STEELTON STEEL BUYERS TO PAY PRICE

Consumers of Pig Iron and Finished Steel Willing to Pay Producers' Price

Buyers of pig iron and of all forms of finished steel continue for the most part to hold aloof from the market, and their fear of what may happen to prices as the result of government action is in sharp contrast with their willingness only lately to pay any price the producer might name.

The Iron Age to-day says: "It is evident that finished steel in the hands of manufacturers and jobbers is of fair proportions, and the latter in particular are disposed to work down their stocks in the interval of waiting."

"Meanwhile the government's cost inquiry goes on, with evidence that the problem of determining a representative cost of any form of finished steel is found to be more complicated than was counted on at the outset."

The reorganization will bring a simplification of committees, but committees of experts in various industries will not be greatly disturbed. The Administration feels that the work of the military members has been invaluable and that the government cannot do without their services.
