

BOY SCOUTS ARE ENJOYING HOT WEATHER IN GAMPS

TROOP 7 HAS GREAT TIMES

Harmless Pranks Make Things Merry at Annual Camp

Troop 7, with headquarters at the Harris Street United Evangelical Church, is spending the week in camp about five miles above Liverpool, along the Mahantogaw creek. Through the courtesy of Thomas Bogar, of the Roger Lumber Company, a large truck was provided to transport the equipment and boys to camp. They left the creek corner, Susquehanna and Harris streets, at 6.45 Monday morning, and reached camp at 10 o'clock.

Scoutmaster Jerome R. Miller and Assistant Scoutmaster the Rev. G. T. Schaum are in charge. Mr. Fairbairn, the chef at Lebanon Valley College, has charge of the kitchen. He is rendering splendid service. Boys are all well. There are thirty-two scouts in camp. Earl Schwartz is cook's assistant. The large mass tent is the most popular place in camp.

The Kamp Bible Rudolph Miller went fishing and caught a cold nine inches long. Will Quaid is still shelling and caught a sucker about the size of William.

Lester Gipple was called "honey" by some hotly chickered. Lloyd Fitzwalt went to greet some Camp Fire girls but met disaster instead.

Harold Diffenderfer, a would-be funkite, is a teacher of modern languages, Yiddish, Spanish, Chinese, guages, Hungarian, Russian, Portuguese and Turkish. He will give 23 cents to each pupil per lesson.

Eleventh and MacKay Streets The Rev. G. F. Schaum, assistant scoutmaster, is wandering around searching the camp for some shaving supplies.

John Bogar is in the undertaking business. His motto—"You will eventually die, why not now?" Paul Schwartz is getting into trouble by putting tacks on the cook's cot.

Malcolm caught an eel and for about five minutes he was wide awake, but it didn't last long. He soon got sleepy again.

John Baker went fishing for whales this morning, but did not get any because the water was too deep. Earl Gingrich will light the campfire to-morrow evening with his red hair.

The mailbox will be found in the upper end of the mass tent.

George Mehoff's punishment for eating too much and getting sick is to eat a raw egg for the cook. The boys that are in the mass tent are not allowed to stand in front of the mass tent as long as some of the boys with the McKee and Doll are in the mass tent.

John Baker was able to get the mail today. He had that made him very happy.

John Baker is the one that distinguished the beautiful flame.

Just after we had the cook a fire started in the mass tent. The fire was put out by Mr. Gretz.

Jeff Baker had better learn to live in a tent and not in a foot of water. He was in the mass tent. The first aid kit is in the mass tent. "A Scout is helpful—give me a quarter."

Herm Goldstein. "A Scout is thrifty, so I'll keep it."

Lost and Found
Lost—A coat belonging to the Rev. G. T. Schaum. It was last seen in Camp Lebanon on July 30. If found please return to T.H.H. Post 4.

Red Diffenderfer is serious in the camp to learn to study astronomy.

When Little Jeff Baker catches an eel he can't give it away. He caught one this morning and caught it with a hook or to anybody else. He had to throw it in the creek.

The Scout Master stated that he had a better booter than other boys. He was in the mass tent. He was in the mass tent. He was in the mass tent.

Plough Dechant was swimming this morning and lost the bottom of his stomach, but did not know it until he ate the sixth plate of macaroni.

The experienced camper Doll a baby was telling us around the campfire, when another fellow mentioned how he dropped the bacon that the camp was to have for breakfast.

Samuel Krebs was in town to-day and went into the mass tent. He forgot his (soft) drink. He forgot his drink and went to the wrong counter when he

Troop 19 Takes an Interesting Hike

On Saturday Troop 19 met at the Marysville car to take a hike up the Conodogunet, but the scoutmaster wasn't at the car so they got on and rode to where the creek empties into the river and followed the creek, blazing a trail and leaving a trail by fork sticks and stones.

Once they came to a high brick-and-woodstone combined arch bridge two feet wide, where they crossed. Doyle, one of the scouts, crossed on his hands and knees. By and by there was no path so they headed away from the stream and found steps going up a hill. So they went up and found in front a chickenyard. This they crawled through and found themselves in Possom Hollow. Then they went to Oysters Dam and loosed till the scoutmaster came along. Helmer, the patrol leader, passed his test in building a fire without more than two matches and no paper. On the way to the Camp Hill car they saw a screeletanager, a bright red bird with brownish red wings, something rarely seen.

A hike is scheduled for Saturday. Scouts may bring outdoors with them. Meet at church at 12.45 with 10 cents carfare.

Market Square Scout Makes Trip to Phila.

Scout Morse left Harrisburg on Philadelphia and arrived there late Sunday afternoon. He spent the night in Lancaster and was the guest of one of the city officials. He had many experiences on the way down, some of which he told to the troop last Monday night.

The meeting on Monday night was full of interest as the subject discussed was that of camp at Craighead. There was a big attendance as all the boys that are going to the camp registered.

Industrial Alcohol Moves Under Violent Fluctuations; Crucible Steel Rose Faction, But Kindred Issues Were Barely Changed

By Associated Press
New York, Aug. 3 (Wall Street).—Violent fluctuations in Industrial Alcohol, which opened at an advance of 2 1/2 points, followed by a reaction of 4 1/2, featured to-day's early trading. Freshly-brought gains prevailed. Central Leather adding 1 1/2 points to yesterday's gains, and Pittsburgh and Virginia Preferred, two points. Crucible Steel rose a large fraction, but kindred issues were barely changed. People Gas rallied two points and minor rallies were represented by New Orleans, Texas and Mexico at a two-point gain.

Irregular strength ruled throughout the forenoon under the influence of short covering.

Leathers, tobaccos and fertilizers were again included among the active and strong issues. United States Steel reacted strictly, but Crucible extended its early advance. Utah was the only prominent copper stock, and shippings were firm. Marine, Pfd., and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies gained fractions. Investment falls were in better demand, St. Paul and Illinois Central gaining a point, and "Sox," Pfd., three. Liberty Bonds fell to the low record of 99.32 for full lots.
