

TEACHERS WIN RETIREMENT FUND

System on Basis of Pedagogues Helping Pay; Other Bills Signed

The Senate bill establishing a state teachers' retirement system on a basis of the teachers paying one-half and the state and the local district each one-fourth, was approved by Governor Brumbaugh last night, and will become operative when organizations are effected. The system is to be administered by a board consisting of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the State Treasurer and a member to be appointed by the Governor, one member to be elected annually, and three to be chosen in a manner approved by the superintendent. An appropriation for administrative purposes is made and the plan is to have it begin business by 1919.

The Governor also approved the Senate bill validating checks and other banking business done between Saturday noon and midnight if of a kind that would be valid if performed on Saturday morning.

Governor Brumbaugh has signed the Sproul Senate bill empowering the Governor to appoint volunteer peace during the present war. The appointments are to be made only on petition and upon giving of such information and under such regulations as the Governor may prescribe.

The Governor also announced his approval of the Whitaker House bill reorganizing the Adjutant General's Department. The bill fixes the salary of the Adjutant General at $7,500, and changes salaries in the office and of most of the men at the State Arsenal.

The other Senate bills approved were: Increasing salary of Superintendent of Documents from $2,400 to $3,000, and appointing a chief clerk at $1,800, and a messenger at $1,200.

CITY GUARDSMEN MUSTERED IN

how it was done. Back with the lock, a look through the barrel and the suspicious are justified. A speck in the barrel, too, just where it should be even if it is harder to see. Down on a pad goes the defect, that will stand against the company, and if it is not remedied at the next inspection, then some one higher up will go the carpet.

Nothing Escapes The keen eyes of the men who have been looking for nothing but perfection since they were commissioned at West Point. Another stop, not even a glance at the gun, but the tab of shirt pocket is turned in. The inspector passes on, the man drops from the line and fixes the untidiness of tab and then returns to watch, from the corner of his eye what is happening to his friends down the line.

Both lines have been inspected. The officers' revolvers have been brought under the same rigid tests. Apparently that is the finish. Again the inspectors start up the line, this time watching for defects to be noted from the rear. A bayonet is jerked from its shield and a spot of rust is noticed on the otherwise shiny surface. Another thing to be righted, and if the appearances of the men can be taken as a sign the same thing will not be noted on that scratch pad the next time.

Soldiers of the Nation When the inspection was over and the men at rest for a moment, the usual joking and banter was not to be noticed. No longer guardsmen of the State, but soldiers of the nation and of the world. The ceremony, simple as it was, seemed to have made a deep impression on the men who had been mustered into the service. Not a gathering for a summer encampment but the first big step for preparation in the world war.

Rejections Are Few Late to-day the entire number of rejections had not been tabulated. It was estimated, however, that more than forty men had been rejected for physical disabilities. One man has not reported for duty and in five more days will be considered a deserter. Another forgot to return to camp last night and was not to be found this morning. To be absent without leave means the guardhouse at least.

The men are slowly getting down to the meaning and status of the officers' standing, but occasionally the officers themselves forget some little detail. Sergeant Philip Mere-

City Leads Country

Capt. Harrell has prepared a set of figures showing where Pennsylvania would have stood if the Harrisburg district had not recruited enough men to bring the quota of the other districts up to the requirements of the State allotment. In the entire State 16,489 men have enlisted in the Regular Army. The quota for the State was 15,330 and the enlistments above the requirement was 1,159. The local district alone recruited more than 2,000 men above its quota. Without the Harrisburg district the figures tell where the State would stand instead of leading the nation as it does.

Captain Harrell and First Lieutenant R. W. Leshar, U. S. A., together with their able corps of noncoms, have made this record possible. Captain Harrell organized the district comprising twenty counties as carefully to secure recruits as he would have organized his company to take a section of trench from the enemy. Since the present officers began work, and especially since April 1 when the big drive for recruits began, the lights at the recruiting station have been seldom dimmed, telling the lone policeman on his beat that while the city slept, the army men were devising ways and means to interest the public in the crisis they knew would soon confront them, and to be able to meet that crisis with the record quota of the country.

Still They Come Recruiting at the Regular Army station still continues to produce a good daily quota from this district and vicinity. R. W. Mell, arrested last evening in Duncannon for impersonating an officer, this morning was taken to Philadelphia by Lieutenant Ira S. Parlin. Together with the former charge three additional ones will be brought against him when he is court-martialed. Absent without leave, drunk and disorderly and disturbing the peace will all stand against him as well as sworn affidavits from six civilians.

Mell enlisted at the Pottsville station and was sent to Harrisburg more than a month ago. He was examined here and then given transportation to Fort Slocum, New York, where he was ordered to report. Mell, however, did not report. Later he enlisted in the Ninth Pennsylvania Engineers, Company E. Another of the offenses that stand against him is said to be sufficient to cause his dishonorable discharge. Officers would have even made an estimate at what his punishment may be. He

Wives of Congressmen Plan to Conserve Food

Washington, July 19.—Wives of members of Congress making their homes in Washington hotels will do their "bit" toward food saving in spite of the fact that they have no opportunity to conserve as housekeepers during their stay here. Mrs. Edward T. Taylor, Mrs. Dorsey W. Shackelford and Mrs. Samuel M. Taylor have suggested to the food administration plans for eliminating waste in hotel dining rooms.

Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon to-day notified forty-five stream inspectors on field duty and eight inspectors in charge of their honorable discharge. The notice of the commissioner set forth that the discharges were necessitated by the veto of items in the general appropriation bill for the salaries. There are now no inspectors in the field for the department only the bureau office being maintained.

REORGANIZE NAVY ALONG NEW LINES

Washington, July 19.—Rear Admiral Albert W. Grant, formerly commander of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, has been appointed a vice-admiral by President Wilson. The promotion is part of a partial reorganization of the Atlantic fleet which has been ordered by Secretary Daniels to meet new problems resulting from expansion of the force to almost twice its normal size.

Admiral Mayo, the Secretary said, will remain in general command, with the immediate authority under him divided between Vice-Admiral Coffman, at present second in command, and Vice-Admiral Grant. The former is to have direct command of a division containing most of the superdreadnaughts and designated as "force No. 2," while Vice-Admiral Grant will command the remainder of the fleet under the designation of "force No. 1."

It is understood that the reorganization will not affect the division of the fleet now in European waters under Vice-Admiral Sims. At the Navy Department it was indicated yesterday that possible operations overseas
