

JUNKDEALER CLAIMS FORTUNE

Found $100,000 in Stamps in Pile of Waste Paper

Philadelphia, July 27.—With the pang of envy in their hearts, stamp collectors about Common Pleas Court No. 4 yesterday watched the thing of a suit involving $100,000 worth of old stamps found in a waste paper heap by a junkdealer.

The suit was that brought against Edward A. Hemingway, a waste paper dealer, by Frank A. D'Miller, Hemingway's former manager.

The stamp collectors have been attracted by such rare curios as the "St. Louis Bear Stamp," "New York's," "Hale & Company," "Benjamin Franklin," "George Washington," "Blood's Despatch," and "American Eagle," treasure trove of the American postage stamp history.

This fortune in stamps was found in a heap of waste paper books and letters taken from a building at 397 and 399 Walnut street, in April, 1912. D'Miller claims that he discovered the treasure when he was sorting the waste paper in Hemingway's warehouse in Elbow Lane.

Citizens 50-50 Agreement

D'Miller claims that an agreement was made between himself and Hemingway to have the collection appraised by a collector or dealer in stamps. The profits were to be divided, it is alleged.

D'Miller now claims that Hemingway did not keep his end of the bargain and has kept all of the proceeds from the sale of the collection, a part that has been sold. D'Miller states that the collection was placed in a safe deposit vault in the Girard National Bank, in South Third street. It is claimed that Hemingway removed the treasure to his private box in the Northern Trust Company while D'Miller was out of the city, with the assertion that they could be better displayed for sale there.

D'Miller does not know, according to the bill filed, how many stamps have been sold by Hemingway, or the amounts received, but he states that thousands of dollars have been received for them.

Of Private Issues

The claim made by D'Miller is based upon the statement that Hemingway would not have known the valuable stamps were in the rubbish heap had he not found them. That would have left no fortune over which to quarrel.

The stamps in question are of issues in the 1840's. This is before the taking over of the mail service

Flag Price Extortion Moves Federal Trade Board to Action

Washington, July 27.—Reporting to the Senate on its investigation of the sudden rise in price of American flags at the time the country entered the war, the Federal Trade Commission expressed the opinion that some legislation should protect the public against unreasonably prices resulting not only from unlawful agencies, but from abnormal conditions as well.

When the wave of patriotism swept the country prices of flags doubled and tripled, and senators charged that flagmakers and merchants simply were "gouging the public."

The commission reported that the rise was due to unprecedented demand and attempts by an association of flagmakers to fix prices. The commission has ordered proceedings to a new standard at 100 per cent. above old prices as means of guarding against decline in the market where the supply again overtakes the demand.

The report points out that while the cost of materials have not increased more than fifty per cent. in the last year, the margin of manufacturers on new business has been 100 per cent. some retail dealers have realized 400 per cent. profit and the total profits to flag manufacturers was ten times what it was in 1916.

Winslow, which caught fire off St. Nazaire, France, July 10; the captain and eleven of the crew of the schooner Addie M. Lawrence, which went ashore near St. Nazaire July 7, and eleven of the crew of the schooner Mary V. Bowser, sunk by shellfire July 12, off Brest.

Expert Tells How the Young Chickens Can Be Saved During Summer Time

Millions of growing chicks are annually badly stunted or die in Pennsylvania every summer from three things, according to Theodore Wittman, poultryman, writing in the bulletin of the State Department of Agriculture. Mr. Wittman says these three things are lice, gapes and hot night quarters.

Sure and workable remedies for lice and gapes have had large circulation for years and if a poultry-keeper has chicks dying of lice or gapes then surely he is not availing himself of his opportunities.

The third cause and ranking equal with the other two as a cause of annual great loss of chicks is hot sleeping quarters.

Heat does more damage to chickens than cold and young or old chickens simply must not pant at night. To prevent this have an "open front." If this does not reach to the highest point in the building then cut holes there. Or, if possible raise the entire roof by putting a brick on a block of wood under each corner this summer. A poultryhouse with such a raised roof simply cannot become superheated. Many times the trouble is that the chicks have outgrown the box that was used as a brood coop and a colony house or real poultry building is now needed.

HE THOUGHT BARBER WAS DUMB

There is an article in the American Magazine in which a writer tells about a barber who has retired with $300,000. Here is part of it: "One man," says Hysler, "kept looking at the barber who was working on him, and finally he called me over and asked if the man was dumb. He had come from the West, and could not understand the science. It made him nervous, he said. "Another point to Hysler's success was that his barbers were not allowed to urge shampoos or massages on patrons. Hysler believes that men know what they want when they enter a shop. He also cut out all talk of hair restorers or dyeing the hair. He does not believe in either. "The way to succeed in the barber shop," he says, "is to see that every man is suited. Too much care cannot be given to courtesy and cleanliness. A clean shop attracts and invites customers, and they are satisfied when they leave."

