TENNIS MATCHES THRILL CROWDS

Lieut. R. Norris Williams, 2d, Wins Over Throckmorton; Hard Battles

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Playing true to form throughout the fourth round of the national patrictic singles tournament here yesterday, eastern and western experts in equal number won places in the seminal round, to be contested on the courts of the West Side Club to-day. Although there was an absence of the upsets which marked the opening round of the play for the tennis association ambulance fund, there was at least one surprise which startled the close followers of lawn tennis.

Craig Biddle, of Philadelphia, forced R Lindley Murray, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., to draw on every ounce of his endurance and skill in order to win after a gruelling five-set match. Murray has been favored by many close followers of the game to win the present tournament and it was thought that he would have little difficulty in disposing of his veteran opponent of to-day after his thrilling victory over W. T. Tilden Jr., another Philadelphian, in the preceding round.

Biddle Is Supreme

Biddle Is Supreme

Biddle surprised and aroused the gallery of several thousand spectators to continuous rounds of applause by his determined stand against his younger rival. Playing briliant yet steady tennis, in which he showed his ability to handle and return in the form of clever placement shots the terrific service and voileys of Murray, he repeatedly drove the California expert to the limit of his endurance

The professional boxing game passes in New York State on August 27. It is reported that some of the promoters will attempt to continue under the club system but from what Governor Whitman has said these attempts will be blocked. Some of the more prominent promoters have announced that they will not try to continue. They will take their boxers through "the sticks" and give exhibitions until the interest dies.

When it is driven out of New York professional boxing will have been ousted from its last stronghold. There is no place in the United States now where bouts may be fought to a decision. Jimmie Coffroth, who promoted a number of championship fights, when the game was brisk in California, is trying to start interest in a few bouts in Tia Juana across the Mexican line. His big card will be Jess Willard and the winner of the Fulton-Morris fight.

There was a time when such a bout between a pair of giants might have Morris fight.

There was a time when such a bout between a pair of giants might have drawn thousands from all parts of the world. Sportsmen would have come from London, Paris and even from Petrograd to see it. But that was before the war. A Morris-Willard fight to a finish at Tia Juana would hardly lure affy patronage from Europe.

The arrival of the first American casualty list from France will be the quietus on any lingering interest in prizefighting. The Willard-Morris fight, if it should be staged, would be the limit of incongruity.

NEW YORK'S TWO CHAMPIONS

The pasing of the fight game will see New York in possession of two championships. Benny Leonard will retain the lightweight championship and Al McCoy, of Brooklyn, will pass into ring history as the middleweight champion. Leonard won his championship fairly and is admittedly the best of the lightweights of to-day, if not the equal of any of those who have held the title in the past. Al McCoy is far from a Ketchel or a Jack Dempsey but his claim to the middleweight title is technically correct.

A BOXER AND THE FIGHTERS

The tip-off on the boxing game was given by a crowd of small boys on a cross street at Fifth Avenue the other day. A crowd of youngsters were following Benny Leonard and the group looked like Gibson's picture of "The Champion."

Champion."
Suddenly there came the blare of a brass band. A detail from the Seventh New York Regiment on the way to join the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" was pasing up the avenue. "Gee, soldiers!" cried one of the boys. In an instant Benny Leonard's admirers had forsaken him and were scampering toward the avenue to see the men in khaki swing by.

Even John L. Sullivan in these days could not hold his followers if General Pershing happened to be passing on the other side of the street. Which would indicate the growth of a clearer sense of values.

Chourke, Boucket to taking third.

Asked is Bush was on the market and would be sold or traded, Mack replied:

"Not this season. He will not play in organized baseball again this year. I have not decided what I shall do with him next year."

O'Rourke, Boucket to taking third.

While Pitler was disengaging himself from O'Rourke and preparing to relay to first for a double play, Hickman went home.

Trapshooting Is Different Kind of Sport

We like to compare our sport with other sports, and in nearly every phase it is different.

Athletes arrive at the pink of condition only after a severe course of training.

The trapshooter attains a condition of proficiency by gradual and pleasant stages. When he steps to the score he is no different than he has been for the preceding month or year even. He is his natural self. If he trained it would spoil him; he simply keeps his hand in and may enjey in full the social element that is so inherent in the sport.

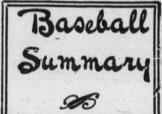

Indeed, he need not give up any of his habits of hobbies, but bring them along with him, so long as he lays them aside when he is in actual action.

