"Pop" Greers made a strong bid for the 2.14 pace, receiving much encouragement from the crowd. With Spy Direct, he took the third and fourth heats, after Ben Billings, the favorite, had won the first two. A bad break in the fifth heat just after passing the quarter pole robbed Greers of his chance and Ben Billings then won easily.

KID WILLIAMS LOSES BATTLE: VET HEAT WINS

Copyright, 1917, The Tribune Association (New York Tribune).

SONG OF THE STALWART

When each red fight has been well fought— When each hard race has been well run; When we have gained the peace we've sought With no more battles to be won——

When friends no longer need my aid, And cloudless swings the summer sky-When weak hearts beat on unafraid In breasts that know no sob or sigh—

And no one fears to meet his God-

When Wrong lies dead and Right is king, And there are no more tears to weep; No cheering songs of faith to sing And all the earth is lulled to sleep—

When all the weary millions come From blood-swept fields to hearths of home, When no one hears the rolling drum On batted land nor crimson foam—

Though worn and old—dust unto dust My body sinks—to other lands My soul shall break from out its crust And still fight on with bold commands.

ADVENTURES OF A CONTRIB

Sleepy Steve, the well-known citizen of Goshen, Ind., came to New York for some golf. But it seems that he was forced to play most of his game upon the subway, where he claims that he over-approached three times in succession, was trapped on two occasions by thte crowd and finally got hooked into an unplayable lie in a big jam. After which he decided to return and complete his game at Grandold Goshen.

SHAKESPEARE ON THE CINCINNATI RED'S REVIVAL

"Let us not burden our remembrance with a heaviness that's gone."
"Time is the nurse and breeder of all good"—
"The greater throw may turn by fortune from the weaker hand"—
"Where is the life they led?"
"Presume not that I am the thing I was"—
Long as my exile, sweet as my revenge"—
"My joy lies onward and my grief behind."

FREAK FIGURES

The sacrifice hit game and the base stealing game are always supposed to be opposite ways of attack. The club that sacrifices rarely tries much of the other. They are opposite arts. Yet the figures this season show that the Cleveland club has made more sacrifice hits and has also stolen more bases than any other team in the major circle.

Ban Johnson Would Like

to See Yankees Improve

New York, Aug. 2.—Ban Jöhnson, president of the American League, is here for a conference with Colonel Jacob Rupert, part owner of the Yankees. Johnson is anxious to see the Yankees strengthened if possible and is ready to use his influence in aiding Colonel Rupert to put through several deals for new players.

The American League's chieftain also has come East for other reasons. He intends to witness the coming series between the White Sox and Red Sox in Boston, and also will pay a visit to Washington, where Clark Griffith's club still is playing to small crowds. Johnson doesn't believe that the American League will lose many valuable players in the draft, and he announces that baseball will be played by his circuit next year. He has no opinion to express as to the outcome of the American League race. Johnson will remain in the East until the Western clubs return home.

HEAT PREVENTS

Few Preliminary Contests Yesterday in Local Tournament at Reservoir

Heat was a factor in putting a crimp in the opening program yesterday of the annual tennis tournament. Nine matches were played. Competition was close and scores showed local stars in form. Due to the fact that entries were slow coming in, and to the poor start yesterday, officials in charge of the matches extended the time for playing off preliminaries until Monday. This afternoon a number of matches were played.

It was disappointing to the local if no other big league club wants tennis officials yesterday to see so few out on the Reservoir courts. Of course, they realized that it was a rather warm day and many preferred remaining at home. It has been a hard task to get this year's tournament, going and the Harrisburg Association should be encouraged.

It might be a good thing to have some of the matches in the local tournament played in the evening, after 5 p. m., or during the morning.