I NOW ENJOY LIFE

I know I owe it all to Sanpan says Mrs. Sarah Banton, 1118 Herr street, Harrisburg.

After being bothered for many years with severe headaches, pains in my back and limbs, at times would get stiff and sore, my eyes would become inflamed and feel as though they were full of sand. I felt drowsy and sleepy all the time. Every little thing would worry me, and I became highly excited at the slightest provocation. I just hated myself and everyone else miserable. I imagined everyone and everything was working against me.

After seeing the advertised medicine, but nothing did me any lasting good. After a little persuasion I started to take Sanpan and to my very great surprise my ailments started to leave me, and I feel like a different person.

"I do not have those pains in my back any longer, my nerves are steady as a rock, headaches are gone, and for the first time in years I enjoy life, and I can thank Sanpan for it. I know I owe it all to this A-1 medicine. Sanpan is now being explained at Keller's Drug Store, 405 Market street, Harrisburg, by the Sanpan man. Walk in.—Adv.

Relief Came Quick

Says Conductor 1086

Milton J. Houser

Milton J. Houser, 724 Lance Place, Reading, Pa., a popular conductor for the Reading Transit Co. is an ardent booster for Tanlac. He says he had suffered a lot from stomach trouble and rheumatism. My food did not digest properly but seemed to just lie there in my stomach and ferment, making acid and gas. I had a doctor prescribe to relieve me and finally after several failures I decided to try Tanlac because I had heard so much about its good work.

"I commenced to get better as soon as I started taking it. It certainly worked much quicker than I ever thought possible. The gas stopped forming and my stomach soon became so good that I can now eat almost anything.

"Those rheumatic pains in my joints have gone away, too, and certainly feel fine. I've told a lot of people about Tanlac and I'll tell a lot more for Tanlac has done me so much good that I want others to know about it."

Tanlac, the famous reconstructive tonic is now being introduced here at Gorgas' Drug Store where the Tanlac man is meeting the people and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Tanlac is also sold at the Gorgas Drug Store in the P. R. R. Station; in Carlisle at W. G. Stephens' Pharmacy; Elizabethtown, Albert W. Cain; Gettysburg, Charles B. Carl; Middletown, Colin S. Few's Pharmacy; Waynesboro, Clarence Croft's Pharmacy; Mechanicsburg, H. F. Brunhouse.—Adv.

Third street sidewalks and the making of terraces will begin. The Camp Curtin proposition will be undertaken by a commission to be named by the Governor. There will be $1,000,000 available and judiciously launched the memorial could be made a matter of state-wide interest. Very few memorials have ever been approved. Camp Curtin and the Gregg statue for Reading are among them.

Governor's Big Cut

From what can be learned to-day, the Governor made a cut of almost $6,000,000 instead of merely $5,000,000. He determined to blow the safe side of an estimated revenue of $2,000,000, say his friends, and is well within the limit.

The Governor approved appropriations amounting to $81,223,536.84 of a grand total of $87,164,430.95 voted by the Legislature. The amount approved this year includes the general appropriation bill of $55,818,019.90. Two years ago the Governor approved appropriation amounting to $68,109,740.00 which $31,363,266.42 was carried by the general appropriation bill.

Appropriations of interest to Harrisburg and vicinity were as follows: Capitol Park extension, approved for $350,000.

Millersburg bridge, $350,000, vetoed.

New armories, approved for $1,190,000.

Harrisburg fire companies, $5,600.

FARM WATER IS MOST IMPORTANT

State Expert Gives Advice to Men to Look After That Detail of Agriculture

A good supply of fresh water constantly on hand for the cows in a dairy where they can get to it without having to go out into the cold rains and snow during the winter is one of the most essential things for successful winter dairying, says the bulletin of the Department of Agriculture.

This can be had on almost any farm fitted for dairying. In fact it cannot be had, the farm is hardly fit for a dairy farm.

On many of them the supply can be had from a gravity system which is the simplest and best, for after once having been installed can be kept up for almost nothing if properly put in in the first place.

If the gravity system cannot be had then a pumping system of some kind must be used.

There is the storage tank into which a week's supply can be pumped at any time to be drawn from. If there be an elevation near the buildings where a good sized storage
