AGED WOMAN HAS 240 DESCENDANTS

Mrs. Clara Josephine Lawrence, of McSherrystown, Celebrates Birthday

Gettysburg, Pa., July 26.-Mrs. Clara Josephine Lawrence, of Mc-Sherrystown, has just passed the ninetieth milestone of her life's journey. Mrs. Lawrence bears the proud probably the largest line of descendants in the state, as she num-bers her descendants not by scores, but by hundreds, having a total of but by hundreds, having a total of about 240 living descendants. Mrs. Lawrence is of German descent and was born in Niederburg, Bavaria, in 1827. She came to America with her parents when a girl of three years, and since she was thirteen years old has resided in the Conewago Valley, near McSherrystown. Nothwithstanding her advanced age she is in fairly good health and possesses all her faculties. Of her long list of descendants only fourteen have died, but seven reside outside of Pennsylvania. There are eight children living, 83 grandchildren, 120 great-grandchildren, and a large number of great-great-grandchildren.

Learn Foundation Stroke of Tennis

To explain to a poy the funda-tle towards the wall. Simple as this exercise seems, it is nevertheless of great importance, for it is the foungreat importance, for it is the foundation stroke in tennis, so far as regards the ground game or balls that are played after hitting the ground. Now suppose that the ball had landed. The rebound would come off a perfectly flat surface. If that surpace were tilted up toward the wall, the ball would tend to bound back toward the wall, as I showed in connection with one's hand.

Now one's hand, open and in position to play the ball, is, in effect, if cut off with about half the forearm, a racket. Why is it that so many beginners forget this and neglect to play the ball naturally with the racket, which is only an artificial production of the same shape which they always use naturally, to wit, the hand and arm?—By P. A. Vaile in The American Boy.

THE FILIPINO AND HIS

LITTLE BROWN BROTHER One of the important questions in iving self-government to the Filinos is whether they will treat the inonChristian tribes, who number one-eighth of the population, with airness and liberality. I asked Mr.

pinos is whether they will treat the nonChristian tribes, who number one-eighth of the population, with fairness and liberality. I asked Mr. Quezon whether good treatment for the nonChristian tribes could be looked for if the Filipinos get their independence. He based his prophecy for the future on the present performances of the Philippine Assembly.

"We are treating them well," he said. "It is a matter of pride with us to do so. In the matter of expenditures we are more liberal in our treatment of them than we are in providing for the Christian Filipinos. In the Senate, Hadji Butu can get almost anything he asks for, as the Filipinos are determined to treat the Moros not only with justice but with liberality. The problem of the nonChristian tribes, which was for so many years America's problem, will become our problem, and we realize that the best and quickest way to solve it is to treat the nonChristian races as well or better than the Filipinos at the stimony to our future action."

Governor General Harrison and General Hall, who is at the head of the constabulary, both think that the monChristian tribes are getting fair treatment at the hands of the Filipinos. It is needless to say, however, that such work as has been done by some of the American governors among the tribesmen of the Mountain province, Mindanao and Sulu can hardly be loked for from the Filipinos or many years to come. The pioneer work has, however, been done, and there is a strong probability that peace and good will may be the order of the new day in the Philippines—Maynard Owen Williams in the Christian Herald.
