State draft and registration headquarters to-day announced receipt of a ruling from Washington that there was no objection to a drafted man from serving as an officer in the United States Army if he receives a commission or to act as an army clerk. It would be that pending action upon applications for such positions the man must appear when called and undergo examination.

The headquarters to-day reiterated that members of local boards are to consider themselves drafted for the service of the nation in their capacities as much as the man called for the army. They will not be exempted except for grave reasons and must serve.

Members of district appeal boards must apply to the Governor for allowance for clerical and other expenses.

The district appeal boards will meet at the Senate chamber at the Hotel to-morrow afternoon. The officer of the provost marshal general is expected to attend.

REMAINING GUARDSMEN TO GO SOUTH SOON

of march move in better time than the one yesterday.

Attacks Members of the Governor's Troop had an interesting experience yesterday afternoon when theoretically they were to march with dynamite to the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and Reading railroad depots and the Mulberry street bridge. A patrol under the direction of Sergeant Kim had been sent out by Lieutenant Kline with orders to destroy, theoretically, all objects of a military value.

'Brownie,' canine member of the Eight Regiment band, was laid to rest this morning with military honors. The burial, a bereavement, played a funeral dirge and the mounted orderlies laid the dog in his last resting place at the end of the procession. The dog was buried in the grave as the bugler sounded taps.

To Accompany of Waving Flags The band in the evening, in air, fluttering handkerchiefs and low murmurs of farewell, the boys of Company D, Eighth Infantry, passed through a sea of solid humanity extending from North street to the Pennsylvania station, last evening.

Unconspicuously the people of Harrisburg and surrounding country stood for hours in the streets, eager for an opportunity to wave farewell to the brave boys who were to return upon the first stage of their journey for "somewhere in France."

The demonstration was one of the most remarkable ever held in this city. Never before had so many of the Spanish-American war have there been such unbounded enthusiasm.

Last night to Conceal Emotions The band members were jammed the sidewalks of this city, struggling for a point of vantage. Then came the advance guard, clearing the way for the band. The parade was in progress, and stillness swept over the vast crowd.

Under a veritable canopy of flags the band marched down Market street, while men cheered, women wept, and youngsters watched with rapture-like faces. To many the parade was the first of its kind. For the first time, the people of Harrisburg realized that the grim, pitiless hand of war hovers over this city, and that the first of its kind, who laughed and spoke lightly to the passing soldiers were fathers with tight-clenched hands, mothers with their eyes fixed on the faces of hearts who made no effort to conceal their emotions.

Although traffic was designated to move at 4:30 o'clock, the start was not made until almost an hour and a half later. At 2:30 the fire alarm came, the thousands of their homes, and the crowd continued to increase until, it is estimated, fully fifty thousand persons awaited the band on the sidewalks. The city was so large that it was found necessary to stop traffic in the business section of the city. Street cars and automobiles were removed to streets in which the traffic was light.

Headed by a squadron of police and accompanied by the New Cumberland band, the first division marched into Third street, with Troop C, First Pennsylvania Cavalry (the Governor's Troop) on the right. The troop was dismounted, with the exception of four mounted orderlies, who performed duties in assisting the chief marshal in forming the parade and in directing the various units. Company I and the Machine Gun Company were next in line. Then came veterans of other foreign wars with their wives and families. The City Guard brought up the rear.

The Steelton Band headed the second division, followed by the Harrisburg Reserves, who made an excellent showing. Marching clubs, together with a delegation from the Furniture Dealers' Association came next, while clerks and miscellaneous units followed. The band was wholly of active military organizations. Colonel M. E. Finney and his staff were next in line. The band came members of the headquarters company, Harrisburg men who have recently been commissioned officers, and bringing up the rear was Company D.

Co. D Passes Through With the chiming of Zion Lutheran Church rings out a patriotic melody and the Eighth Regiment Band playing the national air, the parade was brought to a halt in Market street, where the various units were ranked to permit Company D to pass through.

