PROF. J. J. GIBSON
Stoverdale Music Director

Stoverdale, Pa., Aug. 9.—Increase in attendance at the services yesterday closing day of the 1917 campmeeting. It was temperance day and the auditorium was decorated appropriate to the occasion. One of the features of the day and the auditorium was sermon at the morning service. It was an admirable discourse on temperance. Miss Nina Ruth, of Highspire, rendered a vocal solo, preceding the sermon.

The children's meeting at 1:30 was in charge of Mrs. J. C. Bieri, who will conduct these meetings until the close of the campmeeting. The Rev. J. C. Bieri left early Tuesday morning for Ocean City, N. J., where he will attend a conference on evangelism, composed of ministers from five conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church. Bishop Berry appointed the Rev. J. C. Bieri to represent the Philadelphia conference.

The Rev. B. L. C. Baer, delivered an address at the 2:30 meeting. His theme was "Foreign Foe." Miss Phoebe Fornbaugh and the Brown Brothers trio delighted the audience with their rendition of temperance selections.

At the conclusion of the Rev. Baer's address Mrs. Margaret Ellenberger, of Harrisburg, gave an account of her visits to Harrisburg's prison. There was also an address by Mrs. John De Gray, of Harrisburg. The Rev. W. S. Houck and Miss Alice Barker, of Harrisburg, sang a tenor and soprano duet.

The young people's meeting at 6:30 was led by the Rev. Baer. He left yesterday for Walnut Grove campmeeting, where he will conduct the Bible reading hour. He will go to Manor campmeeting in Lancaster county. The Rev. A. F. Martin, of Millersville, conducted the Bible reading in the morning. One of the best attended meetings was the service at 7:30 o'clock, led by Miss E. Hullinger.

IN THE CUMBERLAND VALLEY

DAHLGREN DAY AT GREENCASTLE

William P. Wilhelm Pays Tribute to Brave Officer at Celebration

Greencastle, Pa., Aug. 9.—Dahlgren Day was celebrated at Greencastle's Old Home Week Tuesday. It brought great crowds to the town from all over the country. William P. Wilhelm, of Pottsville, an "old Greencastle boy," delivered an address in which he said: "The emigrants who came from the north of Ireland and selected the fertile fields in this beautiful valley did not foresee the struggle that was to take place in this district along the belt bounded on the northeast by the Susquehanna and on the southwest by the James river. The Potomac, fourteen miles to the south, was the great divide in the battle or supremacy between the North and the South.

The fact that Winchester was taken and retaken twenty-seven times goes to show the military activities of the contending forces in the Shenandoah Valley, during those four years of the Civil War. Here in Greencastle we were, during the war, in the line of moving troops. John Brown, in his dream of free black man, selected Chambersburg for his base. Brown spent one night in Greencastle and told a few Greencastle people of his struggles and hopes. We lived in a turmoil of excitement and anxiety from the time of John Brown's attack at Harper's Ferry until Lee surrendered. We could even hear the big guns at Antietam and Bank's retreat taxed us to the limit to provide food and shelter for the southern negro refugees.

"We saw one little band of boys in blue a number of times during the invasion, paying visits to our own. They were commanded by a handsome, manly, intrepid leader, whose name is so enshrined in the hearts of the people of this valley that it scarcely needs mention, Colonel Ulrich Dahlgren. No one has recorded all the trips Ulrich Dahlgren made to Greencastle during the time the Confederates first passed through here, until he made his sally on them in their retreat. But to at least four I can bear witness through personal knowledge.

"Colonel Ulrich Dahlgren was born April 3, 1842, in Bucks county, Pennsylvania. His father, John Dahlgren, his father took his family to Washington. The father had charge of the ordnance department of the United States Navy at Washington.

"During the month of August, 1862, Dahlgren was in all the active fighting with General McDowell and General Sigel, Captain Reynolds and General Banks. General Sigel commanded his services during that period as being most notable. General Sigel, with the endorsement of President Lincoln, and others high in command, requested the governor of Pennsylvania to appoint captain Dahlgren a major of artillery, so that he might be made chief of artillery of the Eleventh Corps. Some difficulties of routine, however, intervened and the appointment was not made.

"There was maneuvering and counter-maneuvering along the Rappahannock in May and early June, 1863. In June Dahlgren joined General Pleasanton. The fight at Beverly Ford on June 9 further proved the courage of this young hero. In all accounts of that battle, it was said: 'Captain Dahlgren of General Hooker's staff, a model of cool and dauntless bravery, charged with the regiment and his horse was shot in two places.'

