ever-moving cycle of immovable conditions that constitute the church's struggle today.

Carries Cop Into Surf While Crowd Applauds

Atlantic City, July 15.—When Patrolman McDonough took exception to the brevity of the costume worn by a "lady friend" of Robert Nelson, a theatrical man, on the beach at Virginia avenue yesterday, Nelson took exception to the policeman's exception. In the warm verbal dispute that followed Nelson closed in on the policeman, gained a strangle hold and carried his struggling captive into the surf. The cold bath appeared to inject new life into the doughy bluecoat and he renewed his struggle in the breakers, finally overpowering Nelson and slipping the "nippers" on him.

CANNING RULES ARE EXCHANGED BY HOUSEWIVES

YOU with hundreds of other housewives have successful methods of canning, preserving and drying foods and fruits which have either been handed down to you from generations of your ancestors or which you have evolved. The feature of the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH is designed to help you exchange your ideas with other housewives. Send your favorite receipts and methods to the editor and they will be placed before thousands of other housewives. In this way they can be placed before the public and do the maximum amount of good.

PRESERVING - CANNING - DRYING Without previous experience, and with no other equipment than that to be found in almost every home, anyone, adult or child should be able to can food satisfactorily by the methods which follow.

They are a combination of the best methods found by the Government and the housewives of Central Pennsylvania. By the methods various vegetables, soups, meats, fish and practically any other food or combination of foods can be canned, as well as fruits and tomatoes, the products most commonly canned.

The simple, general rules necessary for successful canning, by the one-period, cold pack methods will be given.

In all home canning it should be born in mind that when hermetically sealed containers are difficult to obtain, food products which cannot be preserved easily in other ways should be given preference. This would make inadvisable in most cases at times like the present, the canning of such products as hominy, dried beans, potatoes and similar foods.

STEPS IN CANNING To the Editor of the Telegraph: The materials which have been cleaned and put into the shape in which they are to be canned, and containers have been cleaned and tested, the canning procedure for most products by the one-period cold-pack method consists of five steps—scalding or blanching, cold-dipping, packing, processing and sealing.

The products to be canned are blanched or scalded by being placed in a cheesecloth bag or dipping basket into boiling water and allowed to remain there from one to fifteen minutes, depending on the kind of product. In the case of greens and green vegetables, however, the scalding is accomplished most satisfactorily in steam, as volatile oils which are essential to their flavor are lost in boiling water.

As soon as the product is removed from the boiling water it should be dipped into cold, clean water and immediately removed and drained for a few moments. The temperature of the water used for cold dipping should be as low as possible.

Pack in Jars The product should be packed carefully into hot jars as soon as removed from the water. Boiling hot syrup or hot water is then added, in the case of vegetables, hot water is usually used and salt added for sea-food products. The jars are then capped and the tops are put into place, and the containers are placed in a hot-water bath, pressure or other suitable device for processing.

Processing is the final application of heat to sterilize the product and is continued for a period determined by the character of the product and the kind of apparatus used. The contents should be placed in the processing vessel as soon as they are filled.

Immediately after the termination of the processing procedure, while the products are still hot, glass and similar containers must be sealed.

Jars should then be placed in a tray upside down to cool and clean up, not exposed to freezing temperatures. Two talcum powder in glass jars will bleach or darken if exposed to light. It is well, therefore, to wrap jars in paper. From time to time, especially during very hot weather, both glass jars and tin cans should be examined to make certain there are no leaks, swellings or other signs of fermentation.

Equipment Required Whatever type of apparatus is used for processing or sterilizing, a number of things are needed for the proper handling of the products during the preceding steps. These include five or six acid-proof pans with covers for use in handling and blanching acid fruits, two tablespoons, one set of measuring spoons, one wire basket, or several yards of cheesecloth for use in blanching, six wiping cloths, two hand towels, one duplex fork for lifting hot jars, several sharp paring knives, a generous supply of clean hot and cold water, a garbage pail for scraps, and a good stove or other heating device.

For processing, home canners may choose from among several types of apparatus, according to their needs and means. The following list in common use are of five general types.

Same Bolt of Lightning Kills Father and Son

Hanover, Pa., July 15.—John King, 75 years old, and his son, Lloyd King, 27 years, both of West York, were struck by lightning and instantly killed Saturday night while fishing along the Conowago, near Creager's Mill, ten miles from Hanover.

There were six men in the party which drove from York in an automobile for a day's outing. They were preparing to go home, when a severe thunder storm broke over them and a son sought shelter under a tree, which was struck by a bolt. One body fell across the other.

By the time the other men witnessed the tragedy from the opposite side of the creek.

Country Faces Shortage of Doctors During War

Washington, July 15.—"The United States faces a serious shortage of doctors and nurses, not for its armies in the field alone, but for its civilian population," said Dr. Franklin Martin, chairman of the defense council's general medical board, made this statement yesterday in discussing what he believes to be one of the most pressing problems confronting the nation.

"We have only enough doctors and nurses now for our civilian population," he said. "While we are sending doctors across the sea, we must bend our efforts to creating new doctors and nurses at home—lest we fall into the terrible errors made by England and France. Our allies believed this was to be a short war—a three month war—perhaps six at the outside. They sent most of their medical people to the front, entirely overlooking the needs of their civilian population."

Speedy Passage of Big Aviation Program Is Promised in the Senate

Washington, July 15.—Speedy passage by the Senate of the $40,000,000 aviation bill, passed by the House Saturday, was predicted today by Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee. He had little doubt, he said, that the measure, providing for a fleet of 22,000 airplanes, would become a law before August 1.

"I am sure that the bill will be disposed of without delay," said Senator Chamberlain, "but probably not as quickly as in the House because of the desire of Senators to talk."

Four Causes For Anthracite Coal Shortage

1-Increased Demand and Consumption. 2-Car Shortage. 3-Lack of Labor at the Mines. 4-Complete Exhaustion of Coal Storage Reserve.

At the present time it is not a question of how much coal a dealer wants—but how much fuel he can supply with.

Efforts are being made by coal operators to apportion the supply that is available on an equitable basis, according to the needs, so that no section may suffer at the expense of another.

There is an acute shortage of Anthracite Coal now—in the middle of the Summer.

Heretofore in July dealers' yards were filled and the miners operating but two to three days each week.

It should not take a Prophet, or Son Of A Prophet, to see what conditions will be like in January when coal is scarce in July.

A word to the wise is sufficient.
