And with those kind words from the poor female, who was beginning again to sob, but with another motive in her weeping, I took my departure down the street—or up—I did not know in just which direction, I had the intention of returning to the house of the party to obtain the chery, which I had left standing before the door, and in it convey the message to my Gouverneur Faulkner that should bring relief to his anxiety, but I soon found that I had lost myself upon streets that I had never seen before.

All's Well That Ends Well

BY JANE McLEAN
I must have left it in that book I took back to the library, Molly exclaimed suddenly remembering that she had been reading it the day she returned her weekly supply of books. The thing in question was a letter, an important letter that she had written to her dearest woman friend, Molly. Molly was a lonely little thing and lived a lonely life.

"THEIR MARRIED LIFE"

Helen entered the lobby of the restaurant where she had promised to meet Warren and sat down hastily in one of the tiny gilded chairs. She hated to wait for him, but to-night it had been unavoidable for he had been detained at the office.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Of Course, Marry Him.
Dear Miss Fairfax
Is there any established custom friends with a young man four years my junior.

The Home of the Bride

Dear Miss Fairfax
Is there any established custom which forbids a bridegroom to sojourn as a guest in the home of his intended bride during the days immediately preceding and up to the day of their marriage even though he has always been thus entertained during the early part of their engagement?

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

"Does war make literature, or break it?" asks Barton Blake editorially in Collier's. "When one reads of the death of a Brooke or a Seeger, he continues, 'and of the deaths of thousands of other young men, not yet known to fame, but with the seeds of greatness in them, since they were eager and young and unafraid—when one reads of the slaughter in Europe, one feels certain that letters can only lose to war.'"

TRAVEL ELECTRICALLY THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS ENROUTE TO PACIFIC NORTH COAST

Advertisement for electric travel through the mountains. YOU will thrill with a new experience when crossing the Great Continental Divide riding behind a giant electric locomotive. Through the mighty Rockies, for untold centuries barriers to the progress of man, where Lewis and Clark battled their way against terrific odds to a new empire, you ride in ease and comfort. Borne upon the wheels of progress, transported by the forces of the mountains themselves, secure in a comfortable chair in the observation car of either "The Olympian" or "The Columbian" you enjoy to the full the majestic grandeur of the mountain panorama. No smoke, no cinders, no grinding brakes—just smooth, even, almost silent travel, on trains traditional for their excellence. Soon the pleasures of electric travel will be enjoyed through the Cascade Mountains, Washington for the work of electrifying the line through this range is well under way. To Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and other points in the Pacific Northwest travel the electric way—via the CHICAGO Milwaukee & St. Paul RAILWAY. Electrification and western travel literature free on request. J. R. POTTS, Dist. Pass. Agt. Rooms 205-6-7 Park Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.