Get Away at 9 O'clock At the trained there was a general stampede, and the efforts of city and special officers were required to bring about order. The officers were powerless to control the crowd that pushed back and forth in an effort to get a last look at the departing soldiers.

Until a late hour last night thousands of persons lined Mulberry street bridge, the passageway between the Pennsylvania and Reading railroad stations, to watch the train which the movement of trains could be observed. The train bearing Company D to Camp Hancock, near Augusta, Ga., left this place shortly before 9 o'clock.

Truck Company Goes Through Other troop trains bearing them from Scranton and other points were passing into the yards as the Harrisburg company was leaving. A large number of persons waited in the Pennsylvania depot hoping to get a glimpse of the Mount Gretna contingent. Disappointment was great when it was learned that the men would not be permitted to leave their trains.

Many Organizations in Line Among the organizations participating in the big parade were: The A. B. City Grays' Veteran Association, Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Scouts of Veterans, Stevens Memorial Methodist Church, Guards of the Sons, Harrisburg Reserves, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, B. P. O. Elks, Loyal Order of Moose, Dives, Fidelity and Security, and Company, Kaufman, Douthick's, Harrisburg Furniture Dealers' Association, William Strouse and The Globe.

The second division was headed by the Steelton band, which had been engaged by the Furniture Dealers' Association and which followed immediately after the band was preceded by ten proprietors of various stores of the organization.

Marching with the furniture dealers were 500 representatives of the following stores: Rothers Company, Furnings Company, Gately & Fitzgerald, Goldsmith, B. Handler, Miller & Kades.

Marshals and Aids The following persons had charge of the parade: chief marshal, Aids, E. C. Humer, chief marshal, Aids,

13,000 WORDS TO LOOK AFTER U. S. INJURED ABROAD

No Need of American Army in France Left Uncovered

Washington, Aug. 21.—The extensive scope of preparations for the peace, comfort and recreation of American soldiers in France is indicated by reports from Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, head of the Red Cross commission in France, made public today.

No need of our army which we can possibly foresee will be left uncovered, said Major Murphy, who has been a member of General Pershing's staff to aid the co-operation between the Red Cross and Army authorities.

Thousands of selected trained nurses have enlisted for duty in the fully organized base hospitals in France, and great quantities of hospital supplies for drugs and instruments are already in France or awaiting orders of Major General Murphy.

To Aid Blindfold Six hundred trained stations in charge of trained nurses have been established along the route taken by troops from the landing port to camp. The stations are being used for three days, owing to congestion of French railroads. Canteens with bath and refreshment facilities are being established for use of troops when the routine of trench duty begins.

Dr. Edward T. Devine, director of the New York School of Philanthropy, has been selected to study methods of teaching crippled or blind men to be self-supporting. A Red Cross institute for encouraging this work for the establishment of new work $50,000 given by Jeremiah Milbank of New York.

43 YEARS OF LIFE IN JAIL Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 21.—After forty-three years spent in the Arkansas penitentiary at Little Rock, Joseph F. Jones has returned here to look after the rest of his life that was broken when he was sent to prison.

When a young man Jones went to Arkansas to work on a farm. He met and loved the daughter of the farmer who employed him. The girl had another admirer, who was the son of a wealthy farmer. He did not like the intrusion of the young man with Jones and fought a knife duel with him at the gate of the girl's home. When the fight ended Jones' rival was dead.

After a hasty trial Jones was convicted of murder in the first degree and sent to prison for life. After four years he was pardoned and laid before the Governor. A pardon was granted. Old man Jones walked out of the prison. The girl for whom he had fought had never married, but she had long since been dead. Penitents Jones walked from Little Rock to Owensboro. No one remembered Jones as a stranger in his own home town.

FISH WITH FUR COLLAR Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—A fish with a collar of fur just back of the head in place of gills was pulled out of the Iowa River at Dows by Raymond Peterson with a hook and line. The fish had a body like a eel, four legs and was 24 1/2 inches long. It was sent to a museum.
