

STRIKE CLOSES GREAT COPPER MINES IN WEST

Only Handful of Men Report For Work at Anaconda Smelter

Butte, Mont., Aug. 27.—Thousands of miners are idle to-day because of the shutdown of all the copper mines of the district, made necessary by the closing Friday of the Washoe Smelting plant of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company at Anaconda when of 3,000 men employed on the day shift, only 110 reported for work.

Indications are that the independent mines of the district which did not shut down Friday will be compelled to cease operations in the near future. Miners gradually are falling to report for work at the independent properties.

Prisoners Working on Farms in 12 Counties

Edward Wilson, of Philadelphia, assistant agent of the Board of Public Charities, son of the late Mayor Wilson, of this city, has been detailed by the Board to investigate the workings of the law passed by the last Legislature permitting prisoners in the county jails to be sent into the open to do work for farmers who are in need of hands to gather the harvest.

Eighteen counties have been visited by Mr. Wilson and in twelve of them found the plan to be working admirably, and his information was to the effect that the new law is a success. In the other six counties the county authorities were either ignorant of the law or indifferent to putting it into operation, and nothing had been done, but the promise was made that next year they will all endeavor to observe the new law. Mr. Wilson says that wherever in operation the authorities have been very much pleased with its workings, and there is no doubt that in time every county will place their prisoners to work with the farmers.

This year the work of the men has been devoted to gathering the harvest, the law coming too late to permit of the employment of the prisoners in planting, but this fall and next spring the prisoners will be sent out to plant, passing the winter months in prison. The prisoners really like the work they do, it being a relief from confinement in the jails, and only those physically unable to work were not sent to the field.

CAMP HANCOCK BOYS MAKE SIGHTSEEING TOURS IN AUGUSTA

Soldiers Spend Sunday in City and Attend Religious Services; Fight Fire and Yellow Jackets, Which Flames Stir Up

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 27.—Sunday, known in the Army as a "flat" day because work ceases for twenty-four hours, was in no sense flat here in interest of amusement for the boys of the advance details of Pennsylvania's Twenty-eighth army division. Aside from assembling at reveille and retreat, they had only one duty to perform, and that a more or less optional one—attendance at religious services. Thereafter they were at liberty to spend the remainder of the holiday as they pleased.

As a result Camp Hancock was virtually deserted. Few visitors motored to the site because the soldiers flocked into the city or roamed in squads about the surrounding country. They visited theatres, slept under the trees, gathered in groups in shady spots to sing songs, while others remained in their tents and spent the afternoon writing letters home.

The leisure hours gave the men the first real opportunity to see Augusta, and they took full advantage of it. A majority of the more than 3000 men spent the day here. There was not the slightest disorder reported. But there was little amusement for the boys, for late in the evening they were called upon to fight what might have developed into a disastrous fire. It was discovered in the heavy pine woods about half a mile from the troops' camp. In fighting the flames, which at times shot fifteen to twenty feet into the air, the troopers stirred up several regimental quarrels, some of which resulted in yellowjackets, whose fighting qualities are beyond dispute. As a result, many of the troopers lay in their quarters to-day nursing swollen arms and faces. The fire, of undetermined origin, was particularly hard to combat, because the troopers could not attack

He is the first general to take up camp quarters, as Brigadier General Logan and his staff, and Brigadier Generals O'Neill and Stillwell, are still living at the Hermitage. General Logan was accompanied to camp by the officers and enlisted personnel of his staff. He spent the night in what will be a mess hall of his command, but will take up permanent quarters to-morrow. To be prepared for all emergencies, the General and his party brought five days' rations with them, together with other supplies and two horses. General Logan is eminently satisfied with conditions here and expressed amazement with the remarkable progress made in construction work.

German Is Drafting Prisoners to Fight

Copenhagen, Aug. 27.—The difficulty which Germany is experiencing in obtaining men to fill the ranks is shown by an interpellation presented in the Reichstag by Deputy Davidson calling attention to the petition of the military authorities in recalling to the service pensioners who have been discharged for disabilities. The interpellation says men receiving pensions for fifty per cent, and more of total disability and even cripples to whom supplementary pensions have been granted are being constantly forced into the army again from hospitals before their treatment is completed.

Berlin Is Depressed

By U. S. Embargo
An Atlantic Port, Aug. 27.—Many passengers who arrived here yesterday from a neutral European port on a neutral steamship expressed the opinion that Germany is hard hit economically, that her food is low and that discontent prevails throughout the empire, except in Prussia, where the military set and its constituents are feeling the trying times the least.
American trade restrictions upon the north countries, they declared, had created much depression in Germany, since the Germans had counted on getting winter supplies of foodstuffs from the Scandinavian countries. On board were persons who had recently been in Germany and they had talked freely of Germany during the voyage.
