PICKED MEN TO BE FIRST FROM DRAFT IN FRANCE

320,000 Will Compose New National Army to Go Across

SPECIAL TRAINING GIVEN Then Remainder of 687,000 Will Sail; Another Guard Division Will Sail

Washington, Aug. 18.—The first organization of the national army will consist of only 320,000 men. These will be picked men and they will be moved to France ahead of the others drawn. Of the remainder of the 687,000 men who will be called in the first draft thousands will be assigned to fill up the ranks of the national guard and regular army regiments to the new war strength. The others, numbering about 300,000 and 200,000 men, will be held as depot troops and used to fill vacancies in the first 320,000. As many are rejected or as casualties occur.

This became known when the assignment of troops to the cantonment of the Department of the Northeast and the designation of the regimental commanders was announced. Composite Division First Although no official confirmation was obtainable, there were evidences to-day that the composite Forty-second Division, whose organization recently was announced, will be accompanied abroad by 100,000 and 200,000 men, made up of New England guardsmen. No New England states are among the twenty-six having representation in the composite division.

The commander of the Twenty-sixth is Major General Clarence Edwards, now acting as commander of the Department of the Northeast, and it is presumed he will go to Europe with the division. The Forty-second is commanded by Major General W. A. Mann.
