

U. S. TO JAIL RESISTERS OF ARMY DRAFT

Federal Government Prepared to Take Drastic Action in Districts Where Slackers Apparently Have Organized to Evade Service in New National War Army; Regular Troops to Enforce Law if Necessary

WHOLE POWER OF NATION STANDS READY TO PUT DOWN DISORDERS BEGUN BY COWARDS

Sheriff's Poses Search For Various Bands of Objectors Believed to Be Hiding in Timbered Sections of Oklahoma; Bridges Said to Have Been Burned in Demonstration Against Law and Order.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Persons resisting the draft law, department of justice officials announced to-day, whether in Oklahoma or elsewhere will be sought out, run down, and brought before the proper authorities, no matter at what cost.

Provost Marshal General Crowder and Assistant Attorney General Pitts, in charge of the enforcement of the draft law, conferred at length to-day as to steps to be taken to check anti-draft agitators in North Carolina, Georgia, Oklahoma and other localities.

The war department is in close touch with the situation and is prepared to take drastic and effective steps if necessary in the effected districts. Secretary Baker or General Crowder probably will issue a statement outlining the department's position later to-day.

May Use Troops

Despite the fact that the letter and spirit of the selective conscription law combines to place its operation in the various states under civilian supervision to the fullest possible extent, it may become necessary to employ Federal troops to restore order in the disaffected regions in Oklahoma. This arises from the fact that the entire National Guard of the country will be divorced completely from state control to-morrow under President Wilson's proclamation federalizing the force on that date.

Should the situation in Oklahoma get beyond control the sheriff's posses or other civilian forces, the only recourse of the governor would be to ask General Parker, commanding the Southern Department, to send troops to do the work. There will be no Oklahoma National Guard under the governor's authority after to-day, as the Oklahoma National Guard passed under complete control of the Federal military authorities.

Just what steps will be taken to bring to justice the men who are spreading sentiment in the South and elsewhere against the draft law were not announced. Pitts' department issued the following statement:

"Whether in Oklahoma or anywhere else, if persons who are regularly selected for military service under the selective soldiers' act, fail to obey when properly notified and called to the draft, warner Sunday taken by the strong arm of the Federal law and brought before the proper registration boards."

Mr. Pitts' first information of the anti-draft movement in Oklahoma was obtained to-day from the newspapers. While department agents and field investigators have been looking into the situation there for some time past, he said their reports had not been brought to his attention until the situation in Oklahoma was no different in Oklahoma than in other sections of the country where sporadic demonstrations against the law have occurred. Officials were inclined to minimize the seriousness of the situation, based on unofficial reports, in Oklahoma.

Field Investigators, however, sometime ago reported to the department that trouble might be found in enforcing the law in certain sections of Oklahoma.

WHAT THE DOCTORS ARE DOING TO THE CANDIDATES FOR WAR

These photographs show what is happening to thousands upon thousands of young Americans this week. In the first picture the height of the candidate for the army is being taken. He must be at least five feet and one inch high. The second one shows the soundness of the heart with a stethoscope to see if it is the kind of a heart that Uncle Sam wants in the trenches.

CO. D MAY BE FIRST TO LEAVE CITY FOR CAMP

GET IMPORTANT DRAFT RULINGS; MANY AFFECTED

Company D has been designated by Colonel Maurice E. Finney as the one to go to Augusta, Ga., to prepare for the coming of the remainder of the State Guardsmen in case the War Department orders men sent for that purpose. Colonels of regiments have been instructed by the War Department to designate one company to precede their regiments when orders come for their movement. Acting on these instructions, Company D was selected to-day by Colonel Finney.

Some doubt was expressed by army officers as to whether or not a company would be exempt from the draft. It has been customary to do so only in the case of State en-campments. When the troops went to the borders they were second lieutenants and the work done by the entire regiment after they had arrived on the campsite.