"Then came the plans for the invasion of the North by the Confederates. Dahlgren was so busy scouting that General Hooker made special mention of his zeal and his efficiency.

"July 4, 1863, was the most memorable day Greencastle ever had. The capture of the dispatch bearers led to the capture of the town of a few men coming out of alleys and streets, in South Carlisle street, heading for the square. The way they pounced on the dispatch bearers was enough to make them believe there were thousands supporting the Dahlgren attack. But, capturing the dispatch bearers, the Confederates resulted in the destruction of 176 wagons.

"On July 6 he was wounded in a fight at Boonsboro. The wound resulted in the amputation of his left leg. His wound was not yet healed, nor his strength restored when he visited his father, then in command of the South Mountain Blockading Squadron in November, 1863."

SONG SERVICE AT MOUNT GRETTA

Charles F. Clippinger, of Harrisburg, in Charge of Music at Bible Conference

Mt. Gretna, Pa., Aug. 9.—Yesterday's sessions of the Bible Conference were well attended, many persons being present from Harrisburg and Lebanon. On Friday morning the Rev. Dr. Harris H. Gregg will lecture. In the afternoon the Rev. George E. Guille will have charge of the services. Charles F. Clippinger will conduct a song service in the evening and the Rev. Dr. Harris H. Gregg will deliver an address. On Saturday Mrs. Margaret F. Russell will speak at the morning service, which will be followed by a lecture by the Rev. H. H. Gregg. In the afternoon an excellent program has been planned for the Woman's Missionary meeting. The Rev. George E. Guille will preach at the evening service.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Lyter, of Harrisburg, attended the United Brethren conference on the campmeeting grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Herr, of Bird-in-hand; Miss Cora Landis, Miss Esther Landis, of Whitmer; Mr. and Mrs. John Stehman, of Junction, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nisley on the campmeeting grounds.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowman, of Harrisburg, are spending some time at the Pilgrim Cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forney and family are occupying the Baum cottage on the campmeeting grounds for the month of August.

Miss Mary Enright, of Harrisburg, has returned home after several days spent with Mrs. Samuel Fackler, on the chautauqua grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos R. Davis and children, Helen, Park and Amos Jr., of Jamestown, N. Y., spent two days

Ammunition Train Units Drive Trucks Into City For Camp Necessities

Mt. Gretna, Pa., Aug. 9.—Major General Charles M. Clement, commander of the Pennsylvania Division, accompanied by his staff, yesterday made a tour of inspection of the new state militia units camp. Major General Clement expressed his gratification at the condition in which he found everything.

General Clement motored from his headquarters at Sunbury, being accompanied by Lieutenant Colonel J. B. Cruiston, division surgeon; Major W. C. Sterling, division ordnance officer; Major S. A. Hagerling, division signal officer; Captain A. S. Janeway, assistant chief of staff; Captain P. D. Boal, Captain E. C. Tighman and Lieutenant W. B. Churchman, Jr., aids.

Immediately on arrival, accompanied by Lieutenant Colonel H. S. Williams, camp commander, the party toured the camp, making frequent stops. Three hours were consumed, and on return to camp headquarters General Clement and staff were guests at dinner.

For the first time since the establishment of camp, a Federal motor truck service was inaugurated between camp and Harrisburg, for the delivery of supplies. Up to this time trucks were hired for the service, but to-day Major J. B. Wheeler, the truck train commander, detailed Sergeant Elder and four trucks to make the initial trip. The arrival of four more truck bodies increased to sixteen the number of completed trucks. There remain eleven chassis to be equipped.

Columbia's New Burgess Takes Oath of Office

Columbia, Pa., Aug. 9.—William M. D'Miller, Columbia's new chief Burgess, took the oath of office at the meeting of Council Tuesday night. The oath was administered by President J. H. Ostertag, in the presence of nearly all the members, and a newspaperman and a number of citizens. He succeeds Captain W. Sanderson, called to the colors. Both are Democrats. The new official's first act was to recommend several street crossings where auto traffic is heavy, and Council adopted the suggestion. Chief Burgess D'Miller will serve the unexpired term of five months, having been appointed July 28, by the court.

LANCASTER COUNTY DEATHS

Marietta, Pa., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Lavina Hershey, aged 78 years, died at her home at Sporting Hill Tuesday evening. She is survived by a number of children and grandchildren. She was one of the officers of the Hershey Family Clan.

