LOVELY TRIBUTE TO THREE FRIENDS

Theodore B. Klein Makes Happy After-Dinner Talk to Trio on Birthday

Just after a picnic dinner was served yesterday afternoon in Reservoir Park at the triple birthday celebration arranged for President Theodore B. Klein of the Historical Society of Dauphin county, Mrs. George King Keet and George King Keet Jr. Mr. Klein, selected as orator of the occasion, made the following speech, showing conclusively that at the age of eighty-six his pen is as facile and his thought as beautiful as in the old days: Kind friends—

Every day in the week of every month in the year is an anniversary of some mortal's birth. Some linger and breathe a few hours a few days or a few months or a few years and then fade away as a flower and pass out of sight; some stem the food and live on and on through autumn and winter, through years and years until, tired through years and years, until tired of all earth's pleasures, weary and worn and sad, bid farewell to relatives and friends and pass on to the other life. Some days seem to be more celebrated than others because of some famous person having been born on that day of the month. George Washington, the father of his country, was born on the twenty-second day of a cold month, but George King Keet Jr., was born on the twenty-second day of a warm month, and so was his good mother, and so was his old neighbor, who tells this story, and so we three of the warm time are here to-day to congratulate each other on our birthday anniversary.

We represent three stages in the great drama of life: First, innocence and youth, free from all care, just starting in the great race with nothing to worry about, with no tasks to fight but to be amused and chase the gay butterfly as it flits from flower to flower, and any day a happy boy—who has lived in his short life up to this time to have more days and months of years in his life and never, never be clouded beyond the ordinary of a summer shower. The second picture in our group is the fond mother of the "happy boy" who received as her birthday gift the tiny "Baby Boy," who now prattles her name at all hours of the day. Warmest congratulations and good wishes come to her from far and near and after her 12,049 days and busy care for others and herself she is entitled to and worthy of them all. Long may she live to enjoy life and good health and prosperity.

In conclusion, Time has dealt kindly with the third page of our little story whose birthday we think of to-day, who has lived 31,390 days, which have passed during his stay so far. To review the past days and weeks and months and years, and to record their memories would fill a very large book and might not be worth reading. So we will not weary with the long, long story of the old man of our party—we only note that we three may meet again with our friends who have joined in our birthday greetings and celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Tremper, of Washington, D. C., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harper, of North Second street.

Charles A. Yahn, of 504 South Thirtieth street, James G. Elder, of 242 Harris street, and Earl L. Kunkle, of Paxtang, are spending several days at Mount Gretna.