Saturday Inspection Saturday, and Saturday inspection, are synonymous for soldiers all over the country. Saturday is the day when the officers inspect and rate the men for a thousand and one little things that none but the trained eye of an army man would notice. Each of the troops on the island this morning went through the ordeal with fairly good averages.

Captains of each company order the men assembled and then the real work begins. First were second lieutenants, who have been "boss" the early part of the week, come under the rules of the inspection. The lieutenants in turn come under the same rules. Not a detail is neglected, so slight a thing as an unbuttoned shirt lapel is sure to bring down a reprimand. Officers say the memory of "each Saturday helps to keep the men "on their toes" until the end of the next week.

Disguise U-Boats With Sails to Decoy Steamers

A Gulf Port, Aug. 4.—German U-boat commanders are making effective use of the use of disguising their craft with sails to resemble travelers during hazy weather, according to reports from the U. S. Navy. The Archbold sighted a vessel of the tank steamer John D. Archbold, which was sunk June 16. Captain Thompson is master of a steamer now docked here. The Archbold sighted a vessel of two masts and one sail about six miles away on the afternoon the tanker was sunk. Although suspicious of the vessel, Captain Thompson thought he was not certain of its identity until the craft submerged with sail set. Thereupon the Archbold changed her course. The submarine was not sighted again, but two hours later a torpedo crashed into the Archbold, sinking her.

FATE OVERTAKES RENEGADES WHO MURDERED KING

Military Court-Martial Sentences Officers in Clique After Fifteen Years

Fate has at last fallen on that band of military renegades who some fifteen years ago broke into the royal palace at Belgrade at night and assassinated King Alexander and the Serbian queen. Three, high officials have recently been shot after military court-martial. Three more are awaiting death sentences, seven officers have received lesser sentences of from one to five years.

While the outside world was shocked, the band of assassins enjoyed at home a certain immunity and even glory for having rid the country of a dissolute ruler and his plebeian gypsy queen, for the name of Draga had been well known in the concert halls of Europe before she had the luck to win a king and crown. The plain people of Serbia, who are simple and honest, revolted at the crime, but the army clique which carried out the murder did not care for the upper classes with them, and by terrorizing and intrigue became one of the dominant forces of Serbia.

Recent is Active But all this changed about a year ago when the vigorous young Prince Alexander became regent. He set to active service the great number of officers retired and disqualified by the murder clique. He declared that all army appointments and advancements would be impartial, without regard to the old line drawn between the clique and the rest of the army.

The regicide element deeply resented this action. They appealed to Alexander, even suggesting that his royal power rested from their hands. Officers say the memory of the crime revived their watchword of the former ruler, "Union or death." This time the regicide arrested and at the prince's request and aimed at the murder clique. He declared that all army appointments and advancements would be impartial, without regard to the old line drawn between the clique and the rest of the army.

Frank Payne Will Form Local Unit of State's Home Police Force

The Pennsylvania home defense police has all the powers delegated to special officers of first class cities. The members will swear to act for the security of the state at all times. It would be well to head a friendly insurance concerning your conduct from a member of this volunteer force.

Smith, who is a traveling salesman, was examined only because he was a nonresident. He is a widowed mother, wife of a five-year-old son dependent upon him for support.

KILLS DIVORCED HUSBAND TO GET CUSTODY OF SON

Wealthy Woman Sought Her Child After Divorcing Athlete and Political Leader

IS SOCIALLY PROMINENT DeSaullles Had Declined Appointment as U. S. Minister to Uruguay

New York, Aug. 4.—Repeated differences over the custody of their son, four and one-half years old, whom the mother was anxious to take with her on a visit to her own home in Chile, were assigned to-day as the cause of the murder last night of John Longer de Saullles by his divorced wife, Mrs. Bianca Estravuz de Saullles. Mrs. de Saullles spent last night in the jail at Mineola, Long Island, where she was taken after a brief hearing which resulted in her being charged with first degree murder.