Mrs. John F. Gramm, a native of Philadelphia, died Tuesday evening in her 20th year. She is survived by her husband and an infant daughter, and a sister, Mrs. George Bennett, of Philadelphia.

When You Change a Tire or Check Mileage You Appreciate Firestone Rims

YOU appreciate the Firestone Rim on the road, where the simple, handy construction makes tire removal quick and convenient. You recognize the effectiveness of the accurate alignment, the continuous support, and the true circle of the Firestone Rim when you find your tires wearing evenly and longer than you expected.

If you have owned cars in the past you probably realize the importance of Firestone Rim equipment in safety, convenience and tire saving. Five minutes is usually sufficient for removal. There are no complicated parts, no sticking, no rusting. And Firestone Rims are free from squeaking when the car is in motion.

But if you are purchasing your first car let us recommend that you insist upon Firestone Rims.

SCHOOL INSTRUCTORS CHOSEN

Marietta, Pa., Aug. 9.—Professor J. W. Butcher will be supervising principal of the Marietta public schools this year. At a meeting last evening the Board of Directors elected Miss Ethel M. Shroy, of Strasburg, as first assistant in the high school to succeed Miss Anna Roddy, resigned. Prof. Butcher will be principal of the high school also.

Athletic Instructor at Dickinson College Resigns

Carlisle, Pa., Aug. 9.—Porrest E. Craver, who has been connected with the faculty of Dickinson College, head of athletic work and last year's football mentor, to-day formally tendered his resignation. He has accepted a position as head of the physical culture department at Tome Institute, Port Deposit, Md., and will leave here on the opening of the institution in September.

Professor Craver graduated from Dickinson in 1899 and during his time in college was a star football player, being one of the fastest runners and best field generals of eastern eleven. After leaving the institution he coached at Williamsport Dickinson Seminary, Conway Hall, Mont Clair, N. J., high school, and in 1909 accepted a professorship in mathematics.

MARRIED IN TABERNACLE

Waynesboro, Pa., Aug. 9.—The first and probably the last wedding ever taking place at Pen-Mar parlors was celebrated Tuesday evening when John Zeigler and Miss Lillie Deeds, both of Indian Springs, Md., were married in the rostrum at the tabernacle, by the Rev. C. C. Miller, pastor of the First United Brethren church of Waynesboro. The young couple came to Waynesboro with their parents from the Fred Crawford farm, tenanted by Laban Winters, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. The sheaves of wheat, hay and threshed wheat, near Fayetteville, the large silo on the dairy farm of Daniel H. Yaukey, was blown down.

DAMAGE BY HEAVY STORM

Waynesboro, Pa., Aug. 9.—The section roundabout Fayetteville was hard hit by the wind and electric storm late Tuesday evening. In many instances corn was washed off by the heavy fall of rain, and the large barn on the Fred Crawford farm, tenanted by Laban Winters, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. The sheaves of wheat, hay and threshed wheat, near Fayetteville, the large silo on the dairy farm of Daniel H. Yaukey, was blown down.

ODD FELLOWS REUNION

Waynesboro, Pa., Aug. 9.—To-day was the annual reunion of the Odd Fellows of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. The crowd was conservatively estimated at between 10,000 and 15,000 persons. The chief addresses were delivered by W. E. Andrews, Ex-Congress, of Nebraska, and H. George Huddleston, Congressman from Alabama.

Elks Honor Member of Columbia Guard Company

Columbia, Pa., Aug. 9.—Sergeant Tobias Bartsch, aged 19 years, one of the youngest soldiers in Company C, Fourth Regiment, was signally honored by Columbia Lodge of Elks Tuesday evening, just as the band was sounding the retreat. The Sergeant was called out of the ranks by Captain Baxter and Colonel E. C. Shanley. The Elks, in honor of the soldier's complete outfit, in honor of his faithfulness as a soldier and his sterling integrity and morality.

STREET DANCE FOR SOLDIERS

Columbia, Pa., Aug. 9.—A street dance Tuesday night, under the auspices of Company C, Fourth Regiment, realized the sum of $150, which is to go toward the purchase of a motor truck for the company.

CENTRAL MANOR CAMP

Marietta, Pa., Aug. 9.—Central Manor campmeeting, held under the auspices of the Churches of God, of Lancaster county, will open Saturday, August 18, and will continue two weeks. The Rev. I. A. MacDonald will be in charge.