He is a spectator and a participant, and the blend is entirely pleasant; this an ideal condition that he would not change if he could.

Seeks Middleweight Honors RICH STAKE IS

Gus Christic, the western middle-weight, believes if given a chance he will win the middleweight champlon-ship. He has fought many good men and those experts who have watched him believe he will develop into a good fighter.

A third heat in 2.02% was the feature of the Grand Circuit race meeting at Belmont Driving Park yesterday. It was made by Miss Harris M. in 2.01%, a bay mare by Peter the Great, and was her first winning race of the year, and, incidentally, it was the first defeat administered this season to Single G, the racing sensation of the year. Miss Harris M was driven by "Lon" McDonald and won the free-for-all pace in straight heats, upsetting the "dope" of the wise ones and establishing a new record for pacers over the Belmont track. Ben Ali clipped the track record on Tuesday, when he won the Hotel Adelphi stake.

Single G had made seven starts this season, six of them on the Grand Circuit, and in every instance but this he was returned the victory.

HITS AND OUTS OF THE GAME

HITS AND OUTS OF THE GAME

Three straight whitewashes. Largest crowd of the season.

There may be better fielding first basemen among the amateurs in Har-risburg than "Putty" Lynch, but they are scarce. The former Tech, Central and Academy star has gone through the entire Allison Hill series without one error. "Jo Jo" may be a little awkward in smothering the ball, but none got away from him this season.

Wertz got the applause of the cro Wertz got the applause of the crowd when he raced in back of second and made a one-hand shoestring catch of Captain Shickley's line drive. "Pete" bawled out the Reading player for rebbing him of another hit.

Klerner was again in the game, al-though suffering from his inury re-ceived Monday night. He made the niftiest stop of the game at short.

George Levan walked six times in the series, which is quite a record when it is considered that the Read-ing team was at bat in only twelve innings. George is a good waiter.

"Benney" Kline had his right thumb knocked out of joint in the last round and retired in favor of Lescure.

The Reading management is out with a chrlenge to the West End team for a series of games for the city championship. Allison Hill fans are sure that with Wertz in the box and Kline back of the bat, their team will win the city series. Kline is back-stopper for both aggregations.

The winers held the losers to ten hits and no runs in the three games. Johnson hit for the Stanley team in each of his two contests.

Lescure was the best sticker of the series with a hit in each of the second and third games, while in the first one he batted out two.

'AUGUST 23, 1917.

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—The $5,000 stake for 2.11 trotters was the feature event of the fourth day's card of the Grand Circuit meeting at Belmont Park to-day. This event was the chief attraction of the meeting and with the best bunch of trotters of the year entered, every promise of a big field starting one of the best races of the scason was looked for. Dreams, Peter Chenault, Ima Jay, W. J. Leyburn, Bonnie Del, Chilcoot, American Girl and Empress of Russia are some of the stars to meet in this race.

The other stakes, both of $2,000, and the two-year-old trot, also for a purse of $2,000, made up the balance of the program.

Officials say the meeting has proved a great success to date and with the best program of the week scheduled for to-day, a record-breaking crowd was expected. The weather and track conditions were good.

Lebanon is going to fight hard to win the first pennant in the Bethle-hem Steel Corporation League. In-dications are that a post-season series will be necessary to decide pennant honors.

Keating and Babbington, former New York State League stars, are big factors in Lebanon's position in the Bethlehem Steel Corporation League, Both are hard hitters. Keat-ing is playing a sensational game at short.

Reading copped the Allison Hill pennant, and the silver trophy. Honors came through superior baseball playing. Every player on the winning team was a factor and deserves the highest praise. Stanley A. C. remained in the series until the finish. With the exception of the players who quit in Tuesday's game, the Stanley boys showed pluck. They were outplayed and outgeneraled.

Manager Charles J. House holder, of West End, Willing to Meet P. & R. Team

Manager Charles J. Householder of he West End A. A. team is willing to play a championship series with the Reading Railway team. The latter last evening won the Allison Hill championship and immediately challenged the West End team for a series for city honors. If contests are arranged midweek games will be necessary. This may interfere with a complete series, as West End players, it is feared, will not be able to get away from work to play twilight games.

Platt was late reaching the field and Wertz pitched the first inning.

The Reading crowd will have a trophy cabinet made for the cup, and hope to land others in the future.

Twenty-one hits and only two errors tells the story of the victory in the three short contests.

And now for the city championship.