Beyond sending for her attorney and notifying her mother in South America, of her arrest, Mrs. de Saullles declined to make a statement. Quarreled Over Son The story of the shooting, as pieced together by the police, serves to confirm the belief expressed to-day that the repeated quarrels over the custody of the child, was the only cause for the murder. Mrs. de Saullles, who has a summer home at Roslin motored over to the cottage occupied by her former husband last night and requested that her son be allowed to spend August with her. Mr. de Saullle refused the request and the following moments of the earnest conversation between the two and Mr. de Saullles turned as if to enter the house when Mrs. de Saullles shot him three times in the back. He died soon after being taken to a hospital.

Interesting Courtship Last night's shooting came to a climax to a romance that interested two continents. It started with the courtship in South America in the spring of 1910 when de Saullles went to Chile as a representative of a company interested in railroad construction. A year later he married Bianca Estravuz de Saullles. At the time of his marriage de Saullles spoke of his wife as "the loveliest girl in the world," and the first impression that the couple were happy came to their friends in July of last year when Mrs. de Saullles began a suit for divorce and named the popular Broadway singer and actress as a co-respondent.

Although reputed to be worth many millions in her own right Mrs. de Saullles was awarded a divorce of $300 a month, which was to be cut in half should she remarry. De Saullles Popular John Saullles, who first won prominence as a quarterback at Yale and after his graduation he carried his popularity among college men into politics, successfully heading two organizations, during the campaign of 1912 for the election of President Wilson and second for the election of Governor Wood. He was the murder clique. He declared that all army appointments and advancements would be impartial, without regard to the old line drawn between the clique and the rest of the army.

Message From Mother It was recalled to-day that several months ago shortly before Mrs. de Saullles applied to the county for permission to take her son on a visit to Chile that a message of a few words was delivered to her by a priest. The messenger, claimed James Kent Stone of the Passionist Fathers in South America, said that he came more than 4,000 miles to deliver the message and to disclose its contents. The message is said to have been delivered to the priest by the mother of Mrs. de Saullles, who pledged him to secrecy.

Can it Be Possible This Man Must Pack a Gun and Serve His Country?

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—The sixth district national army exemption board to-day received from Charles Carson, 1729 Reed street, a claim for discharge from service in the national army. Carson made his claim on the official blank. He was instructed to specify the reasons he claimed exemption and he checked off the following making his claim: A county officer. A member of a well-recognized religious sect whose existing creed forbids its members to participate in war in any form. A person convicted of a felony. Carson also specified he had been separated from his wife for two months.

After looking over the claim, Clinton Rogers Woodruff, chairman of the board, remarked: "I have talked with this man, but I can see no reason why he should not be selected for service."

BRITISH MOVE AHEAD No Renewal of Smashing Offensive on Large Scale

AMERICAN WAR MISSION HOME FROM RUSSIA

Elihu Root Declares Party Was Hospitably Received in Cities Visited

GERMANS ARE AT WORK Activities of Kaiser's Agents Said to Hamper Work of New Government

A Pacific Fort, Aug. 4.—The American mission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, landed here late last night. No official statement of the work of the commission in Russia or on the report that the mission will make after its return to Washington was made public. Mr. Root, acting as spokesman, declared that he had nothing to say beyond the fact that the party had been hospitably received in every Russian city visited. From the Russian revolution will be evolved a stable government, according to James Duncan, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor. Its establishment is regarded as the duty of the American people, by the radical socialist reformers, who have returned to Russia from America. The success of the revolution, Mr. Duncan attributed to the workmen of Russia, by whom the propaganda of freedom was first carried to the peasant class at the time of original Duma in 1905.

Charles Edward Russell said the task of new Russia was greatly handicapped by German influences and the ceaseless activity of the German propagandists. Radicals at Fault "Most of the trouble, however, has been caused by Russians naturalized as Americans, who have returned to Russia since the outbreak of the revolution," he said. "These propagandists," he continued, "who pretend to have an intimate knowledge of American conditions and American motives, inform their native countrymen that the government of the United States is more oppressive
